By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — The muting of Fidel Castro's rocket-rattling warnings to the United States heightened speculation here today that Moscow has advised him to take a more moderate course in his dealings with Washington.

The Kremlin's hand may be behind the lessening of attacks in the government press against President-elect John F. Kennedy—in contrast with the increased tempo against President Richard M. Nixon—possibly with a view to keeping a path open to later conciliatory approaches.

It was noted here that Prime Minister Castro's newspapers and radio made no mention of Soviet rocket support in their blasts at President Eisenhower for ordering U.S. Navy ships and planes to set up anti-invasion patrols off Guatemala and Nicaragua.

The Eisenhower order — the result of a request from Guatemala and Nicaragua who charged unsuccessful revolts against their governments in the past week were aided by Cuba—set off a chain furore, including both critical and approving comment in Latin America on the naval action and a Cuban letter of protest to the United Nations.

Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras said he favored a Korean-type police action against Cuba, and both Guatemala and Nicaragua were reported considering invoking the hemisphere's 1947 Rio de Janpeiro treaty of mutual assistance.

Castro's boasting of Soviet rocket support ceased almost abruptly before the present blowup in the Caribbean. This kind of talk abated after Castro himself told Cubans on Nov. 9 not to depend too much on Soviet offers of assistance.

This speech followed by three days another by Soviet

Symington Meets With President-Elect, Says Cabinet Position Not Discussed

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy and Sen. Stuart Symington, (D-Mo.), today discussed revamping the Defense Department to provide "the right kind of organization" for this nuclear space age.

Symington, head of a Kennedy-named study committee on Pentagon reorganization, put it that way at a news conference after a 95-minute meeting with the president-elect.

Symington, frequently mentioned as a possible Kennedy choice for secretary of defense, said in reply to questions that there was no discussion at today's session of a Cabinet post for him.

The senator, said he told Kennedy last August that he would rather stay in the Senate than have a position in the executive branch.

He added that his study committee on Defense Department re-organization hopes to have its report completed by the end of this month.

Symington said reorganization must recognize the great technological developments in fields such as space. The aim, the senator said, is "more for the taxpayer's dollar."

CAP Planes Hunting For Lost Pilot

Civil Air Patrol planes under the direction of the Sixth Air Force Region Search and Rescue Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, today were searching for a civilian pilot believed down on a flight from San Francisco's Crissy Field to Bakersfield.

The pilot, a civilian employee at Edwards AFB near Victorville, took off from San Francisco yesterday morning at 11:55 o'clock. His destination was Edwards AFB with a re-fueling stop scheduled for Bakersfield. His last radio contact was with the control tower at Oakland.

Maj. Victor L. Wright of the Hamilton sub-regional rescue patrol center, said the search planes were from Palo Alto and Fresno. Due to fog conditions, he said, they were prevented from starting their search until about 10 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff's deputies from Bakersfield were also searching the surrounding area, Major Wright said.

Soviets Rip Congo Move

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Russia charged today that the United States was trying "at all costs" to suppress the nationalist movement in the Congo by blocking the seating in the General Assembly of representatives of "the legal" government of leftist Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Zorin said Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu had no authority to appoint a U. N. delegation without the consent of his parliament, and stated that the president of both chambers of the Leopoldville Legislature had challenged the action.

Aggies Show Prize Stock In San Rafael

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

A corner of the courthouse green was turned into a farm fairground today as members of the Novato Aggies 4-H Club placed some prize stock on display.

The stock looked plump, shiny and healthy. 4-H leader William H. Melson of 1456 South Novato Boulevard commenting on the stock noted, "if they can't make show, into the pot!"

Melson explained that the purpose of the display commemorating Farm Week was "to acquaint city people with what rural kids do for a pastime."

A young voice yelled, "a chicken just laid an egg . . . production's going up." The egg-laying red-combed white leghorn belonged to Bill Wright, 17, of Vineyard Road, Novato. Bill's two Rhode Island Reds and White leghorns were being presided over by his 16-year-old brother, Dick, a student at Novato High School.

Four rabbits lay on their haunches in raised pens in the middle of the display. Two of the rabbits, New Zealand does belonging to Mike Giari, 12, of 1871 Marion Avenue, looked a little worried about the commotion.

Two sisters, Marilyn, 12, and Betty Benaski, 15, of 674 Peach Street, watched over a brightly colored food display spread out on the courthouse lawn.

Marilyn noted that there would have been more than the Australian squash, gourds and Indian squash but that "everything is dead now." The show ended at 3 p.m.

U.S. Says Cuba Getting Soviet Bloc Arsenal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

The State Department announced last night that according to the best available information the government of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has already imported 28,000 tons of arms from the Soviet bloc, including tanks, guns and eight MIG jet fighters.

AUTOMATIC RIFLES

According to the department's figures, Castro has received a total of 93,000 automatic rifles, including 45,000 from Communist Czechoslovakia; 10,000 submachineguns; a variety of heavier weapons and 10 Soviet helicopters.

The State Department said Castro now has the largest army in Latin America.

ARMS SUPPLY

The Soviet Union and Red China are cooperating in the supply of arms to Castro, the State Department said, because they "apparently desire to contribute to Caribbean tensions by burdening the Cuban economy with excessive arms purchases and by supporting the aggressive policies of the Cuban prime minister."

Washington officials expressed the hope that disclosure of the Cuban arms information, evidently obtained from intelligence sources, would alert other nations throughout the hemisphere to the dangers of serious Communist-directed trouble.

TEENER SHOT IN NEW ORLEANS DISTURBANCE

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A teen-age Negro boy, shouting obscenities about the courts and the white people, ran amuck with a knife in the French quarter today and severely wounded a small white boy before he was shot down by police.

The Negro slashed away at whites along Dauphine Street in the latest outbreak of racial violence brought on by tensions over integration of New Orleans schools.

Deputy Hurt As Driver Resists Arrest

A sheriff's deputy was sent to Marin General Hospital early this morning following a battle in which he and a fellow officer forcibly arrested a Sausalito man on charges of driving with a revoked license.

The suspect, Willie Lord Williams, 28, of 210 Spring Street, was scheduled to appear in court Monday on charges of burglary. He was booked this morning on the additional charges of resisting arrest and driving with a revoked license.

According to Sheriff's Deputies Boyd Burnham and Dennis Shine, Williams was driving from Marin City to Sausalito. With him was Tari Marie King of 710 Spring Street, Sausalito.

When the car was stopped at Bridgeway and Northbridge, Williams and Miss King exchanged places at the wheel. Deputies stopped the car to question Williams about his driver's license.

Williams said he changed places because he was to be tried for burglary on Monday, he would be "dead" if caught driving without a proper license.

The officers said he "resisted violently," cursed and kicked them when he was placed under arrest.

Violinist Triumphs

MOSCOW (AP) — A comparatively unknown young New York City violinist last night scored the biggest and most unexpected American musical triumph in Moscow since Van Cliburn. Joyce Flissler was kept on the stage of Tschaikovsky Hall by a storm of applause.

Decrease Set In Prisoners At San Quentin

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A reduction of about 1,000 in the number of prisoners in San Quentin Prison during the year starting next June is forecast in the budget being requested by the Department of Corrections for operation of the Marin institution.

Walter Dunbar, deputy director of the department, said the reduction would be accomplish in the face of an over-all increase in the number of prisoners throughout the state because of the opening of the new medium security facility, Las Padres, near San Luis Obispo.

The number of prisoners throughout the state is expected to increase from an estimate 21,515 at the end of next June, to 22,715 a year later. But San Quentin's population will be reduced from about 4,800 to 3,850 in the same period.

The new Las Padres prison, scheduled to open in the middle of next year, will initially take about 2,400 men and the expansion of the forestry camp program will take others, making the reduction at San Quentin possible, Dunbar said. This still leaves the prison crowded, he noted, because its capacity is supposed to be 2,700.

At the same time, he insisted, the reduction of the number of prisoners "does not endanger anyone's job." He said that normal turnover in staff would accomplish the expected staff reduction, although it was possible there would be some

Presbyterian Pastor, Six Children Perish In Minnesota Auto Accident

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A Minnesota pastor and the six children he was caring for while his wife attended a school play were killed last night when his car slammed into a concrete bridge abutment.

"The worst I've ever seen and it makes it more terrible because of the children," said Sheriff Gerald E. Cunningham.

"It looked like that car had been cut down the middle by a giant pair of shears."

Killed were the Rev. John Eastman, 28, and all his children—Pamela, 7, Mary, 5, James, 4, Carol, 3, Thomas, 2, and John about 10 months.

The crash came on a county road near Dover, 15 miles east of here, as Eastman was driving the children to visit the family of a fellow pastor at Plainview.

The sheriff reported the impact drove the concrete bridge shaft about eight feet into the car pushing the instrument panel into the rear seat.

Eastman was thrown from the car. The children were mangled within it. Wreckers had to be called before all the bodies could be removed. The pastor died in an ambulance on the way to a Rochester hospital. A passing motorist found the wreckage.

Eastman had served Presbyterian churches at nearby Utica and Lewiston, 30 miles east of Rochester where the family lived, since 1957.

"Our whole town is feeling this blow," said the Rev. Walter Meyer, pastor of Lewiston's German Lutheran church. "Everybody knew John and loved him. His was a happy family."

Mrs. Eastman had gone to the school play with neighbors while her husband was baby sitting. She was in shock and under the care of a physician after being told of the tragedy.

To eke out his income, Eastman had driven the Lewiston school bus for two years. He was an avid golfer and bowler and a leader in the Lions Club and the Masonic Lodge.

Gas Prices Cut In Bay Stations

Independent stations in the East Bay were reported selling regular gasoline at 20.9 cents per gallon, but Marin prices remained today at about 29.9 for major brand regular.

One chain in Marin is selling at 27.9 for regular and 31.9 for ethyl. An independent station in Fairfax was reported offering regular for 26.9.

Communists Hold Red Summit Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leaders of the Communist world today were reported drawing up a communique on a Red summit conference so secret no official had admitted that it took place.

The departure of Czech President Antonin Novotny for Prague appeared to signal the windup of the week-long gathering of Communist leaders as guests of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

SEEK CHURCH SITE—Dr. Dallas Wagner of Loch Lomond points to the general area in East San Rafael where the newly formed congregation of Saint Luke's Presbyterian Parish proposes to build a sanctuary. New Congregation To Hold First Worship Tomorrow

The two-month-old congregation of Saint Luke's Presbyterian Parish will hold its first worship service tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the home of organizing pastor Ralph Shanks at 50 Las Casas Drive in Loch Lomond.

Rev. Shanks, before coming to San Rafael to organize a new church in September, was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Helena.

The new congregation is made up of versatile members. For example Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Walker of 44 Las Casas Drive donate their home as nursery, Walker is usher and chairman of a committee to find a site for a sanctuary, and Mrs. Walker is the congregation's secretary.

Church planning sessions are held in private homes where along with "banana cake and cider" committees for details of worship, program study, telephone chain, and finances function.

The congregation already has a news letter called the Saint Luke's Log because, said Rev. Shanks, "if you have read Acts 27, you will find that Saint Luke was a navigator as well as a physician." It could also be pointed out that the manse is located several blocks from San Rafael Bay.

The program committee, headed by Clayton Rice of 337 Point San Pedro Road, will examine programs established churches in the Presbytery have used for many years, and select, or put together, one they think would be the best or most promising for Saint Luke's, said Rice.

While Saint Luke's does have a formal communique and has formed a committee for sophisticated programming, like many a new church it has no organ, and the pastor reports "no organist in sight."

Pastor Shanks said the manse would be used for worship until a more suitable place was found.

Thankfulness

Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, tomorrow at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services will preach a sermon entitled "How to Be Genuinely Thankful on a Full Stomach."

I-J WILL LIST THANKSGIVING CHURCH RITES

The Independent-Journal will publish a list of special Thanksgiving services in Marin churches in next Wednesday's edition.

Annual Rate Of Income On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income of Americans climbed to a record annual rate of 409.6 billion dollars in October.

The total was 800 million dollars higher than the annual rate for September and was 25 billion above the annual rate of October last year.

The Commerce Department, in announcing the figures Thursday, said a dip in the total wages paid factory workers in October was more than offset by small gains in pay for government, construction and retail employees. Farm income dipped slightly during the month. Income of business proprietors and professional men improved slightly.

Lutheran Church Will Give Up 66 Members

At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera will lose 66 members.

Pastor George O. Loftness announced that at the special early worship service, 17 families will be officially transferred from Marin Lutheran to the newly formed Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

In announcing the transfer, Rev. Loftness explained that the out-going group is not being dismissed, but rather the action will "be a sending forth of Christ's servants into a new field to gather other members for the Kingdom and to minister more effectively to young and old in a new area."

This is not the first time Marin Lutheran has been generous with its members. In 1956 the church transferred 38 members to the then newly established Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Marin Lutheran itself was established by Loftness 13 years ago this month with the congregation of 37 members officially formed a year later.

Loftness reported that during the first month of Marin Lutheran's operation only 102 persons attended worship and total offerings were $80.05.

Today the church's membership is 547 and the operational budget this year was $41,580 with $8,000 going to missions and charity.

Confirmation Set At Holy Innocents

The Convocation of Marin will hold the Rite of Holy Confirmation at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish, Corte Madera, tomorrow with the Rt. Rev. Henry H. Shires, retired Suffragan Biship, officiating.

Candidates for confirmation, as well as members to be received from other communions, will be presented by Rev. Kenneth Cleator of St. Francis Mission, Novato.

Sheriff To Speak To Church Youth

Youth from the Bay Area zone of the International Walther League will be addressed by Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael, announced pastor Fred C. Braunschweiger.

Some one hundred members of the religious organization and representing 11 churches, will participate in the program of "worship, education and recreation," to begin at 2:30 p.m. said the pastor.

Jubilee Planned

Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon, resident of Kentfield and vice president of the advisory board of directors of St. Mary of the Palms in Fremont, announced that a program will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the institution to celebrate its 50 years of service as a child welfare center.

Baptist Guest

Pastor Lawrence Pollock of the Grace Baptist Church in Boyes Hot Springs, Sonoma County, will be guest speaker at the 6 and 7 p.m. worship services Sunday at the Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, announced Rev. Michael Barkowska, pastor.

The oldest stained glass in the world is certain figures of the Prophets in a window in the Cathedral of Augsburg, Germany, dating from the 11th Century.

Annexation Question On Agenda

What's going to be done about annexation of Terra Linda to the City of San Rafael?

That is the question to be considered Monday night when the San Rafael City Council meets at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

Under consideration is a resolution setting a public hearing and calling for a special election to annex about 7,000 Terra Lindans to the city. At their last meeting, councilmen balked when they learned that they might not get two park sites in Terra Linda.

PARK SITES

The Terra Linda Community Services District voted to turn over Del Ganado and Oleander park sites (4.8 acres) to the recreational district.

City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw will make his report on the situation to the councilmen Monday night.

Two public hearings will be held at the council meeting—on a protest by Dr. William S. Neal, owner of the Marin Medical Center, against a use permit granted for a 20-unit apartment on Professional Center Parkway and on the city's new municipal code.

NOT EXPECTED

Councilman Fred Jensen, at the last council meeting, declared the 412-page municipal code wasn't what he had been expecting for the past six years.

Approval of the code book was postponed and the city attorney was directed to invite to Monday night's meeting Robert T. Anderson, Berkeley lawyer who drew up the original codification.

Councilmen are expected to appoint a chief building inspector to fill a vacancy created by the death of Clifford Monk on Oct. 16.

Also scheduled for council consideration are protests from property owners in the Villa Real subdivision against a variance permit granting a nine-foot fence around the tennis court of Melvin Marlowe at 50 Arguello Circle.

Kenya Topic For Speaker At College

Dr. Gikonyo Kiano, minister of commerce and finance of Kenya, Africa, will speak at College of Marin Nov. 28 at 8 p.m. on "Africa, the World and the West."

Dr. Kiano's visit to the United States is in conjunction with the convention of the Institute of International Relations at the end of this month in San Francisco. He is one of the principal speakers at the convention.

His talk on the Kentfield campus will be for the benefit of the Committee for Kenya Students, an organization formed two years ago and which sponsors about 30 Kenya students attending various colleges in the Bay Area.

Dr. Kiano and his wife own andoperate a private school of high school level in Kenya where he teaches when time permits He was educated at Antioch College, Stanford University and received his Ph. D. from the University of California.

His Marin appearance is being sponsored by St. Cecelia's Guild of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley, and by the International Relations Section of the American Assn. of University Women.

AF Announces Deadline On Dependents

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has taken the first concrete step to carry out President Eisenhower's order to reduce the number of wives and children living overseas with American servicemen.

NO FAMILIES

The Air Force yesterday set a deadline of next Feb. 1 for overseas travel orders for dependents of its uniformed personnel.

After that date, the Air Force said, those going to overseas assignments must go without their families.

The Air Force said exceptions "will have to be granted for humanitarian considerations, hardships and peculiarities of selected Air Force units."

Secretary of the Navy William B. Franke said detailed Navy plans are now being prepared to carry out the gradual reduction of overseas dependents.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, for the second day in a row, Friday implied that the order might serve to weaken American military effectiveness abroad.

'FORWARD STRATEGY'

Brucker told a Retired Officers Assn. convention the presence of service families overseas is evidence to friend and foe that U.S. "forward strategy is not a fly-by-night arrangement." Previously he had expressed concern over the effect of the order on morale of overseas troops.

The Army has 248,788 dependents overseas. The Air Force has 197,438, and the Navy and Marines have 37,837.

The Eisenhower order calls for the total number of overseas dependents to be reduced by 284,000—about half the total.

Teacher Salary Group To Hear Finance Expert

The Novato Teachers Assn. salary committee will hear from an expert on school financing Tuesday night—and has invited the Novato Unified School District trustees to sit in, too.

Dr. Oscar Anderson of the San Francisco State College faculty, school finance consultant to the California Teachers Assn., will be the speaker, committee chairman Jack Weston announced today.

The meeting will be in the district administration building at Novato High School.

Yule Club Offers Writing Contest

A writing contest with more than $20,000 in prizes is being sponsored for those who belong to, or join, the Christmas Club at First National Bank in San Rafael.

The contest requires writing an original true story on the subject, "My Personal Experience With Christmas Club and Financial Institutions."

Christmas Club will award a 1961 Rambler station wagon, a Rambler sedan and 176 additional prizes to national winners in the contest.

Free copies of the contest rules and a complete list of prizes are available at all offices of First National.

Marin Bond Sales

Marin County savings bond sales totaled $101,215 for October, it was announced today by D. C. Davis, Marin County savings bond chairman. Sales throughout the state reached an all-time high of $10,160,191, an increase of 2.6 per cent over the same period last year, Davis said.

Rites For Gable Conducted With Dignified Solemnity

Curious Swarm To Cemetery But Keep Distance

GLENDALE (UPI)—Final rites for Clark Gable were conducted today just as the great movie star had hoped they would be, with dignified solemnity.

Crowds of the curious swarmed two miles up the cemetery hills attempting to reach the chapel, but only a few hundred managed to reach the area of Forest Lawn's Church of the Recessional where the funeral took place. They were orderly, however, and kept a discreet distance.

Gable had feared that upon his death his funeral might become a spectacle such as the one that took place two years ago when Tyrone Power died.

Instead, the Episcopal service was quietly attended by his wife Kay—who is expecting the actor's first child—her two children, and 500 friends.

The private military funeral was attended by the great names of Hollywood, his first co-star Norma Shearer, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor and Jimmy Stewart, all pallbearers, and Robert Stack, Ann Sothern, Jack Oakie, Van Johnson, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, and Frank Capra.

Chaplain Johnson E. West of March Air Force Base read from the 46th and 121st Psalms and the Epistle to Thessalonians for the former "GI" who rose from the ranks to become a World War II major.

Mrs. Gable was dressed in black and accompanied by her children, Bunker, 10, and Joan, 9. She was dry-eyed when she entered the chapel, but tearful as she was led from the services on the arm of the chaplain.

An Air Force honor guard stood by in shiny chrome helmets, blue uniforms, white scarfs, belts and gloves. The 59-year-old Gable's body was dressed in civilian clothes.

After the services the casket was opened for members of the family who filed by to bade a last farewell.

Entombment will take place next week. Gable's remains will be placed in a crypt beside those of his third wife, Carole Lombard.

WIDOW—Carrying the American Flag that stood near his casket, Clark Gable's widow, Kay, leaves church in Glendale, escorted by Air Force Chaplain Johnson E. West.

TRACY—Spencer Tracy, who appeared in many films with Gable, arrives for the funeral service in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. (AP Wirephoto)

Recreation Unit Gets Park Deeds

At a 15-minute special meeting last night, the board of directors of the Terra Linda Recreation District accepted deeds to two park sites, eliminating the last snag in the proposed annexation of Terra Linda to San Rafael.

Deeds to the 4.8 acres of land of the Del Ganado and Oleander park sites were given the district by Joseph R. Gunn III, president of the Terra Linda Community Services District Board.

There was no opposition to the action, said Walter J. Fairweather, chairman of the recreation district board.

Republican Trouble-Shooters Mulling Decision On Recount

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican trouble-shooters are being sent into eight states to take a "close, hard look" at the presidential election results—and decide whether recounts could change those results.

The decision was taken yesterday at a meeting of three of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's top echelon campaign strategists, Leonard W. Hall, Robert H. Finch and Fred C. Scribner. Finch emphasized that Nixon himself had no part in the plan and hadn't been consulted.

Republican party representatives are being sent to Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Lou Guylay, spokesman for the Republican National Committee, said an estimated 25,000 complaints claiming voting irregularities have been received, many urging recounts.

He said the party agents will check these complaints and try to determine whether a recount in those states might turn Republican defeat into belated victory for Nixon.

As it stands now, with vote counts still trickling in here and there, Democrat John F. Kennedy still has assurance of 300 electoral votes, 31 more than the minimum for election.

Golden, Silver Anniversaries Will Be Feted

An unusual double anniversary will be celebrated tomorrow as a Greenbrae mother and daughter mark their golden and silver weddings together.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgarrald and Mrs. Josephine Ouellette were both married on the same date, because, as Mrs. Ouellette says, "the general time we planned for my wedding was so close to my parents' anniversary, that it seemed a shame not to make it on the same day."

The two couples are so close that they have lived in the same house most of the Ouellette's married life. They lived in San Francisco until six months ago, before moving into a new house at 195 Via Lerida.

James Fitzgarrald met 14-year-old Elizabeth Cavin in a Clay Center, Kan., skating rink in 1906. Soon he was carrying her skates home regularly, then her books. After four years, when he was 20, they were married. After 15 years of married life, they decided to make a new start, in California.

Settling in San Francisco, Fitzgarrald became a printing salesman, an occupation from which he is now semi-retired. Soon they had two small daughters, Geraldine and Josephine. As in any family, the girls were grown "almost before we realized it," Mrs. Fritzgarrald now says.

In the deep depression of 1933, Josephine attending a party, met Ronald Quellette. Within two years they were married at the Grace Cathedral chapel. Three years later, their son, Lindsay, now a USC senior in Telecommunications, was born.

Geraldine had become Mrs Lee Martin and mothered four children. She is expected to be in San Francisco tomorrow to attend the celebration, along with 15 out of town relatives who have come to swell the guest list to more than 200.

Also among the guests will be Estell Smullin and Florence Nordquist, widowed sisters from Clay Center, girlhood friends of Mrs. Fritzgarrald, who came to Marin early in order to bake the cake for the event.

Officers Hear Crime Specialist

About 65 or 70 peace officers heard criminologist Dr. Paul L. Kirk discuss "criminalistics" Thursday at the Marin County Peace Officers Assn. dinner meeting in San Rafael.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, host for the evening, introduced the well-known professor from University of California. John R. Flor, president of the peace officers group, was master of ceremonies.

Unknown Tenant Made Apartment In Pillbox

Furniture and personal belongings of a tenant who was "evicted" from his pillbox apartment overlooking Muir Beach on Thursday were still waiting to be claimed today in the Marin County Sheriff's office.

The home from which the unknown occupant was "ousted" is an abandoned concrete artillery emplacement which was complete with a padlock on the door. Removing the lock, officers discovered the interior to be tastefully furnished with a chair, table, Sterno stove, razor, candles, a stock of groceries, daily newspapers dating back to May and several Army shirts and trousers.

The "apartment," measuring 10x10 feet, apparently had been used as a weekend retreat, Sheriff's deputies said. The clothing bore the name "Donelski."

The name Donelski was turned over to Hamilton Air Force Base Intelligence for investigation, but officials at the base reported no such name in their files.

Discovery of the off-beat apartment was made by Mrs. Helen Newman of 841 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon, while walking on the nine-acre site. It formerly was owned by the Army, and was purchased last month by the county for a park.

Undersheriff Eugene Meyer said he regretted the eviction. "The place was very neat and tidy," he said.

Officials said they were not "after the guy," but wished he would come in and pick up his belongings.

Housewife Due Sentence For Theft

Novato housewife Helen June Winsor, 40, originally accused of fraudulently receiving welfare aid, will be sentenced next month for petty theft.

Mrs. Winsor, mother of two, yesterday pleaded guilty to petty theft before Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court. Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino said the original charges of grand theft and perjury were dropped because the amount of welfare aid she had received was not large, and there is indication that she may have been entitled to what she received even if her husband's allotments had been declared.

Antoan W. Adam, investigator for the district attorney said Mrs. Winsor got about $400 in aid since last July. At the time she applied, she said she did not know her husband Earl's whereabouts and was getting no support from him.

Winsor is an operating engineer living in San Francisco. He is now accused of failing to support his family.

Mrs. Winsor will appear in court at 3 p.m. Dec. 1 for a probation report and sentencing for petty theft.

Marine Reservists Set 'Toys For Tots' Drive

Marin Corps reservists of the 14th Rifle Company will conduct their sixth annual county-wide "Toys for Tots" campaign starting Friday and continuing through Dec. 19.

Persons who wish to contribute may leave toys in special barrells which will be distributed to Shell service stations throughout the county.

Capt. Ole B. Christensen, commander of the 14th Rifle Company, urged local school, church and civic groups to organize toy drives among their memberships. New toys or toys in good condition are needed.

Toys left in the barrels will be taken to the reserve company's headquarters at the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, Kentfield, for distribution by local welfare groups and the Mill Valley special training school for children.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the training center. Home pickups of large amounts of toys may be arranged.

Milk Price Hearing Set In Sausalito

The state department of agriculture will hold a public hearing in Sausalito, Nov. 30, to consider increasing the minimum price of milk in the Marin marketing area.

The hearing will be held in the Fiesta room of the Alta Mira Hotel, 126 Buckley Street, beginning at 10 a.m.

The present minimum prices for milk sold to consumers in the area are 24 cents per quart at stores and 25 cents per quart delivered at home.

Director of Agriculture William E. Warne said the hearing had been called in response to a petition from Milk Distributors of Marin requesting an increase in price to offset increases in labor and distribution cost.

The petition stated that since the last price change, in August, 1957, two sizeable wage raises have occurred as well as an increase of three per cent in paper milk carton prices.

At the hearing, the department will not propose any new minimum milk prices but will consider testimony by distributors and other persons affected by the minimum wholesale and minimum retail prices for fluid milk in the area.

Tamarancho Rifle Range Dedication Set

Dedication of a Rotary Club service project — an official small bore rifle range at Tamarancho Boy Scout Camp—is scheduled for tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

Rotary Clubs of Sausalito, Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Novato and San Rafael joined in providing the rifle range as part of a long-range plan for scouting in the country, said Marin Scout Executive Storrs Smith.

This program envisions laying out facilities for an increase in the number of Marin Scouts from the present 5,000 to more than double that in 20 years.

Tamarancho is located two miles above Fairfax.

Presidents of each of the Rotary Clubs in Marin will fire the first rounds on the new range Sunday. Refreshments will be served. Marin Rotarians and their families have been invited to attend.

Panel To Discuss If Kindergarten To Be Eliminated

McConnell will explain the policy of kindergarten preparation for first grade. Mrs. Tremmeling will discuss the burden on first grade teachers when kindergarten does not precede first grade.

The proposed 1961-62 budget, being prepared for presentation to the legislature in January, is an "austerity" budget, Dunbar said.

No new programs are contemplated for the prison next year. However, the budget provides for continued expansion of the forestry camp program and for continuation of the narcotics return program, a pilot program in operation this year designed to assist released narcotic adicts who appear to be returning to the habit.

Only two items are listed in the capital outlay category for San Quentin, the deputy director said.

Two hundred thousand dollars have been earmarked for a new warehouse in connection with the cotton mill and other prison industries.

An $8,000 item has been set aside for equiping the new Protestant chapel scheduled to be built this year.

The chapel, a $242,000 structure, is to be started in January, with completion by the end of the year.

Another major construction project due to start right after the first of the year is a $224,000 boiler plant. Plans are this too will be completed by 1962.

Youth Treated For Concussion

A youth who was not even listed as slightly hurt in a Highway 101 crash early Thursday was in San Rafael General Hospital today because of it.

He is Jefferey Smith, 17, in good condition with a concussion unsuspected when he walked to the home of his step-father, Robert Paginini, at 482 Los Collindas, after the mishap in Terra Linda area.

Smith was seated as passenger in a car driven by Ronnie Dale Wright, 17, of 592 Woodbine Drive, which suffered ignition trouble at 1 a.m. and drew up on the highway shoulder where it was struck a few second later by an overtaking car occupied by two young airmen. Both the latter were hospitalized.

The two boys walked home casually and Smith's mother observed that he had "a big knot on his forehead," while he said he felt effects of neck whiplash. The airmen told investigators that their car had been going 50 to 55 miles an hour before striking the Wright car, parked on the road shoulder with ignition trouble.

Yesterday afternoon Smith fainted and was taken to the hospital.

Former Marin Man Arrested For Thefts

Well-informed sources said some of the Soviet diplomatic mission have dropped hints that the Kremlin, busy with its own problems with the United States, would like Castro to be a little less belligerent.

After harsh attacks on Kennedy after his election, some of the Castro papers appear to have dropped him.

People To People: A Story In Photos

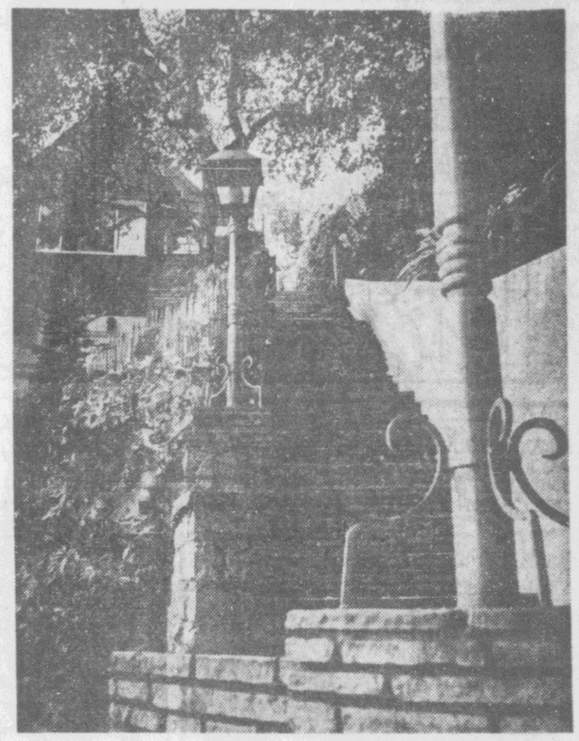

Sausalito has on display through tomorrow more than 70 photographs by some of her artists of the camera, which make up an unusual international friendship exchange exhibit for her "sister city," Vina del Mar, Chile.

The photos, now on display at the Sausalito City Hall, are to be sent to the Chilean city for permanent display. The idea of the collection was started by the late Dulce Duncan Ray, noted photographer of the waterfront, and carried on by Ted Castle with assistance of other photographers.

Today is Saturday, Nov. 19, the 324th day of the year with 42 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1831, James Garfield, 20th president of the United States, was born near Mentor, Ohio.

In 1863, President Abraham Lincoln, delivered the now famed "Gettysburg Address" at ceremonies dedicating the Battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., as a national cemetery.

In 1874, William Marcy Tweed, political boss of New ork's Tammany Hall, was convicted of defrauding the city of about $6 million.

In 1874, the national Woman's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland, Ohio.

A thought for today: American poet John Greenleaf Whittier said: "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: It might have been!"

Giants, Bulldogs Each Land 4 Stars On Team

By PAUL MILLER

Marin County Athletic League Champion Redwood Giants and the San Rafael High Bulldogs tied in the amount of players to land 1960 All-League berths at award ceremonies participated in by former All-Pro quarterback Otto Graham at the College of Marin yesterday.

The awards, presented by Graham at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes sponsored affair, were decided by the balloting of Marin football coaches in a survey conducted by League Commissioner Victor Jones.

The Giants and the Bulldogs each had four players selected for the county-wide honor, and each team had two men who made both the offensive and defensive team in their respective positions. Marin Catholic High had three players chosen and two of them made the offensive and defensive team. Novato High also had three of its players make All-League, with one honored offensively and defensively.

Both Tamalpais High and Sir Francis Drake High had two players placed on either offensive or defensive teams, with none on both.

Ted Mitchell, KTIM sports director, was the master of ceremonies in the hour-long event at which the following high school gridiron athletes were honored:

THE ALL-STARS

Cal Riemcke, head basketball coach at the College of Marin and director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Marin, introduced Graham, who spoke before the awards were announced.

Riemcke explained that the Fellowship of Christian Athletes was made up of sportsmen who participated in "the great adventure of following Jesus Christ." Included among the many members of the national organization are Doak Walker, Alvin Dark and Bob Feller, he said.

Graham, who in his 10 years as quarterback for the Cleveland Browns gained more yards by foreward passing than any other player in history, including Sammy Baugh, is in the Bay Area as representative of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy where he has been athletic director and head football coach for two years.

Graham told the some 200 players and coaches assembled in Olney Hall that it was his philosophy that "sports should be fun, and if it is not fun for you to play football, then you don't belong on the field,"

The quarterback, who while with the Browns saw the Cleveland team as league champs or runner-ups every year, and champions four straight times of the old All-American Conference, and winners of the National Football League title in 1950, 1954, and 1955, said he would not give up his academy coaching job for $50,000 a year and a 10-year contract.

COACHING PRESSURE

"I took this job at the academy in New London, Conn. because the big-time coaching racket is not worth being in," he said. He referred to Minnesota's coach whose family last year received threatening phone calls and who was hung in effigy for a poor season, while this year he "could run for governor because he has a winner."

"The way you get winners to fill the stadiums ~~to get more~~ money is to get good players by piling into your car each summer and chugging from this speaking engagement to that, and roping the best players—all the time away from your family. A lot of money buys a lot of headaches, and they, along with what you have to subject your family to, is not worth it," declared Graham.

Speaking in behalf of the Coast Guard in which he is a commander, Graham urged the high school youths to consider the academy where "men enter by competitive examinations, not congressional appointments—it's not who you know, but what you are able to do that gets you into the Coast Guard Academy," he said.

Graham told the football players that he believed the Fellowship of Christian Athletes was the "finest organization in the world."

ALL-PRO WITH ALL-LEAGUE—Former all-pro quarterback Otto Graham, now coach of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, visited Marin yesterday and presented certificates to these outstanding players who were selected to the All-Marin County Athletic League team. Giants' Video Plans Worry Collegiates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, long under pressure to televise some of their road games, now are urged just as strongly to stay off the screen during football games at Stanford and California.

Alfred R. Masters, athletic director of Stanford University, said yesterday that competition from the Giants would carry "the almost certain possibility of destroying intercollegiate football."

Thomas J. Hamilton, commissioner of the Athletic Association of Western Universities, said, "It has been conclusively proved that television sports broadcasts have caused serious damage to attendance at competing sports events. It's essential that sufficient protection be given our youngsters' activities . . ."

Only a month ago the San Francisco Board of Supervisors passed a resolution asking the Giants to telecast some road games. The Giants announced this week they will televise all 11 of their games at Los Angeles.

Giants-Eagles Head Schedule Tomorrow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last time the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants met on consecutive Sundays the Eagles swept the pair to climax their third straight Eastern Conference championship in the National Football League. That was in 1949.

Now the Giants are shooting for three titles in a row and are 3-point home favcrites to defeat the conference-leading Eagles tomorrow in the headline game of six on the NFL schedule. The Eagles (6-1) and Giants (5-1-1) meet again next Sunday at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, beaten only by the Cleveland Browns, is riding a six-game winning streak and wants to extend it right on through to 11-1, matching their record in '49, the last year they won the title.

The Giants must win to take over first place. The Eagles can retain the lead with a tie. Both clubs have been hit with injuries.

Philadelphia will be without Clarence Peaks, the league's fourth leading ground gainer with 465 yards and a key blocker in front of passer Norm Van Brocklin. Peaks suffered a broken leg last Sunday in a 19-13 victory over Washington.

Veteran quarterback Charley Conerly and end Kyle Rote are both New York question marks. Conerly hurt his knee in directing a Giant rally that beat Pittsburgh 27-24 last week and Rote has had a fractured bone in his hand for two weeks.

The third-place Browns (5-2) are at Pittsburgh and rate 5-point favorites over the Steelers (2-5-1). A Philadelphia victory would send Cleveland into second place, but the Browns probably would prefer Giant victories both this week and next because of the schedule. The Eagles already have split with Cleveland and have a relatively easy schedule after the Giants. The Browns, beaten once by New York, get another crack at the Giants.

In the Western Conference, the Green Bay Packers (5-2) can tie the idle Baltimore Colts (6-2) for the lead by beating the Los Angeles Rams (2-5-1) at Milwaukee. Green Bay is favored by 12.

Third-place Chicago (3-3-1) is home to the Detroit Lions (3-4), and the Bears are 7-point favorites.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals (4-4) are road favorites by a touchdown over Washington (1-4-2) and San Francisco (3-4) is at the Dallas Cowboys (0-8) in a battle the 49ers figure to win by 14.

49ers Favored In Dallas Tilt, But...

DALLAS (UPI)—C. R. Roberts will make his debut as a San Francisco starting back tomorrow when the 49ers invade the lair of the Dallas Cowboys.

Otherwise, the San Francisco lineup will present the same old faces.

The 49ers have been installed as two-touchdown choices over the winless and win-hungry Dallas club, but the up-and-down manner in which the 49ers have been performing indicates they could just as easily win by 40 or get upset. It's been that kind of a year.

Coach Red Hickey said that John Brodie would start at quarterback. Y. A. Tittle is reported still slowed down by a groin injury received three weeks ago, but is ready to go should the erratic Brodie have an off day.

Roberts is a former USC performer who teamed up with Jon Arnett to form a legendary running combination for Troy. He has bounced around several pro teams, but has showed flashes of running talent in brief performances with the 49ers during the past two seasons.

He'll join dependable J. D. Smith as tight back with R. C. Owens on the wing.

LITTLE OFFENSE

Neither team has shown much offense this year, with the edge, surprisingly, going to the Cowboys. They have scored 14 touchdowns while losing eight straight. The 49ers have pushed over only 10 touchdowns while winning three of seven.

The defensive lines and linebackers of the two teams both rate fairly even and the difference would seem to lie in the defensive backfields.

The 49ers' crew has been solid, save for a momentary lapse or two against Green Bay and Detroit. Dallas has been riddled by ace throwers like Baltimore's Johnny Unitas.

If Tittle gets in, the 49ers could present a backfield with no first names, just initials—Y. A., C. R., J. D., R. C. It's going to be pretty confusing if one of them is tackled by L. G. Dupre of Dallas.

PRO CAGE IN S.F. TOMORROW

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the second time this season, the Los Angeles Lakers call the San Francisco Cow Palace their home tomorrow as they meet the Detroit Pistons there.

After a Sunday night game on Nov. 6 drew only 2,600 fans, the Los Angeles National Basketball Association club decided to try a 3:30 p.m. starting time tomorrow.

Attendance at the two regular season games here will be watched closely as the NBA ponders future expansion.

Hank, Armstrong On TV Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Hank, knockout conqueror of 33 of his 60 opponents, and Ace Armstrong, who never has been stopped, meet tonight in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC TV, 7 p.m., PST).

Armstrong, 27, and a non-winner in just two fights this year, no longer is ranked among the top 10. The rangy boxer from Elizabeth, N.J., has to win if he wants to get any more worthwhile fights.

Hank, the No. 5 contender among the 160-pound set, is the 8-5 favorite.

Scoring will be by the rounds

Halfback Pat Morgan and tackle Pete Dornbach this week were honored as most valuable players on the Tamalpais High School varsity football squad.

Their selection as the outstanding back and lineman was announced at a banquet in honor of the school's football squads.

Other honors went to Tracy Oldham as the most inspirational player and Norm White most improved on the junior varsity and to David Walker as the most improved player on the freshman team.

Larkspur Burning Will Be Allowed

Burning will be permitted in incinerators from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. instead of only to 11 a.m. Open burning will be allowed with a permit obtained from the fire department. No burning will be allowed after 4 p.m.

3 Seconds To Go—Safety! San Jose Wins 22-20 Tilt

SAN JOSE (AP)—A controversial safety with just three seconds to play gave San Jose State a wild 22-20 victory over Idaho Friday night.

Idaho had led for 55 minutes. Though San Jose threatened three times in the first half, the Spartans trailed 7-6 at halftime. And San Jose still was a point behind, 13-12 as the third period ended.

Galen Rogers scored on a plunge and quarterback Sil Vial tossed 12 yards to former Drake High star Reg Carolan of San Anselmo for Idaho's six-pointers. A Ron Ismael kick spelled the difference. The Spartans chalked up spectacular touchdowns by Jim Cadile and Johnny Johnson. Cadile went 46 yards with an intercepted pass. Johnson tallied on a 54-yard scamper.

The Vandals scored again on a Vial pass to Dawn Fannin and led 20-12 with five minutes remaining. Then San Jose paved the way for its stunning safety play when Clarion Appledoorn zipped across on an end around, then scored a two-point conversion on the same play. That made it 20-20.

Just three seconds remained when Spartan quarterback Chon Gallegos had his long pass intercepted by Idaho's Jim Davidson near the end zone.

Davidson was knocked to the turf by San Jose's Mac Burton and officials ruled Davidson had possession ahead of the goal line and went back into the end zone. Had he caught the ball in the end zone, it would have been a touchback, not a safety.

Idaho Coach Skip Stahley went home infuriated and said he's waiting to see movies on the play.

"The way I saw it," he said, "by the time Davidson had the ball he was in the end zone."

Brazilian Jofre Kayos Sanchez For Bantam Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brazil has its first boxing champion in history today and Eder Jofre's right hand thus becomes as famous as coffee and the samba in the South American republic.

The lights went out at one minute and 30 seconds of the sixth round for the stoic Sanchez. Jofre's right didn't travel far. It didn't have to.

Post Offices Plan Uniform Yule Schedule

The same hours will be observed this Christmas season by San Rafael, Kentfield, Sausalito, San Anselmo, Ross, Novato, Mill Valley, Marin City, Larkspur, Fairfax, Corte Madera and Belvedere-Tiburon post offices. This will be the first time all these offices have set up identical schedules for the "big rush," said San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams.

On Sunday, Dec. 18—one week before Christmas — post offices will be open from 1 to 4 p.m.

Starting Dec. 12, the Monday-through-Friday hours will be extended to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. until Dec. 23, when they will return to 5 p.m. closing.

On Saturday, Dec. 10, they will provide window service from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; on Saturday, Dec. 17, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; on Saturday, Dec. 24 —the day before Christmas— from 8 a.m. to noon.

Post offices will be closed both Christmas Day and Monday, Dec. 26.

Next week, the post offices will start hiring extra help for the rush season. Postmaster Williams plans to add 130 persons during the Christmas rush.

Court Won't Review Brown Act Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has declined to review a decision in which it was held that the Brown secrecy-in-government act does not apply to municipal gatherings except formal meetings of city councils or their subordinate bodies.

The case was brought by three plaintiffs, Florence Adler, Merle Linthacum and Lee Simpson, who sought to invalidate a Culver City Council action rezoning 10 acres for use as a shopping center.

They complained that the planning commission had met with a principal at a private, informal dinner four days before the application was filed. The commission however later held two public hearings before making its recommendation to the council.

The Second District Court of Appeals held that the planning commission was an advisory body and not a legislative group. Thus it ruled that the Brown Act did not apply.

In seeking a high court review, the plaintiffs contended that the ruling in effect destroyed the Brown Act as far as it applied to municipalities. This was denied by the Culver City attorneys.

'Bagdad Bash' To Be Played Again Tonight

Harem girls, caliphs, beggars and two innocent tourists will again take over the stage of the Novato Community Clubhouse tonight for the "Bagdad Bash."

The "bash" was written by Novato resident Judy Gilbert for performances by the "fling" section of the community club. Doors will open at 8 p.m. for the cabaret-type setting, with beer being served at spectators' tables.

Jury Decides Suit Damage

A Marin County jury Thursday decided that $4,880 in damages should be paid to Daly City purchasing agent Robert Evans and his wife, Phyllis, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in 1958.

Attorney James J. Duryea of San Francisco, representing the Evanses', said he feels the verdict was "satisfactory."

The jurors heard the case before Judge Richard M. Sims in Marin Superior Court and decided that Robert H. Fox, a scientist at the radiation laboratory in Livermore, should pay that amount to Mr. and Mrs. Evans.

Evans was headed north on Highway 101 on May 11, 1958. He stopped at an intersection. A car driven by Fox struck the Evans vehicle. Mrs. Evans said she suffered severe injuries to head, neck and shoulders.

Shone Heads Sheriff's Posse For '61

Raymond H. Shone of San Rafael will captain the Marin County Mounted Sheriff's Posse next year. He replaces Frank Monte of Sleepy Hollow.

Other officers elected for 1961 are Neville Chillson of Novato, first lieutenant; R. D. Howell, of San Anselmo, second lieutenant; William McClellan of Novato, secretary, and Joseph Pecora of San Rafael, treasurer.

The new officers were installed at a dinner dance meeting at Rancho Nicasio, attended by members and their wives. Honored guests were Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and State Sen. John F. McCarthy. Serving as emcee was William T. Endicott, KPIX television station announcer and a resident of Terra Linda.

In accepting the appointment to head the group of mounted deputies, Shone gave credit to Sheriff Mountanos for instilling new spirit and enthusiasm in the organization since he has been in office. The group now consists of 65 members.

He said that plans for the coming year include more participation in parades and statewide events. New equipment has been purchased which will enable the horsemen to represent Marin County in outside activities to better advantage.

Kappas Asks Extension For Dredging

George Kappas has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a three-year time extension within which to complete dredging and filling work already authorized for property along the south side of Richardson Bay.

It is intended to dredge to a depth of six feet below mean lower low water level to establish the Rosedale Canal, running into the Saucelito Canal and extending northeast from Petaluma Street to cross Humboldt, Donahue and Railroad Avenues.

Adjacent streets and tidelots will be filled. The fill material is to be retained by a bulkhead along the Rosedale Canal.

Kappas has been involved in sometimes heated discussion with Marin County planners, supervisors and Public Works Department over his fill and projects with investigation still under way to ascertain whether the flood control aspects of Richardson Bay are endangered.

There was also a recent question of whether a clubhouse to be built on submerged land for the Sausalito Cruising Club was to be located on Kappas-owned property, or public streets. This, however, ended when the club withdrew its permit petition and decided to build elsewhere.

Any objections to extension of the army permit must be submitted in triplicate to the Corps of Engineers.

Here's Final Rundown On Vet Measures

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California voters approved two veterans' tax exemption measures on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Since Prop. 3 and Prop. 11 carried conflicting provisions, do both become the law?

No, state legal experts say.

The measure receiving the higher vote prevails, and that is Prop. 3.

It will permit totally disabled veterans who have acquired homes with federal assistance to transfer their $5,000 property tax exemption to homes subsequently acquired.

Prop. 11 proposed to do the same thing. But it also would have limited the $1,000 property tax exemption for all veterans to those who entered service from California and those who were state residents on election day.

Gets State Contract

L. H. Leonardi Electric Construction Co. of San Rafael has been awarded a contract to install traffic signals and highway lighting and to revise curbs and sidewalks in Grass Valley, Nevada County. Leonardi's low bid totaled $17,194.

Fur Flies In Court Over Mink, Ermine

Fur flew in Marin Municipal Court yesterday as two irate Marin City housewives accused San Francisco furrier Murray Kaplan of failing to live up to agreements.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson pointed out he is no expert on ermine and mink, but legally he saw it this way:

Mrs. Myrtle M. Paige of House 135 should get a refund of $92 because the ermine jacket which she wanted altered into a stole came back in the form of a little shrug.

Mrs. Page wanted to know what happened to the rest of the ermine in the jacket. Kaplan said there just wasn't enough fur in that jacket for a cape stole.

The judge ruled Mrs. Paige did not receive what she had contracted to get. Therefore, the $92 down payment should be returned.

Mrs. Blanchie Goins of apartment 296 should get her mink tail fur back intact, but the $5 which she paid as down payment stays with Kaplan, the judge decided.

Mrs. Goins complained that last May she asked Kaplan to alter her fur piece. A few days later, he brought her a fur that was not hers. She said she made dozens of calls to get Kaplan to return her fur. He mailed her a package once, but she did not accept it for fear it would contain fur that wasn't hers.

Yesterday, Kaplan produced a package in court, and told the judge this was the one he had mailed to Mrs. Goins. The judge opened the package in court, and Mrs. Goins identified it as hers.

She grabbed her fur and tramped out of the courtroom when she could not get her $5 refunded.

State Park Purchase Completed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The State Division of Beaches and Parks has completed purchase of land on Mt. Tamalpais through Steep Ravine to the shoreline, connecting Mount Tamalpais State Park and Stinson Beach State Park, the division's public information officer said today.

The check for $200,000 was sent to the Kent Estate for purchase of 209 acres of the southwest slopes of Mt. Tamalpais to the ocean and typing into the south end of the Stinson Beach park, he revealed.

The purchase price brought to $543,000 the total amount of the $1,000,000 appropriation made by the legislature expended thus far for the expansion of the Tamalpais Park, according to Al Calais, the division spokesman.

Previously acquired were 600 acres of the former Diaz Ranch and 30 acres in small parcels high on the mountain. Negotiations are under way for approximately 280 acres of the Del Ponte properties. An agreement has been reached with the Brazil family as to the boundaries of the property within their ranch which the state will acquire, Calais said. Under way at present is a survey to determine the exact area involved and then negotiations will open on the price, he concluded.

Judy Manning Becomes Bride At Loma Verde Church Rites

Residing in San Rafael are the recently married Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gruver. The bride, the former Judy Jean Manning, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cullie Manning of Loma Verde, Ignacio. The new benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Gruver of Blue Lakes, Humboldt County, formerly of San Rafael.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown with a train. The tightly fitted bodice had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. A ruffled white nylon overskirt formed a "v" at the front. A beaded coronet of white nylon petals held the bride's veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The three attendants wore green changeable taffeta full skirted gowns. The matron of honor, Mrs. Carl Knutson of St. Paul, Minn., had yellow ribbon and veiling on her hair and carried a basket filled with yellow roses. The bridesmaids, Linda Norwood and Sandra Fletcher, both of San Rafael had pink ribbon and veiling on their hair and pink roses were in their baskets. Mrs. Arthur Meyer played the wedding march and Mrs. Charles Nelson sang.

Three year old Della Plant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terrel Plant of Fairfax and Joyce Shotwell, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shotwell of Novato were flower girls. Three year old Mark Smith, son of the officiating clergyman, and his wife was ring bearer.

Thomas Fyfe of San Rafael was best man and guests were escorted to their pews by the bride's brother, Jesse of San Jose, and Frank Maguire of Fairfax.

About 150 guests attended the reception in the early evening at the Manning home. The three tiered pillared cake was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. White carnations encircled the cake which was flanked by white candles. Mrs. Dorothy Simmons assisted in receiving guests and Sandra Fletcher was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a two piece satin brocade dress which had a small fur collar. Her hat was electric blue.

The bridegroom's mother was gowned in beige silk. Both mothers had corsages of orchids. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of San Rafael High School. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse R. Cornwell of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. C. Starkey of Oroville and sister of Jesse Fraser, George L. Fraser, who lives in Reno, and Robert C. Manning of Seattle, Wash.

The new benedict, manager of an oil station in San Rafael, is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Poleiro of San Rafael.

Marin Women

Mill Valley's Awareness Group Works Toward Civic Betterment

No one would think before the program begins at one of the luncheon meetings of Mill Valley's Awareness group, as the women are unofficially known among themselves, that its purpose is highly serious.

For that matter, the atmosphere of fun and relaxed informality continues into the program, whatever its subject, for there is much witty repartee between the speaker and listeners because members are permitted to ask questions at any time during the discussion.

Such was the case at Wednesday's meeting of the group composed of about 25 Mill Valley women who are very much "aware" of community problems and determined to do whatever they can about them.

Held at the home of Mrs. Edmund Gross, the meeting had as its subject the Mill Valley library. Speakers were Mrs. William Peavey of the Mill Valley library board of trustees, and Dorothy M. Thomas, librarian at the Mill Valley public library.

Two bond issues to provide funds for a new library having failed, Mrs. Gross took the occasion to satirize the situation in the titles of the "book" being read by dolls placed around the room in lieu of decorations.

Among them were "Mill Valley, the city of 'No's' ", "1,000 ways to defeat an election," and "60 to a classroom in '60."

Mrs. Peavey talked on functions and plans of the library board, explaining the proposed location of a new library as part of a living arts center in Mill Valley's lowlands.

She also stressed the desirability of forming a volunteer "Friends of the Library" group whose purpose would be to support it in anyway needed. Mrs. Peavey said that such groups have been successful in other cities and that organization can be flexible.

As a start toward founding this kind of endeavor those present who were interested were asked to sign their names.

Mrs. Thomas spoke on the services performed by the library, procedure in selection of new books and their processing, the problem of the use of the library by residents of outlying areas, and some of the library's extraordinary resources, such as its record department and unusual magazines.

She displayed some of the latter, including "America," in the Russian language, sent regularly from Russia, and the one sent from the United States, "USSR" to Russia.

Mrs. Thomas also explained the bill on state aid for libraries which will be brought up in January before the state legislature.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

Guidance Counsellor

Enrollment In Honors Courses Should Be A Voluntary Decision

P.L.R. "My daughter is discouraged. She is taking 'honors English,' and 'honors social studies' in high school. There's so much homework that she never finishes. Formerly she was an 'A' student, but now she gets 'B' and 'C' grades. She'll be handicapped in entering college. We asked to have her transferred back to the regular classes where she could earn 'A's. Her counselor said the transfer was impossible. I thought that honors courses were voluntary. Didn't you?"

Reply. They are voluntary in most schools. You and your daughter should have the right to decide. I suggest you talk with the counselor. If necessary, go to the principal. Grades received in regular class count just as much for college entrance as grades received in honors classes. "A" grades are important.

H.I.F. "My husband is fit to be tied. For several years he has played tennis with our son. The boy now is 15. Last Sunday he defeated his father in three straight sets. This is the first time that has happened. Must a father always win when he plays with his children?"

Reply. Fathers should be good sports. They should pick games which give the children a fair chance. When they lose they should not complain. I hope your husband will keep on playing tennis with your boy.

W.G. "We're trying to decide what words to use with our children for such things as bowel movements and special parts of their bodies. Can you suggest some words for us?"

Reply. Generally it is best to use the correct words. A bowel movement is a bowel movement, not something else. Children are less apt to be embarrassed or confused that way. They are more realistic about such things than most of us realize.

Quentin Aide Freed Of Smuggling Charge

San Quentin prison counselor Robert McKellar, 33, was freed yesterday of charges that he had conspired with a San Francisco couple to smuggle drugs into prison.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court decided that evidence was not sufficient to connect McKellar with the other two defendants, Theodore Edison Sr., 59, a stationary engineer, and his wife Juliett, 45. The judge found no evidence showing McKellar had conferred or conspired with the Edisons.

According to Assistant Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, McKellar was caught inside the prison with mace last year. A key found on McKellar belonged to a San Francisco post office box, which contained tubes of drisdan and wyamine. The writing on the packaged drugs was traced to the Edisons.

Bales said he would try to met more evidence connecting McKellar with the Edisons and to prove conspiracy to smuggle the drugs into San Quentin. "If we can't get more evidence, that will be the end of the case," said Bales.

This is the second time that McKellar has slipped out from under similar charges. The first time, Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori freed McKellar from a charge that he had smuggled mace into prison. The judge ruled that mace is not a drug.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation
H X X W N G! S G B, S U V Z R U N O' O N H U M J N H, E' J J V S U V X V Z X J I P I O R N M H N X — K N N O X.

The Laughter Of Children
Is Part Of An EICHLER HOME

We've never won an award for making children happy (although we HAVE won more awards than any home builder anywhere). And we can't promise that your children will be happy and laughing, EVERY DAY of the year—but this we do know: YOUR children will have more freedom and fun in an EICHLER than any other home built today.

WHY? Because EICHLER homes in sunny, charming Terra Linda Valley were architect designed especially for today's young families. 4 and 5 bedrooms, always 2 or 3 baths, radiant heated floors that children can play on in the middle of winter. Phillipine mahogany paneled walls everywhere that will withstand even the fiercest onslaughts of the young ones. Patented kitchen cabinet doors that are removable for easy cleaning and no hardwood for the children to smudge.

ROOM galore inside and out for play. And every home has a delightful private play area for the children. More freedom for the children, less work for you and more time to enjoy EICHLER'S exclusive inner court . . . Complete privacy and open to the sky.

THE ONLY home completely designed for California living.

If you're looking for the car that's one-in-a-million, then see this one before you do anything else.
Original couple bought it new from local Olds. dealer in '55 and traded on new Electra Buick.
It's all Arctic white without so much as a scratch on the original paint. The blue interior is absolutely as clean as the cars on our floor.
Has all the extras including power steering, power brakes, hydramatic, radio, heater, w/w tires and the works.
It's so clean you'll have to call the original owner, to make sure it's real.

Screen Loses Two Of It's Greatest—Gable, Sennett

The American screen lost two of its greatest this week.

One was an actor known and loved for more than 30 years as "The King" of Hollywood, Clark Gable.

The other was a producer, a man who made people laugh, a man who launched scores of stars, Mack Sennett, the king of the two-reelers.

Gable's he-man roles won him the respect and admiration of men and the devotion of women. Old timers will remember his hilarious role in "It Happened One Night," which won him an Oscar, and as Rhett Butler in "Gone With The Wind," the greatest money-making film.

He starred in "Mutiny On The Bounty," "Call Of The Wild," "Test Pilot," and many other smash hits. He also had his share, or more, of flops too in the 90-odd pictures which he made.

But through each of them, he stood out as a he-man, big ears and all. He was friendly and loved by other actors, stage crews, directors and producers. Even five marital expeditions did not dim his glamor. He recently finished "The Misfits" with Marilyn Monroe, his last picture.

Mack Sennett produced more than a thousand movies. He was the inspiration for the brainless "Keystone Cops," the leaping, falling, sprawling, pie-throwing, pantomimes that gave the nation belly-laughs.

He gave Charlie Chaplin his first job in Hollywood. He first screened W. C. Fields. Others he helped along the road to fame were Gloria Swanson, Wallace Berry, Harold Lloyd, Buster Keaton, Marie Dressler, Eddie Foy, Louise Fazenda, Hal Roach, and Bebe Daniels. Among his Keystone Cops were Charlie Chase, Fatty Arbuckle, Chester Conklin, Slim Summerville and Ben Turpin.

Truly he was one of the greatest producers the movie industry ever developed, but he dropped from sight when the screen started to talk and the double feature replaced the comedies.

With the deaths of Mack Sennett and Clark Gable, not one, but two eras come to an end. Both will live long in memory—and on TV.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Jean Bevans of Forest Knolls. He personally has undertaken the job of maintenance of the school bus station at Forest Knolls, clearing the weeds, painting it, landscaping it and teaching the children to take care of it. Even has a litter can and comes around regularly to empty it.

BRICKBATS to people who drive on rainy, foggy days without using full headlights on their cars. It's against the law to drive with parking lights only on, you know.

BOUQUETS to Sue Fitzharris of San Rafael and Loren Youngclaus of Fairfax for being named 4-H Club All-Stars.

BRICKBATS to those who talk a lot about Marin's musical groups and then fail to support Marin Symphony Guild when it's having a rocky time, as it is right now.

A BOUQUET for Joe Villareal Arrida, commended by Highway Patrol report for deliberately putting his big semi-trailer truck through a Waldo Grade guard rail when he found it rushing down-hill without brakes. As the truck fell 150 feet to burn, Arrida jumped to safety.

A BOUQUET to Alan Bruce who steps upstairs into the county administrator's job even though receiving a warning from one of the supervisors that the job "might be short-lived."

A BOUQUET to the voters of the state who rejected Prop. 15, the State Senate redistricting proposal, by more than two to one. But MANY BOUQUETS to Marin voters who rejected it seven to one.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

COSTLY MISTAKE BY GENIUS

Sir Raymund Hart, air marshal and British radar pioneer, died when he tried, while barefooted, to plug into a 240-volt electrical connection.

The son of the 61-year-old man said that his father had been cutting the lawn with an electric mower and was electrocuted as he tried to re-connect the cord which had become unplugged.

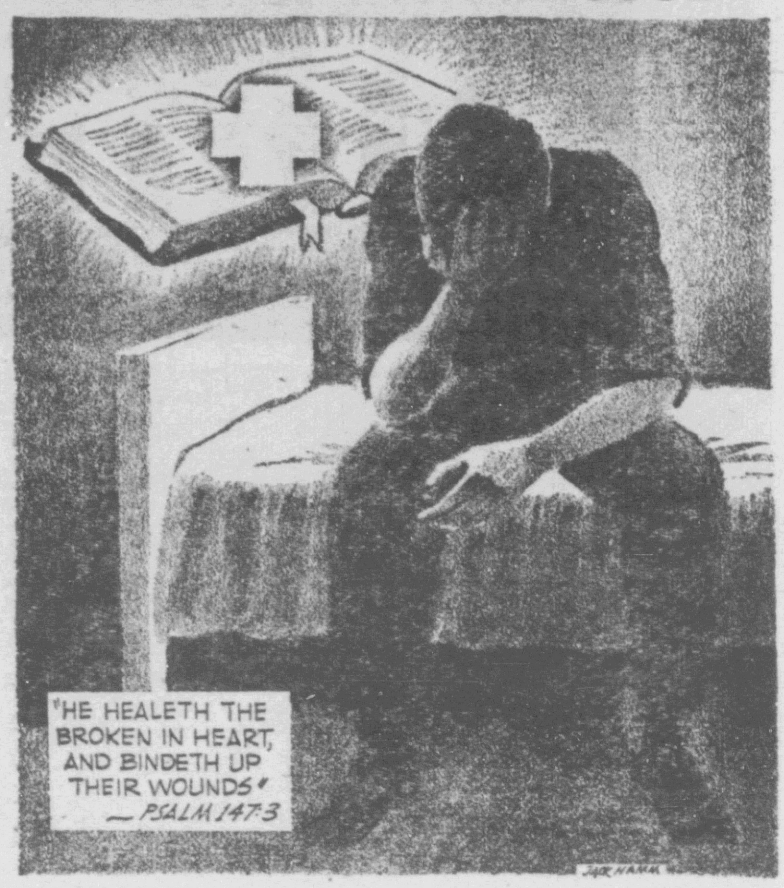

"It was the sort of mistake even a chap who could not change a fuse would be unlikely to make," his son said, "and yet my father, a genius in electronics, made just such a mistake. In his work he received dozens of electrical shocks and took no notice of them. Maybe he became careless, overconfident about electricity."

Any one of us can become complacent about matters that affect our very survival. Take care lest your slightest negligence in these fast changing times threatens your own peace and that of countless others for time and eternity.

"I desire thee to insist that they who believe in God may be careful to excel in good works." (Titus 3:8)

GOOD POLITICAL BET

Nixon Will Seek, Win 1964 GOP Nomination

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A good political bet for the winter books would be this:

Medical science and political history combine to support the conviction that Nixon will seek the 1964 nomination. An axiom of medical science and political history is this:

WHEREAS THE BITE of the presidential bug need not be and rarely is fatal, that bite is absolutely, unqualifiedly incurable.

Now, as to Nixon winning a second nomination in 1964. There is less certainty here, but not much. Some gaudy political blunder, of course, could disqualify Nixon between now and July, 1964. Cautious bettors will consider that factor and, probably, ignore it.

The Vice President emerged from the 1960 campaign a bigger man than when he entered. Nixon ran ahead of his party. He was licked by an attractive new political personality who, somehow, reminded a great many persons of the late, great FDR. Defeated though Nixon was, it seems reasonable to believe that the I-Hate-Nixon Legion has lost some membership and that the vice president has gained some political stature by the events of 1960.

TO CAP IT ALL, more than 33.5 million Americans wanted badly enough to put Nixon in the White House to go out and vote for him.

Sen. John F. Kennedy won the popular vote, but by the merest whisker. It must be accepted as a fact that Nixon has considerable attraction for those independents and Democrats who prefer to hold closer to the middle of the road than do the elements which control the Democratic Party.

Those are the Nixon plusses toward re-nomination in 1964.

The minus is double barrelled:

1. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would become a formidable contestant for the 1964 nomination if he were re-elected in 1962 by a decisive majority.

2. The anti-Nixon elements of the Republican Party might come up with a bright, new star in 1964 to stop him as the anti-Taft elements came up in 1952 with Dwight D. Eisenhower to stop Sen. Robert A. Taft.

OF THESE TWO possibilities, the emergence of Rockefeller as the 1964 Stop-Nixon leader is the more likely, however unlikely it may be. There is not in the works now, nor is anything in sight which might be expected to create for the Republicans soon another miracle man in the Eisenhower image.

There is no Republican governor other than Rockefeller in a position to establish himself nationally soon. There is no Republican member of Congress with the mark of greatness upon him plus an environment which would aggressively further his political ambitions.

Nixon and Rockefeller must share party leadership to some extent with Arizona's able and appealing Sen. Barry Goldwater. Arizona, however, is relatively small and remote, as are handsome Barry Goldwater's chances of taking over the Republican Party.

Can We Have Nixon, Kennedy Both Elected?

By CHAPIN A. DAY

DAY

Because of the closeness of the vote for President, could the Electoral College when it meets on the "first Monday after the second Wednesday in December" select John F. Kennedy as President and Richard M. Nixon as Vice President? we've been asked.

The answer appears to be Yes, they could. Lyndon Johnson could still be Texas Senator. We doubt, however, that they will.

Originally, our Constitution provided that the man who had the most electoral votes would be President and the man with the second highest vote Vice President. That was changed in 1804 when the 12th Amendment to the Constitution was ratified.

The amendment provides that separate ballots will be cast for President and Vice President. It does not require that the two successful men even be of the same party.

Actually, of course, you voted for electors, not candidates on Nov. 8. The 32 electors you elected here in California were pledged to Nixon for President and Lodge for Vice President. But that "pledge" isn't binding. They could, if they wished, vote for Nixon for Vice President.

The whole idea of an electoral college was devised by Alexander Hamilton. It was intended to be a council of the ablest men of the nation, chosen by the people to represent them in selecting a President who would carry out the wishes of the people.

It was felt at that time that direct election of a President would not be as effective for the populace would have difficulty learning about the candidates and might make a selection on the basis of emotion rather than merit.

Our wise Forefathers did not anticipate the emergence of political parties or the pledging of electors to one man or another before the election. Even in the early days, therefore, when parties quickly developed, the electoral college lost its original purpose. But we've held on to it ever since, although this year's close battle may well call for a major change in the system.

ANSWERS TO two other questions I've been asked often:

1.Each state has the number of electors in the electoral college that it has congressmen plus U.S. senators. California, for example, with 30 congressmen and two senators, has 32 electors and 32 votes. (The new census has given us eight more congressmen so next presidential election we'll have 40 electoral votes—if we still have an electoral college.)

2. The electors meet in each state on Dec. 19 this year to vote for President and Vice President. The sealed results of that vote are sent to the President of the Senate. On Jan. 6, the Senate President, "in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives," opens the sealed certificates and counts them. If one man has a majority of the presidential ballots, 269 electoral votes this year, he is elected President. If another man has a majority of the vice presidential ballots, he is Vice President. If there is no presidential candidate with a majority, the House of Representatives picks the President from the top three candidates. If there is no vice presidential candidate with a majority, the Senate chooses between the top two candidates. Voting in both the House and Senate on these selections is with only one vote to each state.

WITH PRESIDENT-E l e c t Kennedy and Vice President-Elect Johnson out deer hunting together, a horrible accident might happen. If it did and Kennedy was killed, the Electoral College still could name someone else to be President.

If Kennedy was killed after the Electoral College had met, Johnson would become President. If Johnson was killed, the post would remain vacant as it does if a President or Vice President dies in office.

We can picture the secret service men out in the woods with the two hunters, protecting against such an accident but trying not to scare the deer. Oh for the good old days on the golf course!

IF YOU THINK politics is now over, think again. The Republican County Central Committee is going to host a dinner Dec. 1 in Bob's of Marin, Corte Madera. Its theme: Task Force '62.

AND DON'T FORGET the State Legislature opens on Monday, Jan. 2, a holiday for everyone else. This is the year that the state's Assembly and Congressional Districts are to be reapportioned and the battle's already begun on who's going to do what to whom.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Hats Off To Harry Pieper

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Now that the football season is over, I would like to pay special tribute to Harry Pieper, football coach at College of Marin. I'm sure that all mothers of football players and football players-to-be will join with me in this tribute.

The decision that Harry Pieper had to make was probably one of the hardest and most heart-breaking decisions he ever had to make.

I'm not going into details, as the article printed in this paper about two weeks ago explained what this letter is referring to (the cancelling of the last games of the season).

As to the statement of one of the members on the board of trustees, all I can say is thank goodness he is not a football coach. If he were, no doubt regardless of the odds against the players, just so the school or college had the glory, go in there and play; don't worry about whether you are going to be permanently injured or not, after all, we have 10 players against 46. So what?

That probably would be his attitude, but not Harry Pieper. His boys' welfare came first, last and always, with a heart-breaking decision.

I, for one, will always remember him and I'm sure his players will too, and wish him all the luck for next year's football team.

Say Something Good Or Nothing

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I would like to call your attention to an article that appeared in your paper a few days ago. The article referred to was written by Carleton Williams. (I-J Reporter's Notebook, Nov. 11).

I refer you to this article as a subscriber to the paper plus a substantial advertiser in your paper.

I personally feel that if you allow such trash to appear in your paper you are either hard up for news and you needed to fill up a space or your paper is one page too large.

Anyone who would tear down our nation's number one peacetime industry needs analyzing. Either that person should take up residency in the foreign country he speaks of, or his writing should be censored by you.

I realize we have a freedom of speech, press, and etc., but we also have a responsibility to this nation and its economy. It is people such as your Mr. Williams who start the recessionary thoughts in people's minds.

In closing, a good philosophy for you to instill in such a weak character as your Mr. Williams is: if you cannot say something good about a product, please keep your pen in your pocket.

Space would not allow an intelligent person to critically compare his favorite love to the better product we produce in this country, to say nothing of how this product bolsters the American economy.

It Was Literally Raining Ducks, Two Deputy Sheriffs Swear It

It may have been raining cats and dogs last weekend, but whoever heard of ducks come raining out of the sky?

Sheriff's Deputies Ed Levine and Art Wiggins swear that it's true. And they're not the type to indulge in flights of fancy.

Last Sunday they bagged their limit of ducks, catching them on the first bounce as they dropped out of the sky in front of their car on Highway 40 near Knight's Landing.

The weather was foul (not fowl), with sleet and hail, as they drove home with one scrawny duck they had shot at Gray Lodge near Gridley. All of a sudden Wiggins yells: "Look, ducks!"

They were dropping on all sides. Levine and Wiggins jumped out of the car and picked up seven drakes and four hens, all still warm. Not a pellet wound was on them.

"I'd never believe it if someone told me such a story," admitted Sgt. Levine. "But so help me, we got the ducks."

His only explanation: Big hails may have knocked them out of commission, or a sudden draft could have tossed them onto the highway. There were no burn marks to indicate a lightning strike.

ASSISTANT D. A. Bruce Bales is g e t t i n g famous around here. When he visited San Quentin Monday on a criminal investigation, some 1,500 convicts lined up alongside him and b o o e d him s o u n d l y. The personable young D. A. was no doubt embarrassed.

But probably not half as much as a friend of mine, who was on a group tour of the prison. From the back of the big crowd of inmates came a friendly shout: "Hey, Dave. How are ya!" Turned out to be an old school buddy of his.

THE BATTLE FOR bail bond business at county jail is no longer in the headlines, but the in-fighting still goes on.

Inside the jail is a bulletin board where names and phone numbers of Marin's four bail bondsmen are posted. Two of the nameplates are defaced beyond recognition, and their phone numbers altered in pencil. The other two are getting all the business.

Seems the latter two have friends inside the cell, helping steer business to them.

CHIMES ON a building at Fifth Avenue and B haven't been dismantled. They're just toned down, because of some complaints about the noise.

Seems people like to hear the chimes and music, but not when they blare directly into their eardrums.

AN ALL-MARIN cast is scheduled to star on TV channel 9 next Friday at 8:30 p.m. If you watch closely, you'll find that two dance hall gals in the show, Crystal and Topaz, are clerical workers at the courthouse.

A group of inmates at county jail are known as "The Range Riders." Their job is to keep the county pistol range in order.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Two A l a b a m a stalwarts cleaned up a fortune in a big real estate deal and were able for the first time to indulge in a lifelong ambition: they went on a lion-hunting expedition in the jungles of Africa. By the time they discovered that the field manager in charge of native beaters, guides, and all their supplies, had been born in New England, it was too late to do anything about it. They had to suffer his presence in sulky silence.

One evening, however, the New Englander burst into their tent, shouting frantically, "Run for your lives! A herd of wild, murderous elephants is bearing down on us! They'll be here in five minutes! Run! Run!"

"Now what did yo'-all go and do that fo'?" asked his friend.

Some Fond Recollections Of Thanksgiving Day On The Farm

Generally speaking, we have little patience with people who knock our holidays of today, and complain that "they just aren't like they used to be when I was young."

Thanksgiving, or Christmas, or the Fourth of July will return pleasure and inspiration in direct ratio to the amount of spirit and heart that we put into our observances.

That was true when we were children. And it is just as true today.

But we must admit to one belief concerning Thanksgiving Day which we hope doesn't put us too far into the camp of the piners for the past. We do feel that Thanksgiving Day is best observed when it is spent in the country. It just seems to be the kind of a holiday that demands a rural setting.

This no doubt all stems from the fact that we spent a great many of our own boyhood Thanksgivings in Kansas at the wheat farm home of an uncle and aunt.

Those were, if our memory serves us correctly, the best Thanksgivings of all.

The drive of some 30 miles, most of them on country roads, were in themselves an ideal way to start a holiday. And usually we arrived in time to attend Thanksgiving morning services at the country church—the typical steepled white frame house of worship of the rural Midwest.

We looked forward to attending this particular church because the young preacher held a special fascination for us. When the congregation sang, he led them, not by singing, but by blaring away on a trumpet.

And he made the pastor of our own town church, an older gentleman who stuck to sermonizing and left the music to his choir director, seem pretty prosaic by comparison.

After church, it was back to the farmhouse. And there had gathered one mammoth collection of uncles and aunts, cousins, nieces and nephews. The farmyard was invariably overflowing.

And while on ordinary occasions we bore a distinct distaste for no small number of these relatives, on Thanksgiving Day each and every one of them seemed a veritable prince or princess. Everyone was in his mellowest mood.

While the women inside put the finishing touches on the dinner, there was time for the men to talk crops and politics and sports. And for the kids to play with the dogs—a friendly collie and a not-so-friendly airedale—to wander down to the corral to see the horses, or even to walk out into the well-manured pastures to see the cattle and sheep.

Then the dinner bell would sound. Of all the old farm sounds, it must have been the friendliest, the most beloved.

Everyone washed up at the pump, and marched into the dining room. The huge table would seat an astounding number. But even then the women—and sometimes some of the children, usually the girls, to the relief of the boys, would have to wait for the second setting.

There was invariably roast turkey, guinea hen and chicken. Gravy, dumplings, noodles, mashed potatoes, dressing, corn, stringed beans. Pumpkin pie, mincemeat pie, chocolate cake, coffee, rich milk.

But best of all—homemade bread.

Thick slices with freshly churned butter and homemade jam or preserves. That was the real treat for us kids.

After the huge dinner, lethargy reigned. Not even the kids had the energy for play or adventure. And so it was a time for conversation—reminiscences of Thanksgivings of the past, talk about beloved ones deceased or too distant to be present for the holiday festivities, etc.

Later just before the ar-

He's Mr. Boxing In Northern California

A Profile Of Marin's Bennie Ford

By JIM GILMARTIN

The man who has given northern California boxing buffs some of their greatest thrills has never fought a lick.

Yet, you might refer to him as "Mr. Boxing" of the area because he has participated in more than 10,000 professional bouts over the years in various capacities other than boxer, and for the past 25 years has served as matchmaker and promoter.

In the latter ranks he has presented a dozen world championship fights, including two which exceeded the $100,000 gate mark.

HIS NAME is Batiste Forte, but you know him better as Bennie Ford, matchmaker for San Francisco Boxing Club, Inc., and a resident of San Anselmo.

Out of his offices at 472 Ellis Street in San Francisco Ford has directed what at times has been one of the busiest fight centers in the world. In August of 1959 he hit his promotional peak by landing the Gene Fullmer-Carmen Basilio bout for the world middleweight championship. Ford had a slice of the $140,535 gate.

Prior to that his best attraction was Carl (Bobo) Olson's successful defense of his middleweight title against Rocky Castellani in the summer of 1954. This perhaps was Bantam Bennie's most colorful presentation for, unlike the "natural" between Fullmer and Basilio which sold itself to the public, this one had to be sold. Olson was enough of a draw, but Castellani was a powder puff puncher who was unwilling to mix. And fans had seen him on television.

Yet, the bout drew a packed Cow Palace house and a gate of $123,000, thanks to a great job of salesmanship.

TO ADD COLOR to this one Ford took the principals out of the city gyms more than a month in advance of the fight and set them up in country training camps—a la heavyweight promotional strategy. He sent Olson to Clear Lake and established Castellani in San Rafael at the plush Bermuda Palms Motel.

Ford figured correctly that North Beach paisanos and the crowd from Cauliflower Canyon would gladly trek the 20 miles to the fresh air of Marvelous Marin to look over the challenger. And what Castellani lacked in aggressiveness, he more than made up for in personality. He won flocks of fans, especially in Marin, and actually convinced some he could beat Olson.

Then, with the inimitable Jack (Doc) Kearns, one of the slickest "snow-job" artists in the business, and the International Boxing Club's Ben Bentley directing the press campaigns, the training camps drew packed crowds.

Olson was the easy winner, but the fight was good enough to satisfy everyone.

His other title promotions started back in 1936 with Small Montana and Little Dado for the lightweight title. Following that came Manuel Ortiz-Harold Dade, Ortiz-Luis Castilio, Ortiz-Buddy Jacklich, all for the bantam bauble; Olson-Castellani and Olson-Pierre Langlois for the middleweight crown; Jimmy Carter-Paddy DeMarco, lightweights; Sandy Sadler-Elorde, feathers, and two Raul Macias defenses against Chamrern Songkitrat and Dommy Ursua for the bantam throne.

Ford also has succeeded in bringing many other attractive wars to northern California fans. Some of the fights he lists as the most thrilling were the Rory Calhoun-Spider Webb middleweight humdingers in recent years, Paolo Rosi against Leo Alonzo, and Sgt. Sammy Baker against Pete Myers.

Of all the fighters he has promoted, Ford lists Olson as probably the best. "Olson was great, too bad he couldn't behave himself," said Bennie of the former middleweight ruler of men — and women. Olson fought for Ford several times.

Forty-four years ago when he broke into the boxing game Ford was a spindly teen-ager wearing a sweat-stained cap and a towel flung over his shoulder. Today he is considered a Beau Brummell of the Bay Area's sports circles.

Perhaps the best description of the matchmaker is provided by boxing scribe Jack Fiske, to wit: "From caps and vests, Bennie has grown fond of silks, white linen and serge suits. His closet is stached with 300 ties. He usually wears a dark blue suit whose breast pocket is impaled with a starched blade of white linen. Swarthy, with greying hair that is often retouched to make him look younger, Ford has shining raven eyes, large white teeth and large black eyebrows that give him a fierce belligerent look."

TO MATCH THIS facial ferocity is a staccatto voice that rises to a shout if his easily-aroused temper is awakened. Operating in a sport where double-talk is the international language, Bennie is a man of conviction who states his mind clearly and will tell off heavyweights and lightweights alike if he sees fit.

His favorite subject is defending his business from the editorial black eyes it has received over the years, especially when the subject of physical violence is brought up. "Look," he boils, "they (the papers) kick us around like a football. Why, if any other sport suffered as much abuse they'd be out of business fast.

"If a fighter gets killed in the ring it's a headline story. But if a football player dies of injuries, they give it a line or two. I don't know the exact figures, but last year only a few fighters died while something like 36 football deaths happened.

"And, another thing," he shouted, warming up to his subject. "They (football) will send a player into a game even if he has stitches in his head or a bad knee injury. You don't see that in boxing. Only physically perfect men are permitted into the ring."

"And while people find faults with fighting why don't they consider the fact that boxing has done more for charity than any other sport"

Television "experts" also disturb the intense, diminutive matchmaker. "People who watch fights on TV and then criticize the decision are wrong," he says. "They miss 30 to 35 per cent of the real action. There's not a camera in the world that can give you a complete picture and people just miss a good part of the action. Yet, they disagree with the men who are at ringside watching the fights from all angles."

The voluble Ford says he was born Jan. 14, 1900, in New York City, but friends say he's giving himself the benefit of a few years. Anyway, he was one of 11 children of Vicenzo and Catherine Forte. Pop Forte, a laborer, picked up his tribe when Benny was six weeks old and came to San Francisco. Only two other Fortes are still living—brother Frank, of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Rose Torrano of Terra Linda.

Ford attended old Washington Grammar School and then Lowell High, and broke into boxing as a towel swinger for promoter "Hard Hat" Lou Parente in 1916 at the Old Coliseum.

His early days in smokey gyms were spent in various odd jobs, picking up a buck here and there, hauling water into the squared circle, rubbing down fighters, etc.

Later he became a trainer and manager before promoting. As a manager he handled California Joe Lynch, Tommy Cello, K.O. Eddie Roberts, George Manley, Willie Robinson, Charley Belanger, Chick Roch and Young Papke.

Benny turned matchmaker in 1932 at National Hall and later moved to Winterland. He started promoting in 1935 but all he remembers of his first show is that it was a sellout. "I don't remember who fought," he said.

Over the years he has promoted cards with Jack Beynon and then Sid Flaherty at Civic Auditorium, the Cow Palace and San Francisco Gardens. At times he branched out to Salinas and Eureka.

Veteran sports writer John J. Connolly, the old "Bullpenner," remembers Ford in the good old days. Says Jawn Jay: "There's one thing about that little guy you have to admire: When times were tough and everybody ran out on him, he stuck to his business. Why, if it weren't for him boxing would have died in San Francisco.

"And another thing," Connolly remembers, "he's devoted to his friends. He never lets them down. And that's more than you can say for a lot of people in that business."

FORD'S OFFICE, especially for the big fights, is teeming with activity, as you can imagine, what with the thousands of details that go with such a promotion — contract wrangling, dates, training details, tickets, location, seating arrangements, to TV or not to TV, concessions, officials, etc., and many more et ceteras.

In his early days Ford also drove a hack and in later years has dabbled in the restaurant business. He says he's looking for a spot in Marin, preferably San Rafael, to open a pizzeria.

Ford and his wife of about three years, Barbara, reside at 6 Kilgore Lane, San Anselmo. "I love it here," he says, "I'll never move back to the city."

With 44 years of the boxing business under his belt, Ford is still negotiating for big fights and big paydays. He has one great ambition that has eluded him—to promote a heavyweight championship fight. "It's more work, but more pay. I'd sure like to get one. Some day, some day, maybe," he said, his dark eyes looking off into the future.

Drake's Drill Girls— They Do Their Part

Hours Of Practice Pay Off With Added Spirit For Their School

"Creative!" scoffed the pert, pony-tailed blonde. "That's the last thing I am."

Yet Drake High School teacher Barbara Read, who looks like one of the coeds, has turned a routine extra-class assignment into an ardent love.

Her creation, which she modestly insists belongs solely to the girls, has been selected to participate in the annual Shrine pageant Dec. 31 during the East-West All-Star football game in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

Babara, a Drake High graduate, began her labor of love three autumns ago as a routine extra assignment and with experience behind her.

Now in football season, she virtually lives drill team during out-of-school time. Fortunately she's married to another such dedicated person, Dick Read, head football coach at San Rafael.

"Oh, come on, now," she kept saying. "Don't talk about me. All the credit belongs to the girls."

And she can talk long and rapidly about her girls.

"It's like having 100 daughters," the 25-year-old teacher said. "Or 100 close friends, anyway. The way those kids work! They take it seriously. They practice hard, and they're proud to be on the team. It's their enthusiasm, cooperation and hard work that's responsible for our success."

The team consists of 100 Drake coeds from grades 9 through 12. Any girl can try out. This year more than 250 did. The 100 regulars and 35 alternates were selected from that number.

MRS. BARBARA READ, Drake High teacher and drill team director, poses with the members of her 1960 team. From more than 250 applicants, she selected a squad of 100 regulars and 35 alternates. Membership on the team is an honor for Drake girls. And they respond with hard work and enthusiasm that pays off in polished and precision drills.

One girl, listening in, said: "The alternates work just as hard, but we don't always get to perform. But next year we'll get a regular spot."

Girls are selected during the week preceding school on the basis of posture, rhythm, alertness, and character traits such as initiative, willingness to take orders and be corrected, and evidence of responsibility.

For, Mrs. Read pointed out, it's not all for fun.

"They must learn responsibility, promptness, and how to get along with others. They meet girls from other classes. They have to assume responsibility and have to lead as line captains. They take roll.

"IT OFFERS a lot, especially for girls with special problems—academic, personality, appearance. They can achieve here. They learn correct posture, coordination and rhythm.

"So many of these girls would not have a place otherwise."

"It became 100 the first year," Barbara laughed, "because I didn't know what I was doing. Too many turned out. I just thought 100 was a nice round number. Since then I've never heard of a drill team so large. But when I saw how much it meant to the girls, what opportunities it gave them, I left it at 100 in spite of the added difficulties and hours involved."

One of her difficulties is shouting loud enough to be heard as she issues orders. In this respect she is aided sometimes by instrumental band instructor Perry Smith. But Smith, she says, also helps her in other more important ways.

The school band of 35 provides music for the drill team. Because the team works only during after-school hours, band and team do not practice together. Smith and several music students come to daily practices and give skeletal accompaniment.

"Then Perry jots down the signals given by our head majorette, Jean Lyons. He notes cadences and rolls. Later, he and the band work out separately. It always works out fine."

It's because of good planning, she thinks. She dreams up the routines each week and holds strategy conferences with Smith. Then they go to work separately.

"FROM THEN on out, "Barbara said, "it's constant drill, hard practice, and a lot of yelling to turn 100 people into a precise unit." The team practiced at least six hours each week during the football season just completed.

The girls provide their own uniforms and pom-pons. They wear an inexpensive costume of a box pleat skirt with green and white panels, a white Ivy League men's style shirt with sleeves rolled up, white shoes and white socks. The pom-pons, a green one and a white one, they make themselves. It is a five-hour job, and they usually last the season.

No school credit accrues to participants, but it has been made a part of the Girls' Athletic Assn. program. Absenteeism from practice and performance is no problem. Their leader loves it; they love it.

Even the teachers, including some of the cloistered academic types, are generous with commendations for what it does for some of the students.

"I know it helps them in a hundred different ways," Mrs. Read said. "But the best measure is the real enjoyment they get."

APPROXIMATELY half of this year's team consists of returnees, experienced from one or two previous seasons. They improve. So does Mrs. Read, who seems to be something of a perfectionist in many ways.

Barbara was graduated from Drake in 1953. After five years at the University of California at Berkeley, where she majored in physical education, minored in social studies, and was vice president of the student body, she returned to her hometown to teach. She was the school's first and is still the only graduate to become a staff member.

For the inexperienced teacher who "didn't know what she was doing" when she accepted a routine assignment "because it was part of the job," Barbara Levin Read has created something.

As she admits, the drill team itself may not be a significant thing in the grand order of the universe.

New Owners Convert Their Ships

Sub Chasers Prepared For A Different Kind Of Job

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"As is, where is." That is the slogan of the U.S. government when it sells its surplus goods.

"This means," husky, blond Danish-born Peder Olsen, explained, "that you take it as it is and where it is." Olsen is the owner of one of Uncle Sam's World War II sub chasers which he has been converting into a cargo craft to carry fish and other cargo between islands in the South Seas.

He lives with his wife and two small boys aboard the buff-colored Kanaloa, formerly the Patrol Craft Ship-1384. Next spring, if all goes well, the Kanaloa will head westward.

Olsen, an affable, beer-drinking naturalized American with sharp blue eyes, is one of three skippers who have each taken over a sub chaser that can be seen tied up in Sausalito except when on test cruises, etc.

A FOURTH sister ship was taken over two years ago by a Richmond company and has been used as a whaler for the last two seasons.

All four were previously owned by Western Construction Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, after the Navy relinquished them at Mare Island. The company stripped almost everything off two ships—Olsen's and one now owned by Peruvian fisherman Lorenzo Wenzel. The stripped parts were sold and the strippers left just enough to keep the ships afloat. In the Kanoloa's case, even the engines and plumbing were taken.

"We moved aboard with two buckets, one for water and one for a toilet," Olsen said.

OLSEN, 42, has a wife, Louise, and two boys, Karl, who will be 3 in February, and Kris, two and one-half months. Now they have all conveniences, Olsen said, including a large mess hall which is used as a living room, two baths, and a private stateroom for each crew member.

While the Navy had a crew of 42, Olsen has five. They are Hans Peter Hansen, a long time seahand and a former captain with the Waterman Line out of Mobile, Ala., who will be skipper; Erik Jorgensen, chief mate; Loren Stout and his brother, John, and Ole Petersen, a commercial artist in San Francisco. "I'll be a flunky," Olsen said.

Built between 1943 and 1945, the ships are 136 feet long, 25 feet wide and weigh in excess of 200 tons each. They are usually tied up, as neighbors, at the Sausalito Shipbuilding Co. pier.

Of the four ships, three are in American hands—Olsen's; the whaler Sioux City owned by Golden Gate Fisheries of Richmond; and the ship owned by Stanley Stock which he intends to use as a charter ship in the Caribbean either for pleasure or salvage work.

Stock, an ex-Navy man, looked four years for a ship to buy. His ship, PCS-1380, was a complete ship as was the whaler.

Stock, 31, is a salesman with the Coast Equipment Co., of San Francisco. He has lived aboard his ship about 14 months. He has a wife, Maria, and three sons, Alex, 4, Stanley, 3, and Marc, 3 months. They have named their ship, which has television on board, the White Plume.

WHEN THE White Plume sails sometime next year, it will have a crew of six. "Because so much money is involved," Stock said, "we'll form a company and some of the crew will become partners."

His two present crew members are Americans — Steve Samuels of San Francisco and Dave Hengesbach of Michigan.

"The White Plume is looked upon as a heavy duty work yacht," Stock said. "It has good lines. And it's not all spit, polish and varnish."

Guns were taken off at Mare Island at purchase of all the ships by their previous owner. Stock has taken off the underwater radar scope which was an experimental thing, he said, to see "blips" under water. He also removed some breech mechanisms.

"We'll take her out on trial in the Bay in a month," Stock said. The Kanaloa has already been out in the Bay testing her engines.

Stock said he expects to add 15 cabins for charter passengers and cut in some portholes. Also, they must hook up all the pipes so the ship won't leak.

Stock said his wife loves living on board, and the youngsters have not been sick a day. The ship has a tall fence around it for the children's safety.

Wenzel, 38, came to North America sailing a whaling ship; then he began looking for a ship of his own. He hopes to sail for Peru next June. His wife, Zoila, daughter Susana, 8, for whom the ship is named, and son, Walter, 5, will fly home.

The Peruvian, who speaks English fluently, has had to do a great real more converting than Olsen has. He has torn off the officers' quarters in order to make space for the cargo hatch and fish hold.

He has also had to create more deck space for his tuna seiner-to-be. We were shown the after-deck, 70 feet in length, where Walter was riding up and down on his bicycle between the spare doors, pipes and other loose parts.

Wenzel also mentioned how much had been stripped off the ship on purchase. "Even the ports were gone," he said.

"It wasn't that I minded the expense of buying them," he added, "but you have to find just the right porthole. It has to be brass because iron ones rust."

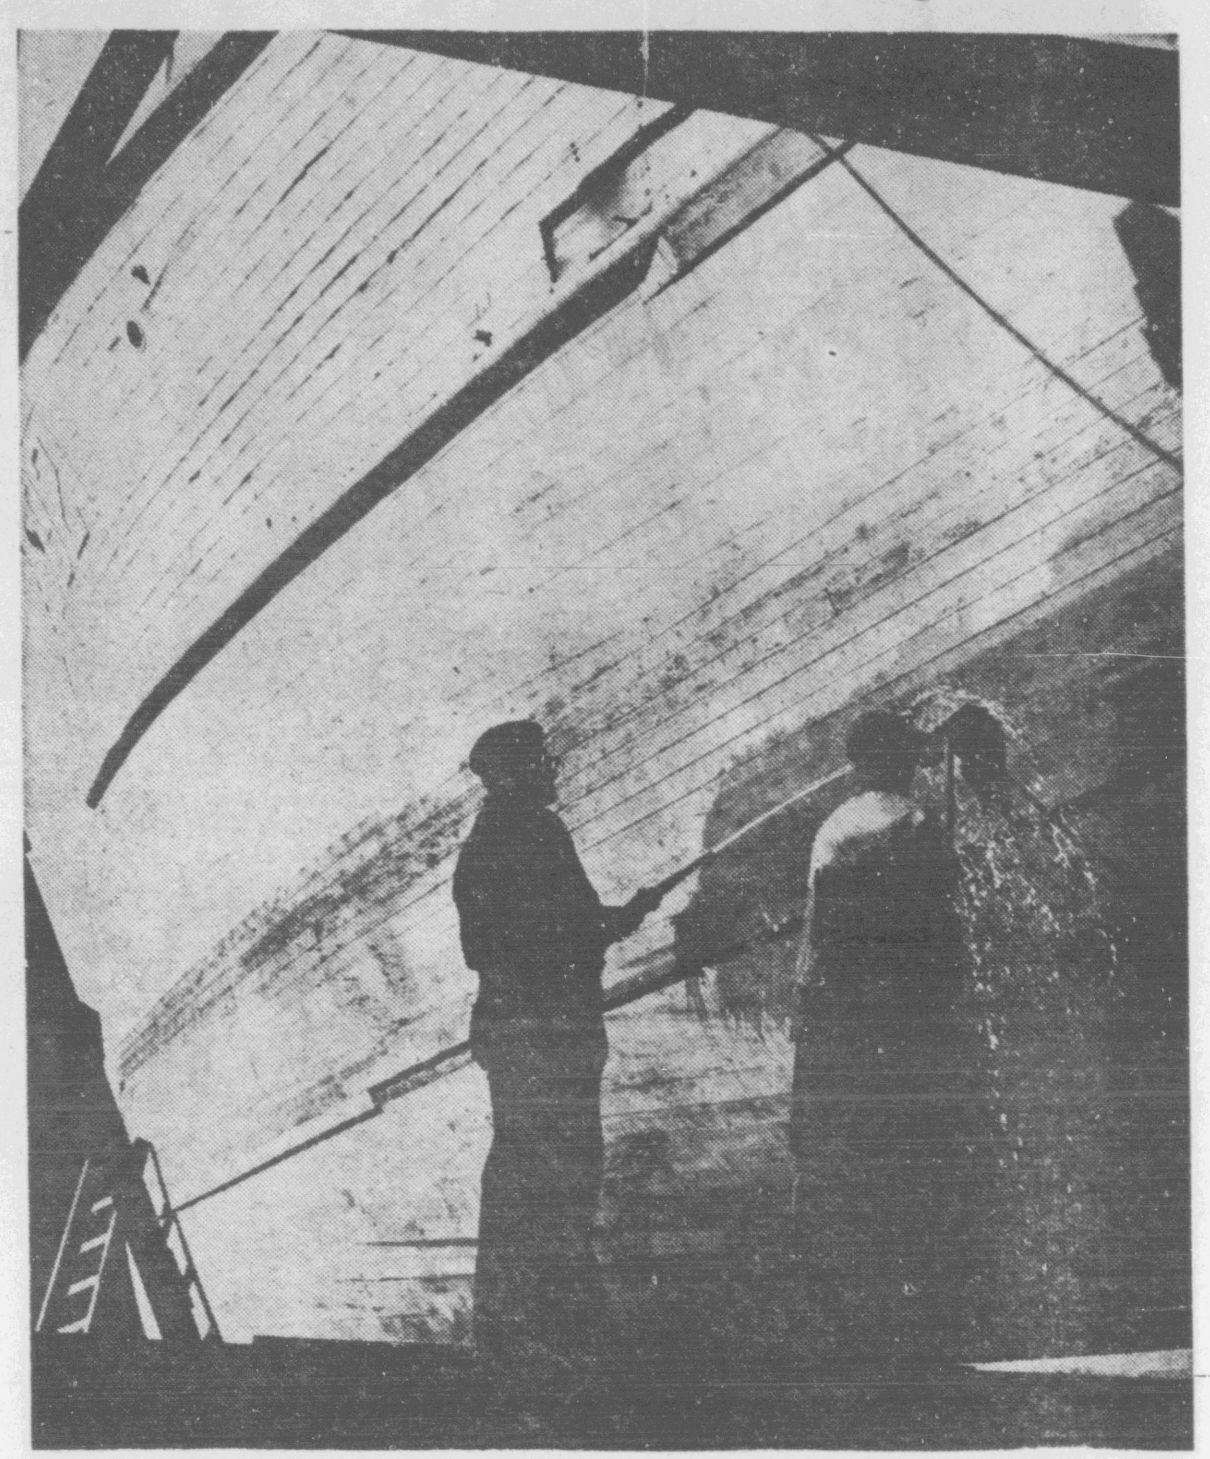

Asked if he would do it over again, Wenzel replied: "I would do it again. I love this boat. I love any boat."

He is a mechanical engineer, three years in the States, and works as chief supervisor at Stouffer Chemical in Richmond. At first Wenzel worked on his ship alone. Then two brothers, Peter and David Wolf, from New Zealand, became partners. They will fish with him off Peru. The Wolfs work as carpenters in Marin.

"We work almost around the clock," Wenzel said. He works the 4 a.m. to midnight shift at Richmond, returns home to sleep. At about 7 a.m. he gets up and start to work on the boat. Weekends, too, the men work. The three men do all of the work themselves.

"The most difficult thing about the job," Wenzel said,

WORKING IN drydock on one of the sub chasers undergoing conversion on Sausalito's waterfront is Lyman Vananda of Mill Valley. The ship is the Susana. She'll become a fishing craft. Dick Steinheimer, Independent-Journal staff photographer, took this shot dramatically emphasizing the size of the ship's huge propeller blades.

THE WHITE PLUME is the poetic name which has been given this one-time sub chaser. Stanley Stock, an ex-Navy man, is converting it for a future career as a pleasure and salvage charter ship in the Caribbean.

Sub Chasers Readied For Their New Jobs

"was to move the mast forward. Another difficult thing was to find suitable engines. The fuel consumpition on the original engines was too much."

The galley is "the living center of a boat," the reddish-faced fisherman said. On the table was a bouquet of flowers. Both Susana and Walter attend Central School.

"We never say how much we pay for things," Wenzel said when asked of the ship's cost, "but, by the time everything is completed, we expect to have about $25,000 invested."

Mrs. Wenzel, who finds living aboard "very exciting," said she would like to sail down to Peru but her husband is not in accord since the ship will be away from ports too long and, in the event the children got sick, this might present serious problems.

"Keeping house on board is very hard," Mrs. Wenzel said. "The dust comes in all the time and the living area must be cleaned every day." At present there is one overstuffed chair, a landlubber's dining table and unsecured stools in the living area.

They will have to be replaced by the ship's furniture, Mrs. Wenzel said.

The Susana has a telephone on board, each youngster has a bike and there are three dogs. The children sleep in a small, snug cabin which was once a gun mount. "I burned out the gun mount," Wenzel said, "to make the cabin for the kids."

Recently the Sioux City, the whaler, was on the Sausalito Shipbuilding Co. ways getting its bottom painted and getting rudder changes for added speed for chasing whales.

CAPT. HAROLD RIDLE of Richmond was supervising the work following his second season as whaling captain—a season which put his ship at the top of the fleet in North America.

Ridle said there are five whaling ships working out of North American — all from Richmond. This year the Sioux City was high boat with 86 whales. Other ships got catches in the 50s and 40s by comparison.

Once fitted with four anti-aircraft guns, the ship now has a whale gun set up in the bow. "The gun shoots a harpoon," Ridle said "that has flukes on it that open up. On the end is a war head.

"Its purpose is to go off inside the whale and kill it. The gun has a three and one-half inch bore and is shot by a shell.

"Whaling is a dangerous occupation," the mild-mannered captain said, "because you haul a ton of explosives on the boat which are used in the shooting."

"WHEN YOU shoot a75-foot finback," Ridle said, "you have got to have 80 tons of mammal hanging on a five-eighths-inch line."

"And, he added, "they've towed us for as much as 20 miles."

Whales vary in size, Ridle declared, "and the biggest whale I've ever brought in is 76 feet, about one-half the size of the ship.

He said the season this year ran from April 15 to Oct. 15, and the whaling area is from Point Arena south to Point Sur 200 miles offshore. "We could go to China," Ridle said, "but we have to get the meat in so that it doesn't spoil."

The mammal is hauled into the Bay by fastening it to the side of the ship with a chain.

The Sioux City has two diesel engines and twin screws. Ridle said the boat didn't turn fast enough to chase whales "so we enlarged the rudders to give more steerage."

TODAY YOU RIDE the bridge to spot a whale. "We don't go up in the crow's nest or masthead as they did in Herman Melville's time," he said. The ship is controlled completely from the bridge as against the Navy's telegraphic system with a man in the engine room. The ship has radio, radar, loran, radio direction finder and fathometers.

"There is no whale that this boat can outrun," said the captain. "All whales will outrun this boat. We usually keep them in sight and they get tired and this boat doesn't get tired.

"I've got 3,700 feet of cable on each winch drum and catching a whale is just like catching a fish. You play him, using the winch like a fishing reel. If the whale is fighting pretty hard, we will fool with him and let him pull the boat to tire him. In 1959, a humpback towed me for five hours."

The whales are used mostly for manufactured pet food, and for oil and fertilizer.

Converting a ship is a "handyman's special," Olsen said. "It's a do-it-yourself." He added that he still has much more equipment to install, including pumps and generators.

Olsen was moving heavy crab traps with three other men on the pier one afternoon. The air was salt, the sun sharp and the men were joking with one another, using plain talk.

John Masefield must still be right, we thought, when he wrote "I must go down to the seas again to the lonely sea and the sky . . . " The ships, used in the Atlantic, Pacific and Mediterranean during their subchasing service, will soon be going out again into different parts of the world.

"Anyone has the opportunity to do it himself," the blond man added. "This country has a surplus of boats, but other countries don't."

We looked over from the pier, littered with piles of odds and ends taken off the ship and waiting to be hauled away, and saw a sign on one ship's door: "Secured — Do Not Open." It was a remnant of the Navy—part of the "As is, where is."

Olsen said, "I may come back to the States some day, but I don't think the boat will ever come back."

MRS. LOUISE OLSEN hangs out some washing on the line on the deck of the Kanaloa, the sub chaser which her husband, Danish-born Peder Olsen, is planning to put into service as a cargo craft in the South Seas. The Kanaloa is home to the Olsens, their two young sons, and a crew of five.

CHIEF ENGINEER John Stout checks the engines of the Kanaloa. The engine room is his responsibility as the conversion work proceeds on this and the other sub chasers undergoing similar renovations on the Sausalito waterfront.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

We now have the newest addition to the stereo family; namely, the Reverb Unit. The Reverb Unit is an electronic device which, when properly interconnected in your amplifier, causes the sound passing through it to be delayed and then re-mixes this delayed sound with the original sound. These combined sounds give the listener a reverberation effect such as experienced in large auditoriums. Its purpose is to bring concert hall realism into your living room when playing recordings that do not have enough liveness.

In general, the Reverb Unit does accomplish the big-hall effect. However, it should be remembered that many of our modern LP recordings are no longer recorded in acoustically dead (non-reverberant) studios. Many LP's have some liveness and room acoustics recorded in the record itself so that when played back in your living room they will have a natural sound.

The Sargent Rayment Reverb Unit that we sell has some extra features. The Reverb Unit can be turned off for those recordings that do not require acoustic change. Finally, a selector switch permits use of the unit to add echo on either the right or left channel of a stereo system.

For those of you who have electronic organs and play them through your component Hi-Fi systems, the Sargent Rayment Reverb Unit will give you the cathedral sound you have been looking for.

Visit our sound room and ask for a demonstration of the Reverb Unit with a stereo LP and with one of our Electro-Voice electronic organs. The cost of the Reverb Unit is only $49.50 and will plug directly into any of our new Sargent Rayment Stereo Components.

Marin Manufacturers: From Car Tinkering To Fireplace Building

By HARRY CRAFT

One answer to the question —"What happens to hot rod builders when they grow up?" —can be found in a pair of Marin County dwellers who turned from tinkering with Model A jalopies to manufacturing a Model A of their own.

There are, however, slight differences in the finished products. The one fabricated in the Greenbrae shop of Gil and Adele Davis has no motor, brakes, clutch or transmission. Neither does it spin around corners on oversized wheels to the detriment of pedestrians.

IT WAS INVENTED for the sole purpose of satisfying a demand for a relatively inexpensive fireplace to be used in small homes.

Gil and Adele have operated the Apex Manufacturing Co. since 1955 as a heating and sheet metal plant, but it was not until last year that Gil's brainchild became solid reality and he obtained a Uniform Building Code approval after testing by the Engineering Materials Laboratory of the University of California. They have a patent pending on their invention and, as far as they have been able to determine, they are the sole manufacturers in this state of an approved free-standing metal fireplace.

Actually, the Apex is produced in three models—AS, A and AM. The popular-size Model A stands about 40 inches high on its own hearth and safety pedestal. Models AS and AM are smaller and larger respectively to suit differences in taste or room dimensions.

ALL ARE produced in 11 different colors including black. Most favored shade seems to be a Chinese red. They are trimmed in solid brass.

Screens across the open front are supplied with either a sliding metal curtain from the top of the firebox frame or a rigidly framed unit with closer mesh. The Apex is made with both top and rear flue outlets.

A feature which is particularly desirable from a room-heating standpoint is the multiple-wall construction. The interior firebox is built of three-sixteenths special alloy steel. A 12 gauge top cover and 18 gauge casing with side openings provide both safety insulation and continuous air circulation.

All this might not have taken form if Gil had not had a consuming interest in metal working from the time he remade the body on his first hot rod in high school.

BOTH GIL AND his wife were products of Marin schooling. She was the former Adele Cramer of Larkspur, and Gil's father, George Davis, once taught engineering at the College of Marin.

Gil and Adele had been friends at Tamalpais High School and later, when Gil was in the Merchant Marine, the friendship ripened into romance. She was at the College of Marin and Gil was attending the University of San Francisco when they decided to elope in 1946.

Adele remembers that their honeymoon was spent putting a hot rod together—a 1932 Model B Ford with a new Mercury motor, which they assembled in an old garage. This hybrid served them for three years, she says, when they sold it because a family addition was on the way.

Meanwhile, Gil had gone to work as an assistant in the blacksmith shop of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He took charge of Northwestern's metal working shop in San Rafael two years later. Adele who had studied journalism, wanted to become a sports-writer, but Gil would have none of it.

They bought the Greenbrae property on which their factory is situated a year after they were married, and the building they eventually erected was their home for almost six years before it became their plant. Prior to that time they had been living in a Larkspur houseboat and in the old Marinship dormitories.

NOW THEY live at 103 Walnut Avenue, Corte Madera. They have three children, Chuck, Carol and Ed, the youngest who was born on Armistice Day, 1952.

The Apex Manufacturing Co. has grown into a thriving business and both of them work at it—Gil at production and Adele in the office. Their fireplaces sell all over the western states and some parts of the East. Many of them are custom-made to conform to the architecture of modern homes, for Gil is both a licensed heating and sheet metal contractor and also an ornamental iron contractor.

There is one commercial license he has never been able to get—for one of his old Model A assemblies, a pickup which he still drives. The California Motor Vehicle Department just laughs at him.

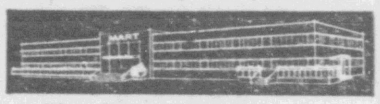

He won't give it up, though. The old vehicle has a sentimental value. It reminds him where he got started and how far he has come.

"Why Do I Have So Much Mildew?" — Mrs. C. G. G.

Dear Mrs. C.G.G.:

You can blame it on the humid summer weather and be correct. However, you may be adding to the cause without realizing it. In the hot summer, garments, all fabrics, leather belts, shoes —everything seems to become mildewed. Remember, mildew is a fungus growth. It weakens fabrics without you realizing it when you brush it off so easily.

Here is what you may be doing to add to mildew in your home. You keep the house shut up without ventilation. Then you cook, launder, bathe or shower and add gallons of water to the air in your home. That, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, can cause mildew.

The best way to get rid of dampness and mildew is to ventilate your house often when the air outside is drier than that inside. You might try keeping a small electric light burning in closets that tend to be damp. By all means, dry all clothing wet by rain or perspiration before putting it in closets. Heating the house for a short time will absorb dampness, too. There are machines that dehumidify and chemicals that absorb moisture from the air. All these safeguards will help prevent damaging mildew that comes in summer, and stays in most unexpected places to break your heart when you uncover garments to wear in the Fall.

THIS IS THE DEVICE which watch repairman Frederick A. Brown of James L. Callan and Sons, jewelers, built to test the self-winding mechanisms of watches he had repaired. It both whirls and turns the watches attached to the arms.

A WINDER THAT WINDS SELF-WINDING WATCHES

A winder for self-winding watches might not sound like the most practical device in the world. But Frederick A. Brown, watch repairman at James L. Callan and Sons Jewelers, San Rafael, makes extensive use of the one he put together last month.

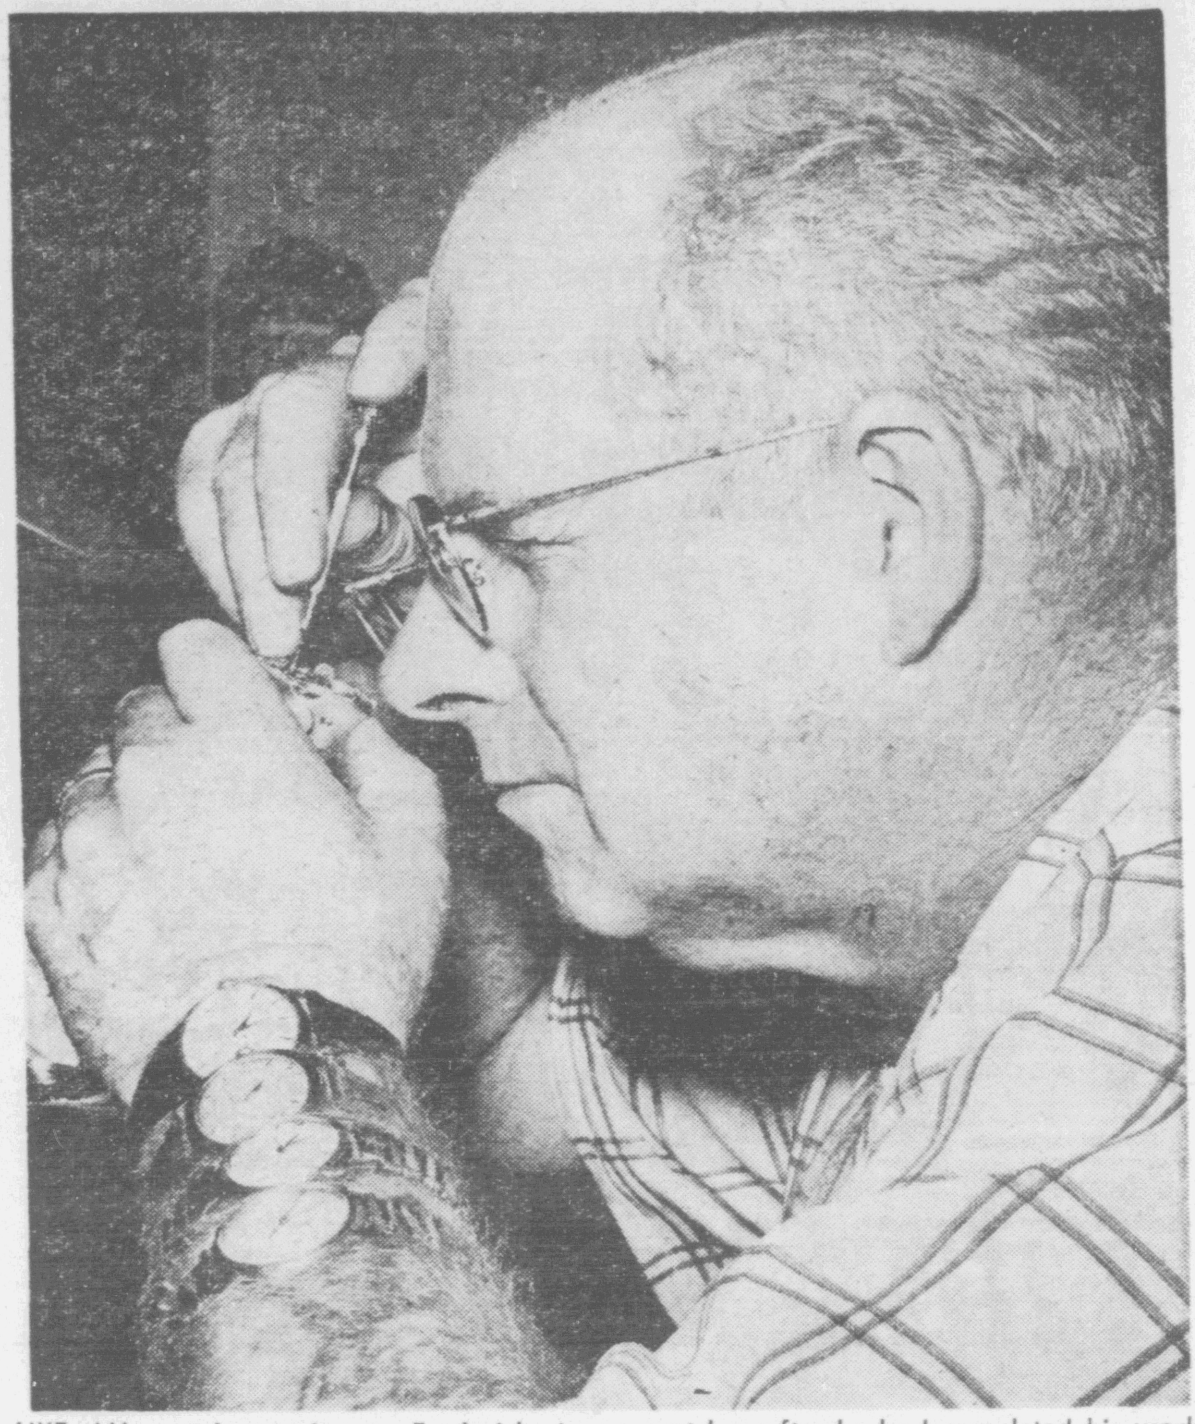

Actually, the machine is designed to check the self-winding mechanisms of watches repaired by Brown to make certain they are in satisfactory working condition before they are returned to th \r owners.

The device spins the watches attached to its arms in a complete circle. At the same time the watches also make a complete turn on the rods to which they are attached. Thus the movement of the arm which would ordinarily wind the watches is completely simulated.

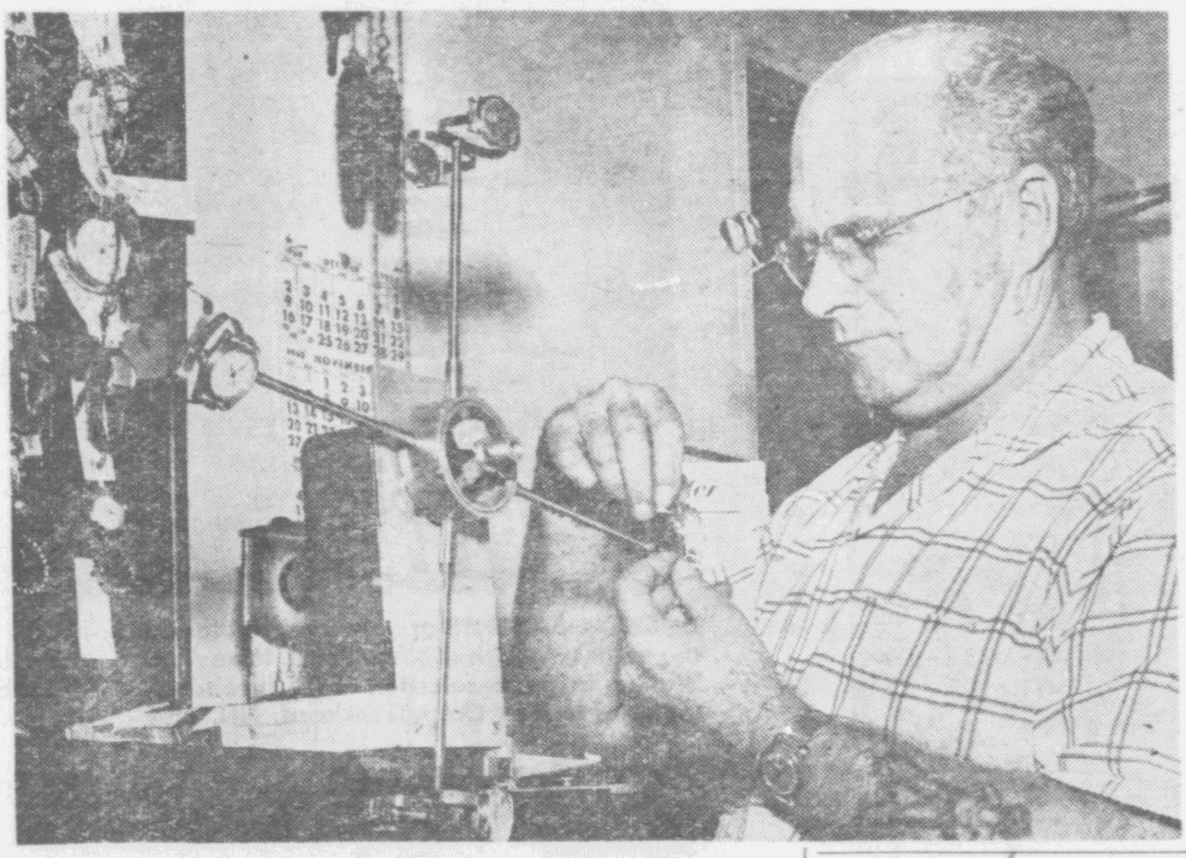

Brown says the parts for the device cost him about 15 dollars. And putting his apparatus together took him about 10 hours.

At present, he adds, there is no such device on the market. But a couple of companies have indicated an interest in manufacturing his machine.

It is, Brown says, a real boon to the watch repairman. And to his customers.

LIKE ALL watch repairmen, Frederick A. Brown of San Rafael had a problem: How to test the self-winding mechanisms of watches after he had completed his work. He solved the problem by putting together a checking device of his own. (Photos by Jim Kean)

WATCH REPAIRER Brown loads up his machine with watches, preparatory to giving them a test whirl. The movement will closely approximate the turnings of the human arm which ordinarily wind the self-winding watch. Brown says that his device, as far as he knows, is the first such machine to be assembled for its purpose. And he puts it to extensive use in his work with James L. Callan and Sons, San Rafael jewelers. "It's going most of the time," he says.

MRS. DONALD L. Walling, one of Marin County's many hospital volunteers, sees her husband off to work and her children off to school before leaving for a morning's work at the hospital. Here she waves goodbye to daughter Linda, 12, seventh grader at Vallecita Junior High; son Dan, 10, fourth grader at Santa Margarita School; and Susan, "going on 9," third grader at Santa Margarita.

CLAD IN HER red and white candy-stripe uniform, Mrs. Walling leaves her home in Terra Linda Oaks for her one day a week volunteer job at San Rafael General Hospital. She is a member of the Women's Auxiliary, organized in 1958 when the hospital became a voluntary non-profit institution and an important cog in the hospital's "machinery."

A Busy Day With A

AS A VOLUNTEER at San Rafael General, Mrs. Walling is part of the busy hospital scene. Here she checks the day's menus before delivering them to patients so that they can make their selections for the day.

SHORTLY BEFORE 9 a.m., Mrs. Walling arrives at San Rafael General Hospital. Ahead of her lies four hours of work assisting the regular hospital personnel in a wide variety of duties. She will receive no monetary reward for her toil. But she will be more than amply rewarded by the knowledge that she has aided the ailing.

Mrs. Donald L. Walling of Terra Linda Oaks is one of the hundreds of Marin County women for whom hospital work is a satisfying volunteer job. She is a member of the Women's Auxiliary at San Rafael General Hospital, where she works one morning each week. She plans her day carefully in order to be free for her work at the hospital.

Before leaving for the hospital, Mrs. Walling sees her children off to school and her husband off to work. A former star athlete at San Rafael High School, where they met, he is now assistant manager of the San Rafael office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Mrs. Walling is the daughter of Harley O. Teets, former warden at San Quentin Prison.

Mrs. Walling works at the hospital from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. She helps in many ways, all designed to assist the regular staff to administer "TLC" (tender, loving care) to the patients. The San Rafael General Auxiliary recently observed its second anniversary.

As a member of the "Ladies in Candy Stripes," as the volunteers are called because of their red and white candy-stripe uniforms, Mrs. Walling delivers mail and sometimes reads letters to patients. She arranges flowers, runs errands, takes around the book cart, delivers menus for the patients to make their selections for the day. She also helps in the central supply department.

At home in the afternoon, Mrs. Walling has dinner to prepare, sewing and gardening to do, and perhaps phoning in connection with her job as third grade room mother at Santa Margarita School.

Or she may have to start packing for a trip to the family cabin which they built themselves at Lake Almanor. She likes to hunt with her husband, and a new bear rug is the result of a recent hunting trip.

Mrs. Walling's life is a busy one. Like her sister volunteers all over the county, she likes it that way.

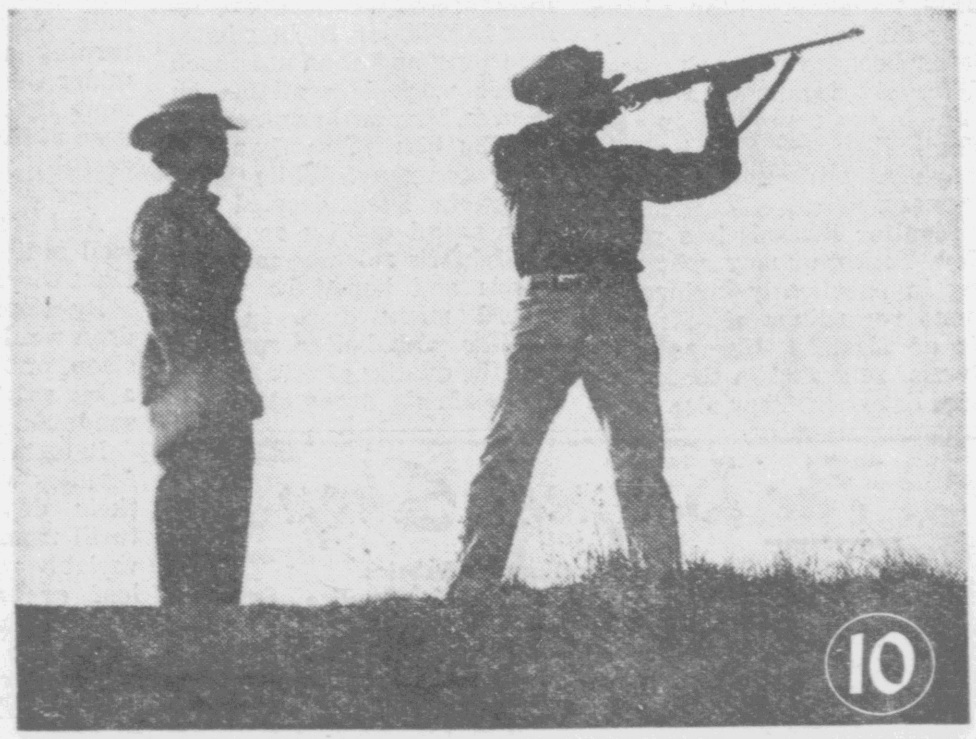

"TIME OUT FOR refreshments," Mrs. Walling calls to her husband and Little Leaguer son, having a game of catch in the backyard at the end of the day.

BACK HOME after her hospital duties are over, busy Mrs. Walling does some sewing — and the results obviously have the approval of son Don and daughter Susan.

MRS. WALLING, who shares her husband's favorite hobby, hunting, watches as he sights down the barrel of his gun. They prefer western garb for their hunting trips.

BOOK REVIEWS

Transcript Of U-2 Pilot Trial Provides Fascinating Reading

THE TRIAL OF THE U-2, Translation World Publishers, 158 pages, $1.95 paperbound, $3.75 clothbound. Reviewed by R. D. Layman.

This is the complete transcript of the trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers in Moscow. Translation World Publishers of Chicago, whomever they may be, say this is the most complete version ever issued in English. The official stenogram report was cabled "direct to Chicago from Moscow and published in record time."

How the publishers arranged this coup is not detailed, but arrange it they apparently did. The results are fascinating. The bare transcript grips one as only the greatest courtroom dramas can.

This reviewer was left with two powerful impressions: That the trial was NOT prearranged in detail, although its general course and verdict of guilt obviously were, and that if aerial spying on Russia is necessary, men like Francis Gary Powers are not the kind who should be doing it.

As fascinating as the transcript of the trial is the foreword, written by Prof. Harold J. Berman of Harvard University, whom the publishers describe as "a noted expert on Soviet law." His analysis of the trial is given in a 16-point summary contained in the press blurb mailed by the publishers with the review copy received by the Independent-Journal. It is worth quoting in full, since it is a succinct outline of the points made in Berman's challenging analysis:

FRANCIS G. POWERS
Gripping courtroom drama

"1. There are important elements in the case which give it lasting importance.

"3. The U.S. behaved unconventionally according to a 'black-letter' international rule when it admitted it commissioned a spy but the U. S. S. R. on the other hand observed this rule.

"4. Aerial incursion is a far more serious threat to international stability because it can be mistaken for an air raid.

"5. An apology for the flight by the U.S. was necessary for Khrushchev because of what he stands for in Soviet politics — increased rationality in Soviet internal politics, and legality in social and political order.

"6. While charges against the U.S. in the trial were unfair to the U.S., in a sense they were relevant to the trial.

"7. Berman ventures a 'guess' that Mr. K issued orders that the case was to be handled strictly in accordance with Soviet law.

"9. Efforts of the Powers relatives DID have some effect on the Soviet judges; their mission did not entirely fail.

"10. The defense could have only been properly conducted by a Soviet lawyer, but a U.S. lawyer's presence would have been some help.

"11. Strictly and technically speaking, Powers had no right to a U.S. lawyer, but that did not prevent his being granted the privilege of one.

"12. The U.S. complaint of not being able to see Powers was weak in view of the possibility of granting hostile advice to Powers.

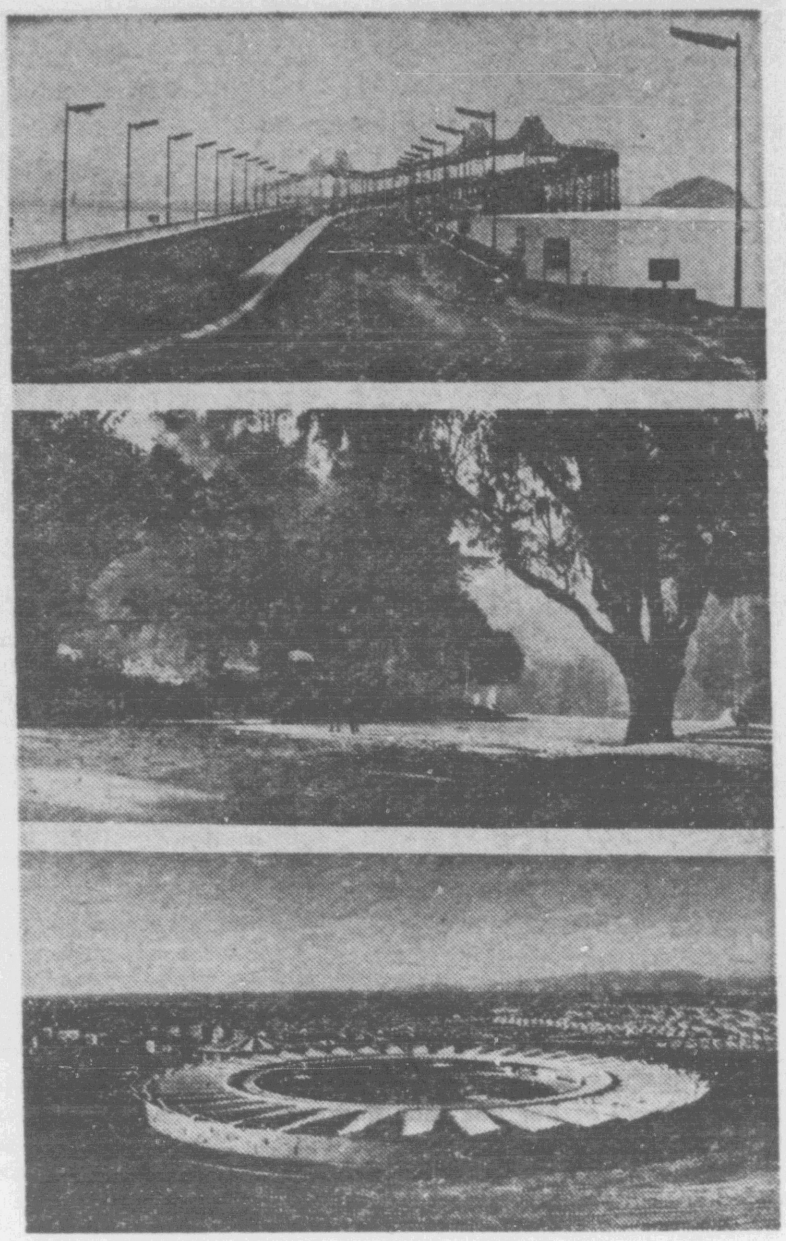

"13. While the trial reflects a tremendous amount of reforms in procedure, there are still weaknesses.

"14. It is to the best interests of both the U.S. and U.S.S.R. that the principle which excludes military aircraft from the skies of a country be observed, and a single standard of international law be adhered to.

"15. We need to define the lower limits of outer space over which satellites can fly without committing an international delinquency.

"16. If agreement is reached on this or if the U.S. recants on the flight, Powers will be sent home sooner."

The book contains a 24-page section of photos which are far superior to those received from Associated Press or United Press International radio transmissions during the U-2 incident or the trial.

THE FACE OF SAN FRANCISCO by Harold Gilliam, Doubleday and Co., 255 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

STEREO NOTES

New Soviet Piano Phenom Has Music World Agog

By JOHN SUNIER

SCHUBERT: SONATA IN D MAJOR, OP. 35 — While stereo recordings are the main interest in this column, there are some important works being released which either for various reasons are not available in stereo or wouldn't gain very much from stereo reproduction. This disc is one of both.

The former because it was recorded in the Soviet Union, where although advanced stereophonic techniques are being used, the exported tapes have thus far been only mono. The latter because although stereo definitely does made a difference in the reproduction of a single instrument, it isn't as much as with multiple performers.

Monitor Records is a small New York company specializing in excellently-engineered mono recordings of folk music of Eastern Europe and Russia, recorded in the countries of origin. They also have a fine list of classical works, mainly performed by such world renowned Russian artists as the Oistakhs, Rostropovich, and Sviatoslav Richter.

Richter wowed San Francisco audiences at a recent piano recital, on his first U.S. tour. Critics the world over are agog over this new new musical personality, claiming that he has to be heard to be believed.

Heard he can be, on this disc in a sensitive, lyrical performance of the Schubert Sonata in D Major. Richter hates recording and thus not much of his work is available on records. Monitor has nine waxings by him, more than any other company. While some reviewers have decried the poor sound quality on many of Richter's releases made in Russia and hoped he would record many discs in this country with better sound, I find the quality of this recording perfectly acceptable.

'ROUND MARIN

rival of dusk, some of us youngsters would summon the energy to accompany my country cousin and the dogs into the fields to bring the cattle and sheep in. Then my uncle and some of the men would climb reluctantly from their chairs and make their way to the barn to perform the evening chores.

Afterwards there would be homemade ice cream with the kids vying for the privilege of turning the freezer handle under the light of a kerosene lamp that seemed to us children of the city far more wonderful than the electric lights of our own homes.

And great dishpans full of well buttered popcorn grown right there on the farm.

By then the smaller children would be nodding off to sleep, or fretting and fussing a bit as they fought off the sandman.

Reluctantly, one by one the families would start to make their departure. One final thrill remained: Our aunt invariably presented us with a loaf or two of her crusty, fragrant, home-made bread to take home with us.

Sausalito Scenes For Her Sister City

PHOTOGRAPHERS CATCH SPIRIT OF THEIR CITY

Sausalito is no exception. You begin to know its people as you watch them repair their boats, stroll the sidewalks and argue and discuss at small restaurants and bookshops along the main thoroughfare.

Sausalito has been captured by three Marin photographers in a black and white exhibit which is on display this weekend in the City Hall at 727 Bridgeway.

The exhibit closes tomorrow, and will then be sent to Vina del Mar, Chile, Sausalito's sister city, as part of Sausalito's People-to-People exchange program.

The late Dulce Duncan Ray, well known Sausalito photographer, began the project. Work was completed by Ted Castle with assistance of Michael Bry and Georgia Longini. Photographers Castle and Bry are of Sausalito; Miss Longini lived there until recently but now resides in Mill Valley.

There are 71 photographs. Before being sent to Vina, each one will be captioned in Spanish and a brief legend, "Sausalito Story," is being prepared to accompany the display.

Introducing Children To World Of Music

For six years the Symphony Guild of Marin has sponsored the Music for Minor series, an adventure in sound, rhythm and melody for the young people of Marin.

The fortunate young people the thus enabled to experience the joy of discovering how delightful sounds are made. Big sounds, little sounds, exciting, tinkling, romantic sounds become their friends. They have met and said "pleased to know you" to "papa bear" sounds like those from the tuba, bass, and horns; "mama bear" sounds from the cellos and violins, and "baby bear" sounds from the percussion instruments.

FROM THE entertaining Music for Minor programs the children have come to recognize these instruments of the orchestra by shape, color, and sound.

By dramatic demonstration and by participation that children love they have discovered the varied rhythmic beats of the world of music. They hear and feel the rhythm of the soldiers marching, the wolf chasing Peter, the wind howling, the dancers waltzing, the sea rising.

Under the sponsorship of the Symphony Guild thousands of young people over the past six years have been fascinated with their introduction into the world of music. Three different programs have been offered each spring at San Rafael High School and each program has had to be given twice to accommodate the enthusiastic crowds.

How did this program initiate? After the establishment of the Symphony Guild Orchestra in 1952 the Marin Unit of the San Francisco Junior League in cooperation with the Marin County superintendent of schools and the consultant in music education in Marin County schools presented the first Music for Minors Series in the spring of 1953. The object was to increase a child's enjoyment of concert music by giving him a little familiarity with the way it is produced. Members of the Symphony Guild orchestra played for this program, demonstrating the woodwind section and string section. All programs were presented at The Lark theater on Saturday mornings and played to packed houses of children absorbed in what they heard and saw.

IN ITS second year Irene Pritzker wrote a script about Symphony Guilda and led the children through the land of Orchestra. Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Youth Orchestra, and Barry Mineah, choral director, acted as commentators. In 1955 the Symphony Guild undertook the sponsorship and direction of the programs and presented Music for Minors in cooperation with the Marin County superintendent of schools. Each show has been carefully and dramatically designed to arouse and stimulate young people's enjoyment of music. Directing and participating in many of the programs have been top artists in Marin including Barry Mineah, choral director; Art Eisler, pianist; Anne Halprin and Dick Ford, dancers; Lucienne Dimitroff, artist, and Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Youth Orchestra.

One of the highlights was artist Lucienne Bloch and pianist Art Eisler at easel and piano challenging each other to respond visually to musical ideas. Art Eisler also played "colored" music as different colors flashed across the dark stage which drew "oohs" and "ahs" from the children. Barry Mineah's performance of all parts in "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," a one-man opera, is also well remembered as a comic joy. Warmly received were the San Francisco Boys Choir under director Mady Bacon of Berkeley. The "Western Opera" was a delightful child's parody of "Gunsmoke" featuring cowboys and guitars and performed by the Episcopal Boys Choir of Mill Valley.

The Symphony Guild is planning an even livelier Music for Minors series for this winter—the ninth consecutitve such season. But, first, to assure the continuation of its work in introducing young people to the wonderful world of music, the guild must realize its goals in its current membership drive.

The guild begins its new season of symphony concerts for adults next Friday at 8:30 p.m. at Marin Catholic High School, Greenbrae.

A Community Turns Impressario

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

An entire community, Homestead Valley, has decided to become impressario for a "Bach to Mozart" series of three musical evenings planned for the whole family.

According to Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, president of the Homestead Valley Improvements Club, which will sponsor the series in association with many Marin music lovers, the parties will be held Friday evenings, Dec. 30, Jan. 27, and Feb. 24, at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Programs will start at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt has been named general chairman for the venture, and a subscription drive is under way with tickets being sold at the Redwood Book Shop, the Greyhound bus depot, and the Marin Music Center, all in Mill Valley.

Tickets are also being sold by residents of the community.

Mrs. Goldschmidt explained that the audience will be seated cabaret style at candlelit tables, and refreshments will be available during intermissions and after the program.

Started as a "grass roots" movement among music lovers who wanted to hear really fine music more often, the enterprise also has the advantages of giving gifted artists more opportunity to be heard.

Just such evenings were enjoyed by audiences who had the privilege of listening to court-employed musicians like Mozart, and it is hoped that this relaxed, informal atmosphere can be recreated in Marin as it has been at Nepenthe, Big Sur, and elsewhere by the same musicians who will play for this series.

The "Bach to Mozart" players, as they call themselves, were formed after the final season of the San Francisco Little Symphony when several members decided to organize such a group.

The group chose Big Sur to try the experiment of a "back to the people" kind of music which permits performers and listeners to share musical experiences.

Gone were the barriers of footlights, formal wear, regimented seats and formal programs.

Some of the players are presently members of the San Francisco Symphony. Their total number on any given evening depends upon the music to be played, but all in all there are about 15 who take part in the program.

Appearing in the first all-Mozart program will be Everett O'Bannon, violinist; Helen Stross, cellist; Margaret and Ray Fabrizio, harpsichord and flute players respectively; and Raymond Duste, oboist, who is also spokesman for the group.

Included in their first program will be Mozart's duo for violin and viola, quartet for flute, quartet for oboe and "The Glass Harmonica."

ONE OF THE performing artists in the Homestead Valley Improvement Club sponsored music series will be Everett O'Bannon, violinist. Like most of the other performers, he plays with the San Francisco Symphony. He also performs with the Capella di Musica Chamber Group of San Francisco, the Marin Arts Quartet, and the Berkeley Quartet. The opening program of the series is set for Dec. 30 in Brown's Hall at Mill Valley.

THREE HOMESTEAD Valley Improvement Club women begin their planning for the decor that will transform Mill Valley's Brown's Hall into a suitable place for relaxed listening when the organization's "Bach to Mozart" fine music series begins Dec. 30. Peninsula's Popular Theater Troupe Is Going To School

'Little Red Shack' Busy Place As Players Conduct A Workshop

By DEE DEE ABRAMSON

The "Little Red Shack" on Tiburon's Main Street has been a beehive of activity lately . . . giving rise to neighboring residents' oft-repeated question: "What's going on in there with all those people going in and out during the week and on Sunday?"

The "Little Red Shack" is the rehearsal hall of the Cove Players, the Tiburon Peninsula's little theatre group that annually produces three plays in the Tiburon Playhouse for public viewing.

But the continuous activity in recent weeks has resulted in a play that the public will never see . . . It was presented for the critical viewing of the Cove Players membership only as presented at a general meeting this week.

The story behind the inception of the Cove Players dramatic workshop on stage and acting techniques, called the "Cove Workshop," began with the Cove's stage manager, William J. (Bill) Carter, and his idea to train novitiates in the art of set design to fill the ranks of helpers needed to produce the sets for the three major productions.

From this idea evolved the conception of an over-all workshop of seminars and practical demonstrations in all forms of the theater arts to enlarge the ranks of experienced Cove Players to participate in the plays.

Cove Workshop students attend lectures and seminars in the rehearsal hall at 112 Main Street in Tiburon on the average of twice a week. The practical demonstrations of the subject under discussion centered around the first one-act play, so as to combine theory with practice neatly.

The first workshop presented Thursday a full scale one-act play, "The Valiant," complete with properties, make-up and lighting, with Randall Grieg as director and Margaret Grieg as producer. In addition to twice-a-week rehearsal coaching, the workshop members meet once a week for instructiton in voice, pantomime, make-up, lighting and related stage techniques.

Joan McKinney of Tiburon, an award winner from the English Royal Dramatic Academy in elocution, conducts the group through a course in voice control and projection. Joan has played with the Arena Stage in Washington, D.C. and locally in "The Crucible" for Sausalito Little Theater. She is a veteran actress in the Cove Players productions, appearing most recently as the lead in "Chalk Garden."

The elements of costume design is discussed and taught by John Shockley of Mill Valley. He has worked with both Sausalito and the Tiburon groups, having designed and executed the costumes for "The Crucible" in the Sausalito Little Theater, and the Cove Players "An Inspector Calls."

LaVerne Cash of Tiburon, Cove Players veteran of 21 plays, is in charge of the beginners' instructiton in make-up opportunities in all types of character and straight roles.

Pantomime expression and stage movement are demonstrated by Bernard Bragg of Kentfield, who studied with Marcel Marceau and is a professional television headliner on NBC. He currently teaches at the Mara Alexander Gilbert's Actor's Lab in San Francisco.

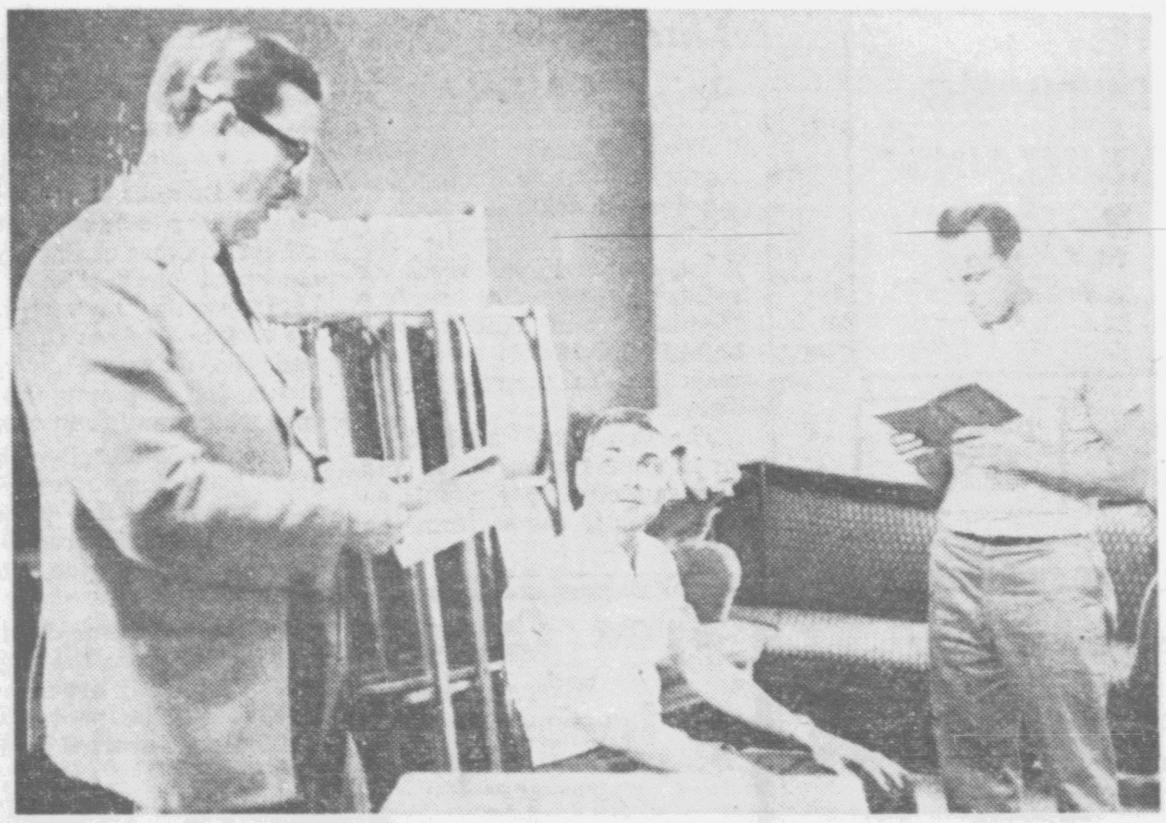

Cove Players president Arny Schultz points out that the workshop is open to all comers, providing they pay the five dollar membership fee in the Cove Players parent organization.

Present plans call for adding other prominent names in Bay Area little theater circles to the staff as the work progresses.

The results of the intensive practicing and instruction will be evident when the Cove Players present their winter production of "My Three Angels," which opens at the Tiburon Playhouse Dec. 2. It will run on Friday and Saturday nights for three successive weekends.

Eye-catching costumes on a low budget.

That's the accomplishment of John Shockley of Mill Valley, who is in charge of the wardrobe department for the Cove Players' production of "My Three Angels" which opens Dec. 2 at the Tiburon Playhouse.

Shockley has succeeded in designing and assembling the costumes for the coming Tiburon attraction at a total cost of—just $22.50.

SHOCKLEY HAS had no specific training in the costume area. But he has demonstrated a creative talent in the field. His work on the costuming of the Cove Players' earlier "An Inspector Calls" won him applause—particularly from those with knowledge in the field of costuming.

Handed an equally challenging job in the preparations for "My Three Angels" was set designer Vince Porcaro, experienced in the theater field with such groups as San Francisco's Actors Workshop, Encore Theater, and Sausalito Little Theater.

The play, by Sam and Bella Spewack, enjoyed a lengthy run on Broadway, and will play for three weekends in Tiburon. Dan Totheroh is the director and Lucille Shreve the producer.

THE CAST includes Nelson Shreve, Norma Christian, Catherine Mersereau, Ted Daum, Larry Allen, Tobey Casey, Edith Schneider, Bob Salvas, Jim Menlove and Charles Auerbach.

William Carter is the technical director.

Paint Plays 2 Roles In Kitchen

One is protection. Every time food is prepared and dishes are washed, moisture escapes into the air. Unless the kitchen walls have an adequate protective coating, this moisture seeps through the walls and causes serious damage. A coat of quality paint provides this necessary protection against moisture.

The second role paint plays in the kitchen is, of course, beauty. Paint is the easiest and most economical way to provide a cheerful, colorful kitchen decor.

Before painting, the surfaces must be clean. All dust and grease should be removed with soap and water. Any very smooth, glossy areas should be roughened up a bit with sandpaper to provide better adhesion for the new coat of paint.

Because all kitchen surfaces must be easily washable, the wisest paint choice is quality enamel. Semi-gloss enamel for the walls, and gloss enamel for woodwork and frequently handled areas such as cabinets, will provide durable surfaces that will withstand frequent scrubbings.

The ceiling, however, is one area that is best painted with a flat paint. Flat paint reduces the glare from reflected light. When painting the ceiling, keep in mind that a colorful ceiling is as eye-catching in the kitchen as in any other room. If the ceiling is quite high, consider using a deeper shade of your wall coloring. For a novel effect, use a completely different hue that harmoinzes with the rest of the color scheme.

Enameling the inside of cabinets and drawers is a good sanitary measure because it makes these surfaces much easier to clean. Use your bright accent color for the most attractive effect.

When choosing your kitchen color scheme, it's advisable to emphasize the cool blues, blue greens and blue grays. The warm corals, yellows and reds have the effect their name implies: they make the room seem warmer. Use these warm, bright colors for your accesories and trim.

Before you put your paints away, bring out your brooms, dustpan, garbage pails and other miscellaneous equipment. A quick coat of enamel will make these items as colorful as they are useful. Breadbox and cannisters can be enameled too, so they will match your new color scheme.

Your kitchen linoleum can also be included in the paint job. If it is worn in spots, or if it is not the color you desire, give it a coat of one of the quick drying latex floor enamels or the floor and deck enamels. If the linoleum is brand new, preserve it with a protective coating of clear floor varnish. Before applying a coating to new or old linoleum, make sure it is clean and free of wax.

THIS SET OF "plywood playmates" offers great fun for little tykes, whether they are in the mood for splashing in water or digging in sand. Plans for this "Sea 'n' Sandbox" set are available free from the Douglas Fir Plywood Associates at 1119 A Street, Tacoma 2, Wash.

WHEN THE SWIMMING pool half of the "Sea 'n' Sandbox" set is empty, it can be inverted over the sandbox to form a patio table.

Something For Little Ones Who Like To Splash, Dig

There's a period in the lives of all of us when there's nothing quite so satisfying or engrossing as rooting around in a sandbox or splashing intently in shallow water.

Cats are a sandbox problem and plastic pools have a high mortality rate when they're exposed to shovels, tricycles and lawn mowers, not to mention their young occupants.

With all this in mind, the editors of Family Circle magazine have come up with a couple of "plywood playmates" they call a Sea 'n' Sandbox. One is a pool, the other a sandbox. And they're both just great for small fry.

San Francisco landscape architect Douglas Baylis designed this easy-to-build, economical set. Editors of Family Circle spent more than a year before coming up with a series of five designs that satisfied the magazine's requirements for economy, appearance, safety and fun potential.

The Sea 'n' Sandbox set is made from three-quarter inch exterior type fir plywood, which is manufactured with a fully waterproof glue. Cost is under 50 dollars.

An added bonus in these units is that once the digging and splashing is over for the time being, the pool can be drained and inverted over the sandbox to make a fine patio or terrace table and keep the sand safe from interlopers.

A free construction plan is available from the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., 1119 A Street, Tacoma 2, Wash. Ask for the Sea 'n' Sandbox.

Three Coats Of Paint Advised

For best results in finishing fir plywood, as with any wood, apply three coats of paint.

The first should be flat paint, enamel undercoat or resin thinner. Fill surface blemishes and sand smooth before applying the next coat, according to manufacturer's directions.

The third coat, applied after the surface has dried and been sanded lightly, should go on just as it comes from the can.

THIS DESIGN OF 'mums and fall foliage is November's most popular floral gift, according to the Florists' Telegraph Delivery which created it. The service says the arrangement can be ordered by telegram and will be prepared almost identically and delivered by the local florists almost anywhere in the United States. It marks the first time in history such a service has been available. Florists also note that the arrangement is particularly keyed to Thanksgiving decor.

Plants For Holiday Decor

Don't look now, but the holiday season is hard upon us. And speaking of such things, how are you fixed for seasonal decor?

A note from the California Assn. of Nurserymen this week reminds us that there is no surer means of instilling the holiday spirit than with a living plant. And this holds true whether it's a centerpiece centerpiece of chrysanthemums for the Thanksgiving table or a tubful of Holly at the front door for Christmas.

Taking first things first, namely Thanksgiving, your number one choice for decor might well be the afore-mentioned chrysanthemum. 'Mums come in the colors that speak of fall, and their gaudy blooms stand out like beacons marking the season. The potfuls of color which any nurseryman can show you are long lasting even in the stuffy atmosphere of a heated house.

The bright berry clusters of pyracantha are ideal in every respect. For Thanksgiving, we'd rely on orange-berried varieties, since the color is more seasonal. As Christmas approaches, call on the brilliant, red-berried pyraancha to show the way. You can use them inside with the nursery cans suitably hidden in a large bowl or encased in colored paper. Outside in the garden and on the deck, the container is less of a problem. You won't even see it for the color.

Also for Christmas, your nurseryman offers Holly in full berry; and Aucuba (either the Green Leaf aucuba or the Gold Dust plant) which sports big, shiny and showy red berries. Last, but far from least, are the many fine conifers, some of which make ideal "living Christmas trees."

We'd like to remind you, too, that none of these is to be used for the holidays only and then discarded. Set them out in the garden and they will give you holiday decor for years to come.

Window Gardening Can Be Satisfying

They may be old-fashioned, but window boxes are far from forgotten by today's gardener.

Color at the window is just as nice to look out on now as it ever was—and maybe more so when you consider that our views in general are less sweeping than they were in a less crowded age. Marin has been more fortunate in this respect than many other areas.

If you've ever though of planting a window box, put your thoughts into action this month and enjoy the results when winter's worst weather sends you indoors. Not that winter's worst is very bad in Marin. But you'd have to be pretty far gone on gardening not to seek shelter at least once in a while.

Your neighborhood nurserymen can recommend plant material with which to start a window garden. He no doubt can show you some redwood containers that might be used at the window, too. If not, haul out the hammer and saw and knock something together yourself.

One thing you'll find at nurseries now to brighten your winter are Pansies. You can count on their bright and shining faces almost from the time you set them out. And having them close by a window enables you to pick bouquets whenever you get the whim. Violas are the logical companion in such a planting.

Window boxes on the sunny side can be ablaze with color this winter if you plant them with Calendulas. Waste no time in setting them out if you want to get color this year. Plant them in pots now if the window box isn't ready. You can plant them pot and all when the time comes.

Pelargoniums are also ideal for sunny sites while Fuchsias are partial to shade, as are lush Tuberous Begonias. Cascading varieties are most effective in window boxes.

Just plant a boxful of Fairy Primrose and you will share their cheer through many weeks of cool weather. Or try a handful of Cyclamen plants. You can buy them in blooms and keep them that way for months on end. They don't know the meaning of gloom, no matter what the weather man says.

Bulbs are ideal in window boxes. The earliest Narcissus bloom around Christmas and these set off a steady string of bulbs in bloom. Why not plant them all in pots and move them out to your window garden as they come into bloom?

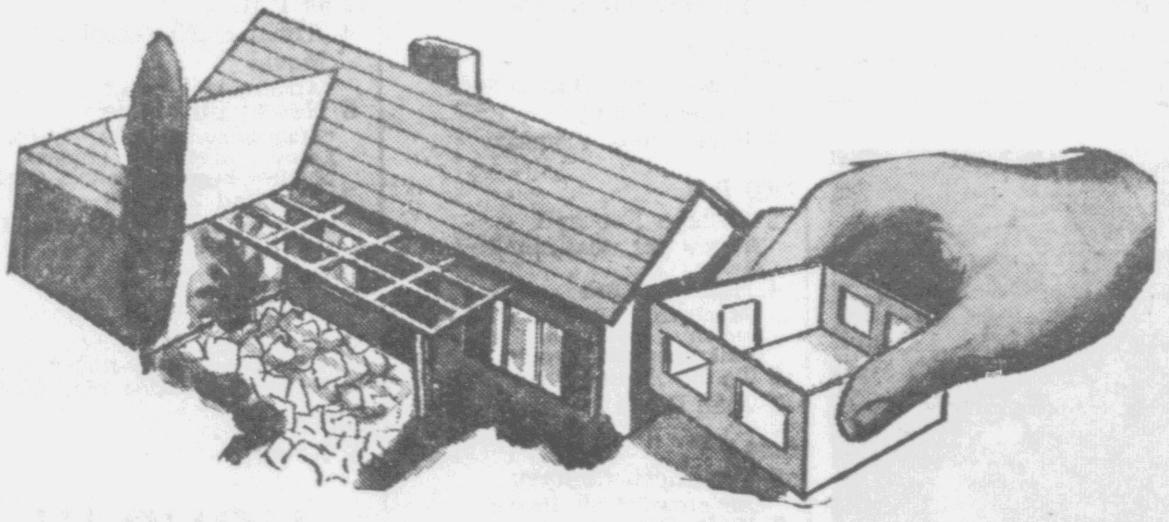

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

- Separate Begonia tubers from their stems as the latter dry off. Wash soil off the tubers and store them until next year in a dry place.
- Cut back Chrysanthemums as they go out of bloom. No need to wait.
- Fallen leaves and most faded annuals can be composted. The exception is diseased material such as mildewed Dahlia.
- Fuchsias may be bloomed out, but they are not to be pruned until after the first of the year. February is the usual month.
- November is the ideal month for planting evergreen shrubs and trees. Many bareroot trees will be available soon.

TV Turkey Day Menu: Football, Parades, And Some Special Music

FOOTBALL, parades and music will mark television's contribution to the Thanksgiving Day observance next Thursday.

Thanksgiving Day football games are fewer than they once were, but Bay Area stations will be carrying no less than three pigskin contests on Thursday. KPIX-TV (Channel 5) will carry the Green Bay Packers vs. Detroit Lions National Football League grudge battle starting at 9 a.m. KGO-TV (Channel 7) will air not one but two holiday games—the Texas A and M vs. Texas collegiate game starting at 11:45 a.m., and the Dallas vs. New York pro American Football League tilt beginning at 2:30 p.m.

As for the parades, early-risers can see a "Thanksgiving Parade Jubilee" from 7 to 8:30 a.m. on KPIX. Live pick-ups from three big holiday spectacles—the Macy parade in New York, the Gimbel parade in Philadelphia and the Hudson parade in Detroit — will be included. And on KRON-TV (Channel 4) starting at 10 a.m. the Macy parade in New York will be given a complete coverage.

And the music: Starting at 4 p.m. there will be a showing of an hour-long tape of a concert given by Leonard Bernstein and his New York Philharmonic in West Berlin in September. Bernstein will conduct from the piano while acting as soloist for the performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C Major. And at 5:30 p.m. KRON will carry a musical variety show entitled "No Place Like Home." Starring Jose Ferrer, Rosemary Clooney, Dick Van Dyke and Carol Burnett, it is planned as a light-hearted look at man's attempts through the ages to make a better home for himself.

ALSO WORTHY of your special attention during the coming week:

Tonight's debate on "The Nation's Future" on KRON at 9:30 p.m. Two authorities on population problems, Sir Julian Huxley, British scientists and former director general of UNESCO, and Jacques Mertens De Wilmars of Belgium, chairman of the United Nations Population Commission, will argue whether international birth control is needed.

Sunday's best looms as the premiere show in the new "Genius" series to be devoted to outstanding world personalities with Ghandi as the initial subject at 12:30 p.m. on KRON; a two-hour presentation of "Macbeth," starring Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson at 6 p.m. on KRON; and the first of two musical specials scheduled for this season by Emmy winner Harry Belafonte on KPIX at 10 p.m.

Tuesday the NBC Project 20 crew will be back with another look into the colorful past, "The Ragtime Years," featuring Hoagie Carmichael. Starting time is 10 p.m. on KRON.

Wednesday there will be Sean O'Casey's "June and the Paycheck" as "Play of the Week" on KTVU-TV (Channel 2) at 8 p.m.

And on Friday the "Bell Telephone Hour," KRON-TV at 9 p.m. will offer Helen Hayes and Farley Granger plus an abundance of musical talent in the life and music of Peter Ilyitch Tchaikovsky. And at 9:30 p.m. on KPIX the "CBS Reports" team headed by Edward R. Murrow will take a hard look at the plight of our migratory farm workers.

YALE ROE of Sausalito, sales executive with KGO-TV (Channel 7), has been back East where along with the likes of Federal Communications Commissioner Robert Lee, writer Rod Serling and critic Robert Lewis Shayou, he appeared before the Milwaukee County Radio and TV Conference as a speaker and panelist.

In his talk Thursday Roe stressed that active commercial support of cultural programs is the key to better TV, and paid tribute to firms which have shown the courage to sponsor shows of the caliber of "Close-Up," "Eyewitness to History" and "Expedition."

Roe noted that it is financially impossible for the television industry itself to underwrite the total economic burden of providing adequate public service programming, and urged more businesses to divert a portion of their TV expenditures into shows that provide an intellectual stimulus and satisfaction.

Finally, Roe observed that many of the very people who are clamoring for more public service programs do not even watch the ones now available.

He put it this way: "Don't write your local program manager for presentations of the Chicago Symphony if you're not going to watch it after he spends tens of thousands of dollars buying that videotaped series. . . . Don't go around telling everyone we ought to have more shows like 'Meet the Press' when weeks go by without you watching the outstanding national and international figures that appear on that program. . . . The point is you cannot have it both ways. You cannot say you want one thing, when you really want something else."

IT IS THIS coming Friday night that KQED-TV (Channel 9) turns a portion of its Drama Festival time period over to the Sausalito Little Theater for its melodrama, "East of the Rockies," Wurlitzer organ and all. The fun will start at 8:30 p.m.

And we goofed last week and were a week early when we announced that Marinite Dick Ford would have Tiburon tots as his guests on his "Hop, Skip and Dance" KQED show. It will be next Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

AS A TRIBUTE to the late Clark Gable, KGO-TV (Channel 7) has shifted its 11 p.m. movie schedule and will run Gable films all next week instead of Esther Williams pictures as originally planned.

MARIN VEILED IN AUTUMN GLORY

Picturesque hills and valleys turn into land of enchantment as autumn scatters hues of gold, green and red. This typical Marin scene was snapped by Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax off Shoreline Highway near the Sonoma border. Marin is in its best finery this time of year.

Red Order Held Quieting Castro Slashes At U.S.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — The muting of Fidel Castro's rocket-rattling warnings to the United States heightened speculation here today that Moscow has advised him to take a more moderate course in his dealings with Washington.

The Kremlin's hand may be behind the lessening of attacks in the government press against President-elect John F. Kennedy—in contrast with the increased tempo against President Richard M. Nixon—possibly with a view to keeping a path open to later conciliatory approaches.

It was noted here that Prime Minister Castro's newspapers and radio made no mention of Soviet rocket support in their blasts at President Eisenhower for ordering U.S. Navy ships and planes to set up anti-invasion patrols off Guatemala and Nicaragua.

The Eisenhower order — the result of a request from Guatemala and Nicaragua who charged unsuccessful revolts against their governments in the past week were aided by Cuba—set off a chain furore, including both critical and approving comment in Latin America on the naval action and a Cuban letter of protest to the United Nations.

Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras said he favored a Korean-type police action against Cuba, and both Guatemala and Nicaragua were reported considering invoking the hemisphere's 1947 Rio de Janpeiro treaty of mutual assistance.

Castro's boasting of Soviet rocket support ceased almost abruptly before the present blowup in the Caribbean. This kind of talk abated after Castro himself told Cubans on Nov. 9 not to depend too much on Soviet offers of assistance.

This speech followed by three days another by Soviet

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy and Sen. Stuart Symington, (D-Mo.), today discussed revamping the Defense Department to provide "the right kind of organization" for this nuclear space age.

Symington, head of a Kennedy-named study committee on Pentagon reorganization, put it that way at a news conference after a 95-minute meeting with the president-elect.

Symington, frequently mentioned as a possible Kennedy choice for secretary of defense, said in reply to questions that there was no discussion at today's session of a Cabinet post for him.

The senator, said he told Kennedy last August that he would rather stay in the Senate than have a position in the executive branch.

He added that his study committee on Defense Department re-organization hopes to have its report completed by the end of this month.

Symington said reorganization must recognize the great technological developments in fields such as space. The aim, the senator said, is "more for the taxpayer's dollar."

CAP Planes Hunting For Lost Pilot

Civil Air Patrol planes under the direction of the Sixth Air Force Region Search and Rescue Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, today were searching for a civilian pilot believed down on a flight from San Francisco's Crissy Field to Bakersfield.

The pilot, a civilian employee at Edwards AFB near Victorville, took off from San Francisco yesterday morning at 11:55 o'clock. His destination was Edwards AFB with a re-fueling stop scheduled for Bakersfield. His last radio contact was with the control tower at Oakland.

Maj. Victor L. Wright of the Hamilton sub-regional rescue patrol center, said the search planes were from Palo Alto and Fresno. Due to fog conditions, he said, they were prevented from starting their search until about 10 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff's deputies from Bakersfield were also searching the surrounding area, Major Wright said.

Soviets Rip Congo Move

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Russia charged today that the United States was trying "at all costs" to suppress the nationalist movement in the Congo by blocking the seating in the General Assembly of representatives of "the legal" government of leftist Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Zorin said Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu had no authority to appoint a U. N. delegation without the consent of his parliament, and stated that the president of both chambers of the Leopoldville Legislature had challenged the action.

Aggies Show Prize Stock In San Rafael

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

A corner of the courthouse green was turned into a farm fairground today as members of the Novato Aggies 4-H Club placed some prize stock on display.

The stock looked plump, shiny and healthy. 4-H leader William H. Melson of 1456 South Novato Boulevard commenting on the stock noted, "if they can't make show, into the pot!"

Melson explained that the purpose of the display commemorating Farm Week was "to acquaint city people with what rural kids do for a pastime."

Four rabbits lay on their haunches in raised pens in the middle of the display. Two of the rabbits, New Zealand does belonging to Mike Giari, 12, of 1871 Marion Avenue, looked a little worried about the commotion.

Two sisters, Marilyn, 12, and Betty Benaski, 15, of 674 Peach Street, watched over a brightly colored food display spread out on the courthouse lawn.

Marilyn noted that there would have been more than the Australian squash, gourds and Indian squash but that "everything is dead now." The show ended at 3 p.m.

U.S. Says Cuba Getting Soviet Bloc Arsenal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

The State Department announced last night that according to the best available information the government of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has already imported 28,000 tons of arms from the Soviet bloc, including tanks, guns and eight MIG jet fighters.

AUTOMATIC RIFLES

According to the department's figures, Castro has received a total of 93,000 automatic rifles, including 45,000 from Communist Czechoslovakia; 10,000 submachineguns; a variety of heavier weapons and 10 Soviet helicopters.

The State Department said Castro now has the largest army in Latin America.

ARMS SUPPLY

The Soviet Union and Red China are cooperating in the supply of arms to Castro, the State Department said, because they "apparently desire to contribute to Caribbean tensions by burdening the Cuban economy with excessive arms purchases and by supporting the aggressive policies of the Cuban prime minister."

Washington officials expressed the hope that disclosure of the Cuban arms information, evidently obtained from intelligence sources, would alert other nations throughout the hemisphere to the dangers of serious Communist-directed trouble.

TEENER SHOT IN NEW ORLEANS DISTURBANCE

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A teen-age Negro boy, shouting obscenities about the courts and the white people, ran amuck with a knife in the French quarter today and severely wounded a small white boy before he was shot down by police.

The Negro slashed away at whites along Dauphine Street in the latest outbreak of racial violence brought on by tensions over integration of New Orleans schools.

Deputy Hurt As Driver Resists Arrest

A sheriff's deputy was sent to Marin General Hospital early this morning following a battle in which he and a fellow officer forcibly arrested a Sausalito man on charges of driving with a revoked license.

The suspect, Willie Lord Williams, 28, of 210 Spring Street, was scheduled to appear in court Monday on charges of burglary. He was booked this morning on the additional charges of resisting arrest and driving with a revoked license.

According to Sheriff's Deputies Boyd Burnham and Dennis Shine, Williams was driving from Marin City to Sausalito. With him was Tari Marie King of 710 Spring Street, Sausalito.

When the car was stopped at Bridgeway and Northbridge, Williams and Miss King exchanged places at the wheel. Deputies stopped the car to question Williams about his driver's license.

Williams said he changed places because he was to be tried for burglary on Monday, he would be "dead" if caught driving without a proper license.

The officers said he "resisted violently," cursed and kicked them when he was placed under arrest.

Decrease Set In Prisoners At San Quentin

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A reduction of about 1,000 in the number of prisoners in San Quentin Prison during the year starting next June is forecast in the budget being requested by the Department of Corrections for operation of the Marin institution.

Walter Dunbar, deputy director of the department, said the reduction would be accomplish in the face of an over-all increase in the number of prisoners throughout the state because of the opening of the new medium security facility, Las Padres, near San Luis Obispo.

The number of prisoners throughout the state is expected to increase from an estimate 21,515 at the end of next June, to 22,715 a year later. But San Quentin's population will be reduced from about 4,800 to 3,850 in the same period.

The new Las Padres prison, scheduled to open in the middle of next year, will initially take about 2,400 men and the expansion of the forestry camp program will take others, making the reduction at San Quentin possible, Dunbar said. This still leaves the prison crowded, he noted, because its capacity is supposed to be 2,700.

At the same time, he insisted, the reduction of the number of prisoners "does not endanger anyone's job." He said that normal turnover in staff would accomplish the expected staff reduction, although it was possible there would be some

Presbyterian Pastor, Six Children Perish In Minnesota Auto Accident

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A Minnesota pastor and the six children he was caring for while his wife attended a school play were killed last night when his car slammed into a concrete bridge abutment.

"The worst I've ever seen and it makes it more terrible because of the children," said Sheriff Gerald E. Cunningham.

"It looked like that car had been cut down the middle by a giant pair of shears."

Killed were the Rev. John Eastman, 28, and all his children—Pamela, 7, Mary, 5, James, 4, Carol, 3, Thomas, 2, and John about 10 months.

The crash came on a county road near Dover, 15 miles east of here, as Eastman was driving the children to visit the family of a fellow pastor at Plainview.

The sheriff reported the impact drove the concrete bridge shaft about eight feet into the car pushing the instrument panel into the rear seat.

Eastman was thrown from the car. The children were mangled within it. Wreckers had to be called before all the bodies could be removed. The pastor died in an ambulance on the way to a Rochester hospital. A passing motorist found the wreckage.

Eastman had served Presbyterian churches at nearby Utica and Lewiston, 30 miles east of Rochester where the family lived, since 1957.

"Our whole town is feeling this blow," said the Rev. Walter Meyer, pastor of Lewiston's German Lutheran church. "Everybody knew John and loved him. His was a happy family."

Mrs. Eastman had gone to the school play with neighbors while her husband was baby sitting. She was in shock and under the care of a physician after being told of the tragedy.

To eke out his income, Eastman had driven the Lewiston school bus for two years. He was an avid golfer and bowler and a leader in the Lions Club and the Masonic Lodge.

Gas Prices Cut In Bay Stations

Independent stations in the East Bay were reported selling regular gasoline at 20.9 cents per gallon, but Marin prices remained today at about 29.9 for major brand regular.

One chain in Marin is selling at 27.9 for regular and 31.9 for ethyl. An independent station in Fairfax was reported offering regular for 26.9.

Communists Hold Red Summit Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leaders of the Communist world today were reported drawing up a communique on a Red summit conference so secret no official had admitted that it took place.

The departure of Czech President Antonin Novotny for Prague appeared to signal the windup of the week-long gathering of Communist leaders as guests of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Violinist Triumphs

MOSCOW (AP) — A comparatively unknown young New York City violinist last night scored the biggest and most unexpected American musical triumph in Moscow since Van Cliburn. Joyce Flissler was kept on the stage of Tschaikovsky Hall by a storm of applause.

New Congregation To Hold First Worship Tomorrow

The two-month-old congregation of Saint Luke's Presbyterian Parish will hold its first worship service tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the home of organizing pastor Ralph Shanks at 50 Las Casas Drive in Loch Lomond.

Rev. Shanks, before coming to San Rafael to organize a new church in September, was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Helena.

The new congregation is made up of versatile members. For example Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Walker of 44 Las Casas Drive donate their home as nursery, Walker is usher and chairman of a committee to find a site for a sanctuary, and Mrs. Walker is the congregation's secretary.

Church planning sessions are held in private homes where along with "banana cake and cider" committees for details of worship, program study, telephone chain, and finances function.

The congregation already has a news letter called the Saint Luke's Log because, said Rev. Shanks, "if you have read Acts 27, you will find that Saint Luke was a navigator as well as a physician." It could also be pointed out that the manse is located several blocks from San Rafael Bay.

The program committee, headed by Clayton Rice of 337 Point San Pedro Road, will examine programs established churches in the Presbytery have used for many years, and select, or put together, one they think would be the best or most promising for Saint Luke's, said Rice.

While Saint Luke's does have a formal communique and has formed a committee for sophisticated programming, like many a new church it has no organ, and the pastor reports "no organist in sight."

Pastor Shanks said the manse would be used for worship until a more suitable place was found.

I-J WILL LIST THANKSGIVING CHURCH RITES

The Independent-Journal will publish a list of special Thanksgiving services in Marin churches in next Wednesday's edition.

Thankfulness

Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, tomorrow at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services will preach a sermon entitled "How to Be Genuinely Thankful on a Full Stomach."

Annual Rate Of Income On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income of Americans climbed to a record annual rate of 409.6 billion dollars in October.

The total was 800 million dollars higher than the annual rate for September and was 25 billion above the annual rate of October last year.

The Commerce Department, in announcing the figures Thursday, said a dip in the total wages paid factory workers in October was more than offset by small gains in pay for government, construction and retail employees. Farm income dipped slightly during the month. Income of business proprietors and professional men improved slightly.

Lutheran Church Will Give Up 66 Members

At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera will lose 66 members.

Pastor George O. Loftness announced that at the special early worship service, 17 families will be officially transferred from Marin Lutheran to the newly formed Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

In announcing the transfer, Rev. Loftness explained that the out-going group is not being dismissed, but rather the action will "be a sending forth of Christ's servants into a new field to gather other members for the Kingdom and to minister more effectively to young and old in a new area."

This is not the first time Marin Lutheran has been generous with its members. In 1956 the church transferred 38 members to the then newly established Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Marin Lutheran itself was established by Loftness 13 years ago this month with the congregation of 37 members officially formed a year later.

Loftness reported that during the first month of Marin Lutheran's operation only 102 persons attended worship and total offerings were $80.05.

Today the church's membership is 547 and the operational budget this year was $41,580 with $8,000 going to missions and charity.

Confirmation Set At Holy Innocents

The Convocation of Marin will hold the Rite of Holy Confirmation at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish, Corte Madera, tomorrow with the Rt. Rev. Henry H. Shires, retired Suffragan Biship, officiating.

Candidates for confirmation, as well as members to be received from other communions, will be presented by Rev. Kenneth Cleator of St. Francis Mission, Novato.

Sheriff To Speak To Church Youth

Youth from the Bay Area zone of the International Walther League will be addressed by Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael, announced pastor Fred C. Braunschweiger.

Some one hundred members of the religious organization and representing 11 churches, will participate in the program of "worship, education and recreation," to begin at 2:30 p.m. said the pastor.

Jubilee Planned

Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon, resident of Kentfield and vice president of the advisory board of directors of St. Mary of the Palms in Fremont, announced that a program will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the institution to celebrate its 50 years of service as a child welfare center.

Baptist Guest

Pastor Lawrence Pollock of the Grace Baptist Church in Boyes Hot Springs, Sonoma County, will be guest speaker at the 6 and 7 p.m. worship services Sunday at the Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur, announced Rev. Michael Barkowska, pastor.

The oldest stained glass in the world is certain figures of the Prophets in a window in the Cathedral of Augsburg, Germany, dating from the 11th Century.

Annexation Question On Agenda

What's going to be done about annexation of Terra Linda to the City of San Rafael?

That is the question to be considered Monday night when the San Rafael City Council meets at 8 o'clock in the city hall.

Under consideration is a resolution setting a public hearing and calling for a special election to annex about 7,000 Terra Lindans to the city. At their last meeting, councilmen balked when they learned that they might not get two park sites in Terra Linda.

PARK SITES

The Terra Linda Community Services District voted to turn over Del Ganado and Oleander park sites (4.8 acres) to the recreational district.

City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw will make his report on the situation to the councilmen Monday night.

Two public hearings will be held at the council meeting—on a protest by Dr. William S. Neal, owner of the Marin Medical Center, against a use permit granted for a 20-unit apartment on Professional Center Parkway and on the city's new municipal code.

NOT EXPECTED

Councilman Fred Jensen, at the last council meeting, declared the 412-page municipal code wasn't what he had been expecting for the past six years.

Approval of the code book was postponed and the city attorney was directed to invite to Monday night's meeting Robert T. Anderson, Berkeley lawyer who drew up the original codification.

Councilmen are expected to appoint a chief building inspector to fill a vacancy created by the death of Clifford Monk on Oct. 16.

Also scheduled for council consideration are protests from property owners in the Villa Real subdivision against a variance permit granting a nine-foot fence around the tennis court of Melvin Marlowe at 50 Arguello Circle.

Kenya Topic For Speaker At College

Dr. Gikonyo Kiano, minister of commerce and finance of Kenya, Africa, will speak at College of Marin Nov. 28 at 8 p.m. on "Africa, the World and the West."

Dr. Kiano's visit to the United States is in conjunction with the convention of the Institute of International Relations at the end of this month in San Francisco. He is one of the principal speakers at the convention.

His talk on the Kentfield campus will be for the benefit of the Committee for Kenya Students, an organization formed two years ago and which sponsors about 30 Kenya students attending various colleges in the Bay Area.

Dr. Kiano and his wife own andoperate a private school of high school level in Kenya where he teaches when time permits He was educated at Antioch College, Stanford University and received his Ph. D. from the University of California.

His Marin appearance is being sponsored by St. Cecelia's Guild of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley, and by the International Relations Section of the American Assn. of University Women.

AF Announces Deadline On Dependents

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force has taken the first concrete step to carry out President Eisenhower's order to reduce the number of wives and children living overseas with American servicemen.

NO FAMILIES

The Air Force yesterday set a deadline of next Feb. 1 for overseas travel orders for dependents of its uniformed personnel.

After that date, the Air Force said, those going to overseas assignments must go without their families.

The Air Force said exceptions "will have to be granted for humanitarian considerations, hardships and peculiarities of selected Air Force units."

Secretary of the Navy William B. Franke said detailed Navy plans are now being prepared to carry out the gradual reduction of overseas dependents.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, for the second day in a row, Friday implied that the order might serve to weaken American military effectiveness abroad.

'FORWARD STRATEGY'

Brucker told a Retired Officers Assn. convention the presence of service families overseas is evidence to friend and foe that U.S. "forward strategy is not a fly-by-night arrangement." Previously he had expressed concern over the effect of the order on morale of overseas troops.

The Army has 248,788 dependents overseas. The Air Force has 197,438, and the Navy and Marines have 37,837.

The Eisenhower order calls for the total number of overseas dependents to be reduced by 284,000—about half the total.

Teacher Salary Group To Hear Finance Expert

The Novato Teachers Assn. salary committee will hear from an expert on school financing Tuesday night—and has invited the Novato Unified School District trustees to sit in, too.

Dr. Oscar Anderson of the San Francisco State College faculty, school finance consultant to the California Teachers Assn., will be the speaker, committee chairman Jack Weston announced today.

The meeting will be in the district administration building at Novato High School.

Yule Club Offers Writing Contest

A writing contest with more than $20,000 in prizes is being sponsored for those who belong to, or join, the Christmas Club at First National Bank in San Rafael.

The contest requires writing an original true story on the subject, "My Personal Experience With Christmas Club and Financial Institutions."

Christmas Club will award a 1961 Rambler station wagon, a Rambler sedan and 176 additional prizes to national winners in the contest.

Free copies of the contest rules and a complete list of prizes are available at all offices of First National.

Marin Bond Sales

Marin County savings bond sales totaled $101,215 for October, it was announced today by D. C. Davis, Marin County savings bond chairman. Sales throughout the state reached an all-time high of $10,160,191, an increase of 2.6 per cent over the same period last year, Davis said.

Rites For Gable Conducted With Dignified Solemnity

Curious Swarm To Cemetery But Keep Distance

GLENDALE (UPI)—Final rites for Clark Gable were conducted today just as the great movie star had hoped they would be, with dignified solemnity.

Crowds of the curious swarmed two miles up the cemetery hills attempting to reach the chapel, but only a few hundred managed to reach the area of Forest Lawn's Church of the Recessional where the funeral took place. They were orderly, however, and kept a discreet distance.

Gable had feared that upon his death his funeral might become a spectacle such as the one that took place two years ago when Tyrone Power died.

Instead, the Episcopal service was quietly attended by his wife Kay—who is expecting the actor's first child—her two children, and 500 friends.

The private military funeral was attended by the great names of Hollywood, his first co-star Norma Shearer, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor and Jimmy Stewart, all pallbearers, and Robert Stack, Ann Sothern, Jack Oakie, Van Johnson, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, and Frank Capra.

Chaplain Johnson E. West of March Air Force Base read from the 46th and 121st Psalms and the Epistle to Thessalonians for the former "GI" who rose from the ranks to become a World War II major.

Mourners sat in the small chapel. The solid bronze casket was covered with a blanket of red roses and a small crown of miniature, deeper red roses, symbolic of "the king" of Hollywood actors.

Mrs. Gable was dressed in black and accompanied by her children, Bunker, 10, and Joan, 9. She was dry-eyed when she entered the chapel, but tearful as she was led from the services on the arm of the chaplain.

An Air Force honor guard stood by in shiny chrome helmets, blue uniforms, white scarfs, belts and gloves. The 59-year-old Gable's body was dressed in civilian clothes.

After the services the casket was opened for members of the family who filed by to bade a last farewell.

Entombment will take place next week. Gable's remains will be placed in a crypt beside those of his third wife, Carole Lombard.

Recreation Unit Gets Park Deeds

At a 15-minute special meeting last night, the board of directors of the Terra Linda Recreation District accepted deeds to two park sites, eliminating the last snag in the proposed annexation of Terra Linda to San Rafael.

Deeds to the 4.8 acres of land of the Del Ganado and Oleander park sites were given the district by Joseph R. Gunn III, president of the Terra Linda Community Services District Board.

There was no opposition to the action, said Walter J. Fairweather, chairman of the recreation district board.

Republican Trouble-Shooters Mulling Decision On Recount

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican trouble-shooters are being sent into eight states to take a "close, hard look" at the presidential election results—and decide whether recounts could change those results.

The decision was taken yesterday at a meeting of three of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's top echelon campaign strategists, Leonard W. Hall, Robert H. Finch and Fred C. Scribner. Finch emphasized that Nixon himself had no part in the plan and hadn't been consulted.

Republican party representatives are being sent to Illinois, Texas, Missouri, New Mexico, Nevada, South Carolina, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Lou Guylay, spokesman for the Republican National Committee, said an estimated 25,000 complaints claiming voting irregularities have been received, many urging recounts.

He said the party agents will check these complaints and try to determine whether a recount in those states might turn Republican defeat into belated victory for Nixon.

As it stands now, with vote counts still trickling in here and there, Democrat John F. Kennedy still has assurance of 300 electoral votes, 31 more than the minimum for election.

Kennedy's nationwide popular vote still maintained a tiny margin over Nixon's. The totals:

Coast Chamber

Golden, Silver Anniversaries Will Be Feted

An unusual double anniversary will be celebrated tomorrow as a Greenbrae mother and daughter mark their golden and silver weddings together.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgarrald and Mrs. Josephine Ouellette were both married on the same date, because, as Mrs. Ouellette says, "the general time we planned for my wedding was so close to my parents' anniversary, that it seemed a shame not to make it on the same day."

The two couples are so close that they have lived in the same house most of the Ouelette's married life. They lived in San Francisco until six months ago, before moving into a new house at 195 Via Lerida.

James Fitzgarrald met 14-year-old Elizabeth Cavin in a Clay Center, Kan., skating rink in 1906. Soon he was carrying her skates home regularly, then her books. After four years, when he was 20, they were married. After 15 years of married life, they decided to make a new start, in California.

Settling in San Francisco, Fitzgarrald became a printing salesman, an occupation from which he is now semi-retired. Soon they had two small daughters, Geraldine and Josephine. As in any family, the girls were grown "almost before we realized it," Mrs. Fritzgarrald now says.

In the deep depression of 1933, Josephine attending a party, met Ronald Quellette. Within two years they were married at the Grace Cathedral chapel. Three years later, their son, Lindsay, now a USC senior in Telecommunications, was born.

Geraldine had become Mrs Lee Martin and mothered four children. She is expected to be in San Francisco tomorrow to attend the celebration, along with 15 out of town relatives who have come to swell the guest list to more than 200.

Also among the guests will be Estell Smullin and Florence Nordquist, widowed sisters from Clay Center, girlhood friends of Mrs. Fritzgarrald, who came to Marin early in order to bake the cake for the event.

Officers Hear Crime Specialist

About 65 or 70 peace officers heard criminologist Dr. Paul L. Kirk discuss "criminalistics" Thursday at the Marin County Peace Officers Assn. dinner meeting in San Rafael.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, host for the evening, introduced the well-known professor from University of California. John R. Flor, president of the peace officers group, was master of ceremonies.

Unknown Tenant Made Apartment In Pillbox

Furniture and personal belongings of a tenant who was "evicted" from his pillbox apartment overlooking Muir Beach on Thursday were still waiting to be claimed today in the Marin County Sheriff's office.

The home from which the unknown occupant was "ousted" is an abandoned concrete artillery emplacement which was complete with a padlock on the door. Removing the lock, officers discovered the interior to be tastefully furnished with a chair, table, Sterno stove, razor, candles, a stock of groceries, daily newspapers dating back to May and several Army shirts and trousers.

The "apartment," measuring 10x10 feet, apparently had been used as a weekend retreat, Sheriff's deputies said. The clothing bore the name "Donelski."

The name Donelski was turned over to Hamilton Air Force Base Intelligence for investigation, but officials at the base reported no such name in their files.

Discovery of the off-beat apartment was made by Mrs. Helen Newman of 841 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon, while walking on the nine-acre site. It formerly was owned by the Army, and was purchased last month by the county for a park.

Undersheriff Eugene Meyer said he regretted the eviction. "The place was very neat and tidy," he said.

Officials said they were not "after the guy," but wished he would come in and pick up his belongings.

Housewife Due Sentence For Theft

Novato housewife Helen June Winsor, 40, originally accused of fraudulently receiving welfare aid, will be sentenced next month for petty theft.

Mrs. Winsor, mother of two, yesterday pleaded guilty to petty theft before Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court. Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino said the original charges of grand theft and perjury were dropped because the amount of welfare aid she had received was not large, and there is indication that she may have been entitled to what she received even if her husband's allotments had been declared.

Antoan W. Adam, investigator for the district attorney said Mrs. Winsor got about $400 in aid since last July. At the time she applied, she said she did not know her husband Earl's whereabouts and was getting no support from him.

Winsor is an operating engineer living in San Francisco. He is now accused of failing to support his family.

Mrs. Winsor will appear in court at 3 p.m. Dec. 1 for a probation report and sentencing for petty theft.

Marine Reservists Set 'Toys For Tots' Drive

Marin Corps reservists of the 14th Rifle Company will conduct their sixth annual county-wide "Toys for Tots" campaign starting Friday and continuing through Dec. 19.

Persons who wish to contribute may leave toys in special barrells which will be distributed to Shell service stations throughout the county.

Capt. Ole B. Christensen, commander of the 14th Rifle Company, urged local school, church and civic groups to organize toy drives among their memberships. New toys or toys in good condition are needed.

Toys left in the barrels will be taken to the reserve company's headquarters at the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, Kentfield, for distribution by local welfare groups and the Mill Valley special training school for children.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the training center. Home pickups of large amounts of toys may be arranged.

Milk Price Hearing Set In Sausalito

The state department of agriculture will hold a public hearing in Sausalito, Nov. 30, to consider increasing the minimum price of milk in the Marin marketing area.

The hearing will be held in the Fiesta room of the Alta Mira Hotel, 126 Buckley Street, beginning at 10 a.m.

The present minimum prices for milk sold to consumers in the area are 24 cents per quart at stores and 25 cents per quart delivered at home.

Director of Agriculture William E. Warne said the hearing had been called in response to a petition from Milk Distributors of Marin requesting an increase in price to offset increases in labor and distribution cost.

The petition stated that since the last price change, in August, 1957, two sizeable wage raises have occurred as well as an increase of three per cent in paper milk carton prices.

At the hearing, the department will not propose any new minimum milk prices but will consider testimony by distributors and other persons affected by the minimum wholesale and minimum retail prices for fluid milk in the area.

Tamarancho Rifle Range Dedication Set

Dedication of a Rotary Club service project — an official small bore rifle range at Tamarancho Boy Scout Camp—is scheduled for tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

Rotary Clubs of Sausalito, Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Novato and San Rafael joined in providing the rifle range as part of a long-range plan for scouting in the country, said Marin Scout Executive Storrs Smith.

This program envisions laying out facilities for an increase in the number of Marin Scouts from the present 5,000 to more than double that in 20 years.

Tamarancho is located two miles above Fairfax.

Presidents of each of the Rotary Clubs in Marin will fire the first rounds on the new range Sunday. Refreshments will be served. Marin Rotarians and their families have been invited to attend.

The proposed 1961-62 budget, being prepared for presentation to the legislature in January, is an "austerity" budget, Dunbar said.

No new programs are contemplated for the prison next year. However, the budget provides for continued expansion of the forestry camp program and for continuation of the narcotics return program, a pilot program in operation this year designed to assist released narcotic adicts who appear to be returning to the habit.

Only two items are listed in the capital outlay category for San Quentin, the deputy director said.

Two hundred thousand dollars have been earmarked for a new warehouse in connection with the cotton mill and other prison industries.

An $8,000 item has been set aside for equiping the new Protestant chapel scheduled to be built this year.

The chapel, a $242,000 structure, is to be started in January, with completion by the end of the year.

Another major construction project due to start right after the first of the year is a $224,000 boiler plant. Plans are this too will be completed by 1962.

Youth Treated For Concussion

A youth who was not even listed as slightly hurt in a Highway 101 crash early Thursday was in San Rafael General Hospital today because of it.

He is Jefferey Smith, 17, in good condition with a concussion unsuspected when he walked to the home of his step-father, Robert Paginini, at 482 Los Collindas, after the mishap in Terra Linda area.

Smith was seated as passenger in a car driven by Ronnie Dale Wright, 17, of 592 Woodbine Drive, which suffered ignition trouble at 1 a.m. and drew up on the highway shoulder where it was struck a few second later by an overtaking car occupied by two young airmen. Both the latter were hospitalized.

The two boys walked home casually and Smith's mother observed that he had "a big knot on his forehead," while he said he felt effects of neck whiplash. The airmen told investigators that their car had been going 50 to 55 miles an hour before striking the Wright car, parked on the road shoulder with ignition trouble.

Yesterday afternoon Smith fainted and was taken to the hospital.

Former Marin Man Arrested For Thefts

A former Sausalito man, Jack Cuddy, 26, has been arrested for car thefts and will be tried in Los Angeles, according to an agent of the National Automobile Theft Bureau.

Lee Cole, the bureau's special agent in San Francisco, disclosed yesterday that auto theft rings have stolen more than $100,000 worth of foreign sports cars in the Bay Area during the last 18 months.

Well-informed sources said some of the Soviet diplomatic mission have dropped hints that the Kremlin, busy with its own problems with the United States, would like Castro to be a little less belligerent.

After harsh attacks on Kennedy after his election, some of the Castro papers appear to have dropped him.

People To People: A Story In Photos

Sausalito has on display through tomorrow more than 70 photographs by some of her artists of the camera, which make up an unusual international friendship exchange exhibit for her "sister city," Vina del Mar, Chile.

The photos, now on display at the Sausalito City Hall, are to be sent to the Chilean city for permanent display. The idea of the collection was started by the late Dulce Duncan Ray, noted photographer of the waterfront, and carried on by Ted Castle with assistance of other photographers.

On this page are some of the photos.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 19, the 324th day of the year with 42 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1831, James Garfield, 20th president of the United States, was born near Mentor, Ohio.

In 1863, President Abraham Lincoln, delivered the now famed "Gettysburg Address" at ceremonies dedicating the Battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., as a national cemetery.

In 1874, William Marcy Tweed, political boss of New ork's Tammany Hall, was convicted of defrauding the city of about $6 million.

In 1874, the national Woman's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland, Ohio.

A thought for today: American poet John Greenleaf Whittier said: "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: It might have been!"

Giants, Bulldogs Each Land 4 Stars On Team

By PAUL MILLER

Marin County Athletic League Champion Redwood Giants and the San Rafael High Bulldogs tied in the amount of players to land 1960 All-League berths at award ceremonies participated in by former All-Pro quarterback Otto Graham at the College of Marin yesterday.

The awards, presented by Graham at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes sponsored affair, were decided by the balloting of Marin football coaches in a survey conducted by League Commissioner Victor Jones.

The Giants and the Bulldogs each had four players selected for the county-wide honor, and each team had two men who made both the offensive and defensive team in their respective positions. Marin Catholic High had three players chosen and two of them made the offensive and defensive team. Novato High also had three of its players make All-League, with one honored offensively and defensively.

Both Tamalpais High and Sir Francis Drake High had two players placed on either offensive or defensive teams, with none on both.

Ted Mitchell, KTIM sports director, was the master of ceremonies in the hour-long event at which the following high school gridiron athletes were honored:

THE ALL-STARS

Cal Riemcke, head basketball coach at the College of Marin and director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Marin, introduced Graham, who spoke before the awards were announced.

Riemcke explained that the Fellowship of Christian Athletes was made up of sportsmen who participated in "the great adventure of following Jesus Christ." Included among the many members of the national organization are Doak Walker, Alvin Dark and Bob Feller, he said.

Graham, who in his 10 years as quarterback for the Cleveland Browns gained more yards by foreward passing than any other player in history, including Sammy Baugh, is in the Bay Area as representative of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy where he has been athletic director and head football coach for two years.

Graham told the some 200 players and coaches assembled in Olney Hall that it was his philosophy that "sports should be fun, and if it is not fun for you to play football, then you don't belong on the field,"

The quarterback, who while with the Browns saw the Cleveland team as league champs or runner-ups every year, and champions four straight times of the old All-American Conference, and winners of the National Football League title in 1950, 1954, and 1955, said he would not give up his academy coaching job for $50,000 a year and a 10-year contract.

COACHING PRESSURE

"I took this job at the academy in New London, Conn. because the big-time coaching racket is not worth being in," he said. He referred to Minnesota's coach whose family last year received threatening phone calls and who was hung in effigy for a poor season, while this year he "could run for governor because he has a winner."

"The way you get winners to fill the stadiums ~~to get more~~ money is to get good players by piling into your car each summer and chugging from this speaking engagement to that, and roping the best players—all the time away from your family. A lot of money buys a lot of headaches, and they, along with what you have to subject your family to, is not worth it," declared Graham.

Speaking in behalf of the Coast Guard in which he is a commander, Graham urged the high school youths to consider the academy where "men enter by competitive examinations, not congressional appointments—it's not who you know, but what you are able to do that gets you into the Coast Guard Academy," he said.

Graham told the football players that he believed the Fellowship of Christian Athletes was the "finest organization in the world."

Giants' Video Plans Worry Collegiates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, long under pressure to televise some of their road games, now are urged just as strongly to stay off the screen during football games at Stanford and California.

Alfred R. Masters, athletic director of Stanford University, said yesterday that competition from the Giants would carry "the almost certain possibility of destroying intercollegiate football."

Thomas J. Hamilton, commissioner of the Athletic Association of Western Universities, said, "It has been conclusively proved that television sports broadcasts have caused serious damage to attendance at competing sports events. It's essential that sufficient protection be given our youngsters' activities . . ."

Only a month ago the San Francisco Board of Supervisors passed a resolution asking the Giants to telecast some road games. The Giants announced this week they will televise all 11 of their games at Los Angeles.

PRO GRID ROUNDUP

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last time the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants met on consecutive Sundays the Eagles swept the pair to climax their third straight Eastern Conference championship in the National Football League. That was in 1949.

Now the Giants are shooting for three titles in a row and are 3-point home favorites to defeat the conference-leading Eagles tomorrow in the headline game of six on the NFL schedule. The Eagles (6-1) and Giants (5-1-1) meet again next Sunday at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, beaten only by the Cleveland Browns, is riding a six-game winning streak and wants to extend it right on through to 11-1, matching their record in '49, the last year they won the title.

The Giants must win to take over first place. The Eagles can retain the lead with a tie. Both clubs have been hit with injuries.

Philadelphia will be without Clarence Peaks, the league's fourth leading ground gainer with 465 yards and a key blocker in front of passer Norm Van Brocklin. Peaks suffered a broken leg last Sunday in a 19-13 victory over Washington.

Veteran quarterback Charley Conerly and end Kyle Rote are both New York question marks. Conerly hurt his knee in directing a Giant rally that beat Pittsburgh 27-24 last week and Rote has had a fractured bone in his hand for two weeks.

The third-place Browns (5-2) are at Pittsburgh and rate 5-point favorites over the Steelers (2-5-1). A Philadelphia victory would send Cleveland into second place, but the Browns probably would prefer Giant victories both this week and next because of the schedule. The Eagles already have split with Cleveland and have a relatively easy schedule after the Giants. The Browns, beaten once by New York, get another crack at the Giants.

In the Western Conference, the Green Bay Packers (5-2) can tie the idle Baltimore Colts (6-2) for the lead by beating the Los Angeles Rams (2-5-1) at Milwaukee. Green Bay is favored by 12.

Third-place Chicago (3-3-1) is home to the Detroit Lions (3-4), and the Bears are 7-point favorites.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals (4-4) are road favorites by a touchdown over Washington (1-4-2) and San Francisco (3-4) is at the Dallas Cowboys (0-8) in a battle the 49ers figure to win by 14.

49ers Favored In Dallas Tilt, But...

DALLAS (UPI)—C. R. Roberts will make his debut as a San Francisco starting back tomorrow when the 49ers invade the lair of the Dallas Cowboys.

Otherwise, the San Francisco lineup will present the same old faces.

The 49ers have been installed as two-touchdown choices over the winless and win-hungry Dallas club, but the up-and-down manner in which the 49ers have been performing indicates they could just as easily win by 40 or get upset. It's been that kind of a year.

Coach Red Hickey said that John Brodie would start at quarterback. Y. A. Tittle is reported still slowed down by a groin injury received three weeks ago, but is ready to go should the erratic Brodie have an off day.

Roberts is a former USC performer who teamed up with Jon Arnett to form a legendary running combination for Troy. He has bounced around several pro teams, but has showed flashes of running talent in brief performances with the 49ers during the past two seasons.

He'll join dependable J. D. Smith as tight back with R. C. Owens on the wing.

LITTLE OFFENSE

Neither team has shown much offense this year, with the edge, surprisingly, going to the Cowboys. They have scored 14 touchdowns while losing eight straight. The 49ers have pushed over only 10 touchdowns while winning three of seven.

The defensive lines and linebackers of the two teams both rate fairly even and the difference would seem to lie in the defensive backfields.

The 49ers' crew has been solid, save for a momentary lapse or two against Green Bay and Detroit. Dallas has been riddled by ace throwers like Baltimore's Johnny Unitas.

If Tittle gets in, the 49ers could present a backfield with no first names, just initials—Y. A., C. R., J. D., R. C. It's going to be pretty confusing if one of them is tackled by L. G. Dupre of Dallas.

PRO CAGE IN S.F. TOMORROW

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the second time this season, the Los Angeles Lakers call the San Francisco Cow Palace their home tomorrow as they meet the Detroit Pistons there.

After a Sunday night game on Nov. 6 drew only 2,600 fans, the Los Angeles National Basketball Association club decided to try a 3:30 p.m. starting time tomorrow.

Attendance at the two regular season games here will be watched closely as the NBA ponders future expansion.

Hank, Armstrong On TV Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Hank, knockout conqueror of 33 of his 60 opponents, and Ace Armstrong, who never has been stopped, meet tonight in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC TV, 7 p.m., PST).

Armstrong, 27, and a non-winner in just two fights this year, no longer is ranked among the top 10. The rangy boxer from Elizabeth, N.J., has to win if he wants to get any more worthwhile fights.

Hank, the No. 5 contender among the 160-pound set, is the 8-5 favorite.

Scoring will be by the rounds

Morgan, Dornbach Named Tam's Most Valuable Players

Halfback Pat Morgan and tackle Pete Dornbach this week were honored as most valuable players on the Tamalpais High School varsity football squad.

Their selection as the outstanding back and lineman was announced at a banquet in honor of the school's football squads.

Other honors went to Tracy Oldham as the most inspirational player and Norm White most improved on the junior varsity and to David Walker as the most improved player on the freshman team.

Sequoias To Play In The Olive Bowl

LINDSAY (AP) — The Olive Bowl football game here Nov. 26 will pit College of the Sequoias of Visalia against Palo Verde J.C. of Blythe.

Allan Hancock College of Santa Maria turned down a bid to be home team in the game. Bowl officials said Hancock refused to play COS, which was beaten by the Bulldogs this season at Santa Maria.

Larkspur Burning Will Be Allowed

Burning will be permitted in incinerators from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. instead of only to 11 a.m. Open burning will be allowed with a permit obtained from the fire department. No burning will be allowed after 4 p.m.

3 Seconds To Go—Safety! San Jose Wins 22-20 Tilt

SAN JOSE (AP)—A controversial safety with just three seconds to play gave San Jose State a wild 22-20 victory over Idaho Friday night.

Idaho had led for 55 minutes. Though San Jose threatened three times in the first half, the Spartans trailed 7-6 at halftime. And San Jose still was a point behind, 13-12 as the third period ended.

Galen Rogers scored on a plunge and quarterback Sil Vial tossed 12 yards to former Drake High star Reg Carolan of San Anselmo for Idaho's six-pointers. A Ron Ismael kick spelled the difference. The Spartans chalked up spectacular touchdowns by Jim Cadile and Johnny Johnson. Cadile went 46 yards with an intercepted pass. Johnson tallied on a 54-yard scamper.

The Vandals scored again on a Vial pass to Dawn Fannin and led 20-12 with five minutes remaining. Then San Jose paved the way for its stunning safety play when Clarion Appledoorn zipped across on an end around, then scored a two-point conversion on the same play. That made it 20-20.

Just three seconds remained when Spartan quarterback Chon Gallegos had his long pass intercepted by Idaho's Jim Davidson near the end zone.

Davidson was knocked to the turf by San Jose's Mac Burton and officials ruled Davidson had possession ahead of the goal line and went back into the end zone. Had he caught the ball in the end zone, it would have been a touchback, not a safety.

Idaho Coach Skip Stahley went home infuriated and said he's waiting to see movies on the play.

"The way I saw it," he said, "by the time Davidson had the ball he was in the end zone."

Brazilian Jofre Kayos Sanchez For Bantam Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brazil has its first boxing champion in history today and Eder Jofre's right hand thus becomes as famous as coffee and the samba in the South American republic.

The lights went out at one minute and 30 seconds of the sixth round for the stoic Sanchez. Jofre's right didn't travel far. It didn't have to.

Post Offices Plan Uniform Yule Schedule

The same hours will be observed this Christmas season by San Rafael, Kentfield, Sausalito, San Anselmo, Ross, Novato, Mill Valley, Marin City, Larkspur, Fairfax, Corte Madera and Belvedere-Tiburon post offices. This will be the first time all these offices have set up identical schedules for the "big rush," said San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams.

On Sunday, Dec. 18—one week before Christmas — post offices will be open from 1 to 4 p.m.

Starting Dec. 12, the Monday-through-Friday hours will be extended to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. until Dec. 23, when they will return to 5 p.m. closing.

On Saturday, Dec. 10, they will provide window service from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; on Saturday, Dec. 17, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; on Saturday, Dec. 24 —the day before Christmas— from 8 a.m. to noon.

Post offices will be closed both Christmas Day and Monday, Dec. 26.

Next week, the post offices will start hiring extra help for the rush season. Postmaster Williams plans to add 130 persons during the Christmas rush.

Court Won't Review Brown Act Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has declined to review a decision in which it was held that the Brown secrecy-in-government act does not apply to municipal gatherings except formal meetings of city councils or their subordinate bodies.

The case was brought by three plaintiffs, Florence Adler, Merle Linthacum and Lee Simpson, who sought to invalidate a Culver City Council action rezoning 10 acres for use as a shopping center.

They complained that the planning commission had met with a principal at a private, informal dinner four days before the application was filed. The commission however later held two public hearings before making its recommendation to the council.

The Second District Court of Appeals held that the planning commission was an advisory body and not a legislative group. Thus it ruled that the Brown Act did not apply.

In seeking a high court review, the plaintiffs contended that the ruling in effect destroyed the Brown Act as far as it applied to municipalities. This was denied by the Culver City attorneys.

'Bagdad Bash' To Be Played Again Tonight

Harem girls, caliphs, beggars and two innocent tourists will again take over the stage of the Novato Community Clubhouse tonight for the "Bagdad Bash."

The "bash" was written by Novato resident Judy Gilbert for performances by the "fling" section of the community club. Doors will open at 8 p.m. for the cabaret-type setting, with beer being served at spectators' tables.

Jury Decides Suit Damage

A Marin County jury Thursday decided that $4,880 in damages should be paid to Daly City purchasing agent Robert Evans and his wife, Phyllis, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in 1958.

Attorney James J. Duryea of San Francisco, representing the Evanses', said he feels the verdict was "satisfactory."

The jurors heard the case before Judge Richard M. Sims in Marin Superior Court and decided that Robert H. Fox, a scientist at the radiation laboratory in Livermore, should pay that amount to Mr. and Mrs. Evans.

Evans was headed north on Highway 101 on May 11, 1958. He stopped at an intersection. A car driven by Fox struck the Evans vehicle. Mrs. Evans said she suffered severe injuries to head, neck and shoulders.

Shone Heads Sheriff's Posse For '61

Raymond H. Shone of San Rafael will captain the Marin County Mounted Sheriff's Posse next year. He replaces Frank Monte of Sleepy Hollow.

Other officers elected for 1961 are Neville Chillson of Novato, first lieutenant; R. D. Howell, of San Anselmo, second lieutenant; William McClellan of Novato, secretary, and Joseph Pecora of San Rafael, treasurer.

The new officers were installed at a dinner dance meeting at Rancho Nicasio, attended by members and their wives. Honored guests were Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and State Sen. John F. McCarthy. Serving as emcee was William T. Endicott, KPIX television station announcer and a resident of Terra Linda.

In accepting the appointment to head the group of mounted deputies, Shone gave credit to Sheriff Mountanos for instilling new spirit and enthusiasm in the organization since he has been in office. The group now consists of 65 members.

He said that plans for the coming year include more participation in parades and statewide events. New equipment has been purchased which will enable the horsemen to represent Marin County in outside activities to better advantage.

Kappas Asks Extension For Dredging

George Kappas has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a three-year time extension within which to complete dredging and filling work already authorized for property along the south side of Richardson Bay.

It is intended to dredge to a depth of six feet below mean lower low water level to establish the Rosedale Canal, running into the Saucelito Canal and extending northeast from Petaluma Street to cross Humboldt, Donahue and Railroad Avenues.

Adjacent streets and tidelots will be filled. The fill material is to be retained by a bulkhead along the Rosedale Canal.

Kappas has been involved in sometimes heated discussion with Marin County planners, supervisors and Public Works Department over his fill and projects with investigation still under way to ascertain whether the flood control aspects of Richardson Bay are endangered.

There was also a recent question of whether a clubhouse to be built on submerged land for the Sausalito Cruising Club was to be located on Kappas-owned property, or public streets. This, however, ended when the club withdrew its permit petition and decided to build elsewhere.

Any objections to extension of the army permit must be submitted in triplicate to the Corps of Engineers.

Here's Final Rundown On Vet Measures

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California voters approved two veterans' tax exemption measures on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Since Prop. 3 and Prop. 11 carried conflicting provisions, do both become the law?

No, state legal experts say.

The measure receiving the higher vote prevails, and that is Prop. 3.

It will permit totally disabled veterans who have acquired homes with federal assistance to transfer their $5,000 property tax exemption to homes subsequently acquired.

Prop. 11 proposed to do the same thing. But it also would have limited the $1,000 property tax exemption for all veterans to those who entered service from California and those who were state residents on election day.

Gets State Contract

L. H. Leonardi Electric Construction Co. of San Rafael has been awarded a contract to install traffic signals and highway lighting and to revise curbs and sidewalks in Grass Valley, Nevada County. Leonardi's low bid totaled $17,194.

Fur Flies In Court Over Mink, Ermine

Fur flew in Marin Municipal Court yesterday as two irate Marin City housewives accused San Francisco furrier Murray Kaplan of failing to live up to agreements.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson pointed out he is no expert on ermine and mink, but legally he saw it this way:

Mrs. Myrtle M. Paige of House 135 should get a refund of $92 because the ermine jacket which she wanted altered into a stole came back in the form of a little shrug.

Mrs. Page wanted to know what happened to the rest of the ermine in the jacket. Kaplan said there just wasn't enough fur in that jacket for a cape stole.

The judge ruled Mrs. Paige did not receive what she had contracted to get. Therefore, the $92 down payment should be returned.

Mrs. Blanchie Goins of apartment 296 should get her mink tail fur back intact, but the $5 which she paid as down payment stays with Kaplan, the judge decided.

Mrs. Goins complained that last May she asked Kaplan to alter her fur piece. A few days later, he brought her a fur that was not hers. She said she made dozens of calls to get Keplan to return her fur. He mailed her a package once, but she did not accept it for fear it would contain fur that wasn't hers.

Yesterday, Kaplan produced a package in court, and told the judge this was the one he had mailed to Mrs. Goins. The judge opened the package in court, and Mrs. Goins identified it as hers.

She grabbed her fur and tramped out of the courtroom when she could not get her $5 refunded.

State Park Purchase Completed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The State Division of Beaches and Parks has completed purchase of land on Mt. Tamalpais through Steep Ravine to the shoreline, connecting Mount Tamalpais State Park and Stinson Beach State Park, the division's public information officer said today.

The check for $200,000 was sent to the Kent Estate for purchase of 209 acres of the southwest slopes of Mt. Tamalpais to the ocean and typing into the south end of the Stinson Beach park, he revealed.

The purchase price brought to $543,000 the total amount of the $1,000,000 appropriation made by the legislature expended thus far for the expansion of the Tamalpais Park, according to Al Calais, the division spokesman.

Previously acquired were 600 acres of the former Diaz Ranch and 30 acres in small parcels high on the mountain. Negotiations are under way for approximately 280 acres of the Del Ponte properties. An agreement has been reached with the Brazil family as to the boundaries of the property within their ranch which the state will acquire, Calais said. Under way at present is a survey to determine the exact area involved and then negotiations will open on the price, he concluded.

Judy Manning Becomes Bride At Loma Verde Church Rites

Residing in San Rafael are the recently married Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gruver. The bride, the former Judy Jean Manning, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cullie Manning of Loma Verde, Ignacio. The new benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Gruver of Blue Lakes, Humboldt County, formerly of San Rafael.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown with a train. The tightly fitted bodice had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. A ruffled white nylon overskirt formed a "v" at the front. A beaded coronet of white nylon petals held the bride's veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The three attendants wore green changeable taffeta full skirted gowns. The matron of honor, Mrs. Carl Knutson of St. Paul, Minn., had yellow ribbon and veiling on her hair and carried a basket filled with yellow roses. The bridesmaids, Linda Norwood and Sandra Fletcher, both of San Rafael had pink ribbon and veiling on their hair and pink roses were in their baskets. Mrs. Arthur Meyer played the wedding march and Mrs. Charles Nelson sang.

Three year old Della Plant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terrel Plant of Fairfax and Joyce Shotwell, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shotwell of Novato were flower girls. Three year old Mark Smith, son of the officiating clergyman, and his wife was ring bearer.

Thomas Fyfe of San Rafael was best man and guests were escorted to their pews by the bride's brother, Jesse of San Jose, and Frank Maguire of Fairfax.

About 150 guests attended the reception in the early evening at the Manning home. The three tiered pillared cake was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. White carnations encircled the cake which was flanked by white candles. Mrs. Dorothy Simmons assisted in receiving guests and Sandra Fletcher was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a two piece satin brocade dress which had a small fur collar. Her hat was electric blue.

The bridegroom's mother was gowned in beige silk. Both mothers had corsages of orchids. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of San Rafael High School. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse R. Cornwell of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. C. Starkey of Oroville and sister of Jesse Fraser, George L. Fraser, who lives in Reno, and Robert C. Manning of Seattle, Wash.

The new benedict, manager of an oil station in San Rafael, is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Poleiro of San Rafael.

They'll Say Aloha To Lloyd Grandis

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

For Lloyd and Betty Grandi who are leaving the middle of December for Hawaii, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Campion, their Fairhills neighbors, are giving a dinner on Dec. 3. Mrs. Roger Darrow is entertaining at a luncheon for Betty on December 12. The Darrows have only been in their new home on Montecito Road in San Rafael's Golf Tract for a week. They moved there from their house in Del Mesa.

The Grandis will be in the islands for three weeks. Primary purpose for the trip is a holiday visit with their son, Charles Grandi, his wife and their four children.

Charles, who is an industrial engineer, and his wife have bought a home in Kaneohe, which is on the side of Oahu, opposite to Honolulu. Lloyd and Betty intend to visit the other islands during their stay.

TO START THE HOLIDAYS in a gay manner, Dr. and Mrs. Orville Grimes are giving a large cocktail party at their San Rafael home on Dec. 9. They've invited about 170 guests, mostly Marin County friends.

PLANS OF the Frank Baumgartens have been changed. They had intended to leave yesterday for 10 days at Smoke Tree Ranch in Palm Springs but will spend Thanksgiving instead at their home, Ridgeview Farm in Fairfax. On Wednesday Mary Baumgarten was the guest of Mrs. Kenneth Scott of San Francisco at May T. Morrison Handicap Day at Golden Gate Fields. Mrs. Scott, who had two tables of luncheon guests, is the former Joan Rapp of Ross. One of her guests was her cousin, Mrs. Joseph Crawford (Ora Brooks). The Baumgartens were guests at the buffet supper hosted last night by the John Ziels of San Francisco.

And back on this side of the bay—Mrs. Stanley G. Breyer of Kent Woodlands has issued invitations to a luncheon on Dec. 17. Mrs. Graham Luce Jr. of Kentfield, who will be one of the bridesmaids, and her husband will give a shower for the young couple on Dec. 16 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Galbreath of Kentfield will host the rehearsal dinner and Jane's sister, Mrs. Barry Brennan of Belvedere, who is to be matron of honor, will entertain at the spinster dinner.

Peggy Watrous, sister of the bride, Mrs. Luce, and Pi Phi sorority sisters Mrs. Charles Jenkins of Palo Alto, Joyce Robbins of San Francisco and Elizabeth Rogers of Piedmont, will be bridesmaids.

Bob Harris is to be best man.

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop P. Watrous of Kentfield and the future benedict's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman R. Hall, are San Francisco residents.

A BRIDAL THEME was carried out at the luncheon Miss Edythe Foster gave yesterday at the old family home in San Rafael, honoring her brother, Robert D. Foster of Alameda, and his wife on their 58th wedding anniversary. Mr. Foster was reared in San Rafael. White azealas centered the table which was set with the finest crystal and glass. Guests were members of Mrs. Foster's family.

Marin Women

No one would think before the program begins at one of the luncheon meetings of Mill Valley's Awareness group, as the women are unofficially known among themselves, that its purpose is highly serious.

For that matter, the atmosphere of fun and relaxed informality continues into the program, whatever its subject, for there is much witty repartee between the speaker and listeners because members are permitted to ask questions at any time during the discussion.

Such was the case at Wednesday's meeting of the group composed of about 25 Mill Valley women who are very much "aware" of community problems and determined to do whatever they can about them.

Held at the home of Mrs. Edmund Gross, the meeting had as its subject the Mill Valley library. Speakers were Mrs. William Peavey of the Mill Valley library board of trustees, and Dorothy M. Thomas, librarian at the Mill Valley public library.

Two bond issues to provide funds for a new library having failed, Mrs. Gross took the occasion to satirize the situation in the titles of the "book" being read by dolls placed around the room in lieu of decorations.

Among them were "Mill Valley, the city of 'No's' ", "1,000 ways to defeat an election," and "60 to a classroom in '60."

Mrs. Peavey talked on functions and plans of the library board, explaining the proposed location of a new library as part of a living arts center in Mill Valley's lowlands.

She also stressed the desirability of forming a volunteer "Friends of the Library" group whose purpose would be to support it in anyway needed. Mrs. Peavey said that such groups have been successful in other cities and that organization can be flexible.

As a start toward founding this kind of endeavor those present who were interested were asked to sign their names.

Mrs. Thomas spoke on the services performed by the library, procedure in selection of new books and their processing, the problem of the use of the library by residents of outlying areas, and some of the library's extraordinary resources, such as its record department and unusual magazines.

She displayed some of the latter, including "America," in the Russian language, sent regularly from Russia, and the one sent from the United States, "USSR" to Russia.

Mrs. Thomas also explained the bill on state aid for libraries which will be brought up in January before the state legislature.

PROMOTING TEEN CLUB activities in a parish is the principal topic on the agenda for the Archdiocesan Catholic Youth Organization's Parish Teen Club convention tomorrow which will be attended by Royce Fisher, San Rafael High School student and Kathleen Epperson of Marin Catholic High School (above). They are representing St. Raphael's Parish. The convention will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Whitcomb Hotel in San Francisco. (Photo by Jim Kean)

THE PARENTS' CORNER

Enrollment In Honors Courses Should Be A Voluntary Decision

P.L.R. "My daughter is discouraged. She is taking 'honors English,' and 'honors social studies' in high school. There's so much homework that she never finishes. Formerly she was an 'A' student, but now she gets 'B' and 'C' grades. She'll be handicapped in entering college. We asked to have her transferred back to the regular classes where she could earn 'A's. Her counselor said the transfer was impossible. I thought that honors courses were voluntary. Didn't you?"

Reply. They are voluntary in most schools. You and your daughter should have the right to decide. I suggest you talk with the counselor. If necessary, go to the principal. Grades received in regular class count just as much for college entrance as grades received in honors classes. "A" grades are important.

H.I.F. "My husband is fit to be tied. For several years he has played tennis with our son. The boy now is 15. Last Sunday he defeated his father in three straight sets. This is the first time that has happened. Must a father always win when he plays with his children?"

Reply. Fathers should be good sports. They should pick games which give the children a fair chance. When they lose they should not complain. I hope your husband will keep on playing tennis with your boy.

W.G. "We're trying to decide what words to use with our children for such things as bowel movements and special parts of their bodies. Can you suggest some words for us?"

Reply. Generally it is best to use the correct words. A bowel movement is a bowel movement, not something else. Children are less apt to be embarrassed or confused that way. They are more realistic about such things than most of us realize.

Quentin Aide Freed Of Smuggling Charge

San Quentin prison counselor Robert McKellar, 33, was freed yesterday of charges that he had conspired with a San Francisco couple to smuggle drugs into prison.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court decided that evidence was not sufficient to connect McKellar with the other two defendants, Theodore Edison Sr., 59, a stationary engineer, and his wife Juliett, 45. The judge found no evidence showing McKellar had conferred or conspired with the Edisons.

According to Assistant Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, McKellar was caught inside the prison with mace last year. A key found on McKellar belonged to a San Francisco post office box, which contained tubes of drisdan and wyamine. The writing on the packaged drugs was traced to the Edisons.

Bales said he would try to met more evidence connecting McKellar with the Edisons and to prove conspiracy to smuggle the drugs into San Quentin. "If we can't get more evidence, that will be the end of the case," said Bales.

This is the second time that McKellar has slipped out from under similar charges. The first time, Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori freed McKellar from a charge that he had smuggled mace into prison. The judge ruled that mace is not a drug.

Ex-Marinites Celebrate 50 Married Years

Mr. and Mrs. Patirck Hayes, residents of San Rafael for about 42 years and now of Citrus Heights, celebrated their golden wedding last week with a reception of about 80 friends and relatives in Roseville.

They were married Oct. 29, 1910, in San Jose, and lived in San Rafael until about eight years ago. At that time Hayes retired from the United States Maritime Commission and they moved to Citrus Heights, near Sacramento.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herman and one of nine children, Mrs. Hayes was born in Oakland and grew up in Petaluma.

Hayes was born in Ireland and spent most of his life at sea. The Balclutha, a ship he sailed on, is now a museum ship in San Francisco.

Present at the reception were three sisters and three brothers of Mrs. Hayes: Mrs. Harriet Soldate of Petaluma; Mrs. Edna Hill of San Rafael; Mrs. Verna Strettmatter, Sausalito; William Nauert of Santa Rosa; Allen Nauert and Mervin Nauert of San Rafael.

Five children, nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren of the couple were also present.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Holiday Time Or Anytime The Laughter Of Children Is Part Of An EICHLER HOME

We've never won an award for making children happy (although we HAVE won more awards than any home builder anywhere). And we can't promise that your children will be happy and laughing, EVERY DAY of the year—but this we do know: YOUR children will have more freedom and fun in an EICHLER than any other home built today.

WHY? Because EICHLER homes in sunny, charming Terra Linda Valley were architect designed especially for today's young families. 4 and 5 bedrooms, always 2 or 3 baths, radiant heated floors that children can play on in the middle of winter. Phillipine mahogany paneled walls everywhere that will withstand even the fiercest onslaughts of the young ones. Patented kitchen cabinet doors that are removable for easy cleaning and no hardwood for the children to smudge.

ROOM galore inside and out for play. And every home has a delightful private play area for the children. More freedom for the children, less work for you and more time to enjoy EICHLER'S exclusive inner court . . . Complete privacy and open to the sky.

If you're looking for the car that's one-in-a-million, then see this one before you do anything else.
Original couple bought it new from local Olds. dealer in '55 and traded on new Electra Buick.
It's all Arctic white without so much as a scratch on the original paint. The blue interior is absolutely as clean as the cars on our floor.
Has all the extras including power steering, power brakes, hydramatic, radio, heater, w/w tires and the works.

Screen Loses Two Of It's Greatest—Gable, Sennett

The American screen lost two of its greatest this week.

One was an actor known and loved for more than 30 years as "The King" of Hollywood, Clark Gable.

The other was a producer, a man who made people laugh, a man who launched scores of stars, Mack Sennett, the king of the two-reelers.

Gable's he-man roles won him the respect and admiration of men and the devotion of women. Old timers will remember his hilarious role in "It Happened One Night," which won him an Oscar, and as Rhett Butler in "Gone With The Wind," the greatest money-making film.

He starred in "Mutiny On The Bounty," "Call Of The Wild," "Test Pilot," and many other smash hits. He also had his share, or more, of flops too in the 90-odd pictures which he made.

But through each of them, he stood out as a he-man, big ears and all. He was friendly and loved by other actors, stage crews, directors and producers. Even five marital expeditions did not dim his glamor. He recently finished "The Misfits" with Marilyn Monroe, his last picture.

Mack Sennett produced more than a thousand movies. He was the inspiration for the brainless "Keystone Cops," the leaping, falling, sprawling, pie-throwing, pantomimes that gave the nation belly-laughs.

He gave Charlie Chaplin his first job in Hollywood. He first screened W. C. Fields. Others he helped along the road to fame were Gloria Swanson, Wallace Berry, Harold Lloyd, Buster Keaton, Marie Dressler, Eddie Foy, Louise Fazenda, Hal Roach, and Bebe Daniels. Among his Keystone Cops were Charlie Chase, Fatty Arbuckle, Chester Conklin, Slim Summerville and Ben Turpin.

Truly he was one of the greatest producers the movie industry ever developed, but he dropped from sight when the screen started to talk and the double feature replaced the comedies.

With the deaths of Mack Sennett and Clark Gable, not one, but two eras come to an end. Both will live long in memory—and on TV.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Jean Bevans of Forest Knolls. He personally has undertaken the job of maintenance of the school bus station at Forest Knolls, clearing the weeds, painting it, landscaping it and teaching the children to take care of it. Even has a litter can and comes around regularly to empty it.

BRICKBATS to people who drive on rainy, foggy days without using full headlights on their cars. It's against the law to drive with parking lights only on, you know.

BOUQUETS to Sue Fitzharris of San Rafael and Loren Youngclaus of Fairfax for being named 4-H Club All-Stars.

BRICKBATS to those who talk a lot about Marin's musical groups and then fail to support Marin Symphony Guild when it's having a rocky time, as it is right now.

A BOUQUET for Joe Villareal Arrida, commended by Highway Patrol report for deliberately putting his big semi-trailer truck through a Waldo Grade guard rail when he found it rushing down-hill without brakes. As the truck fell 150 feet to burn, Arrida jumped to safety.

A BOUQUET to Alan Bruce who steps upstairs into the county administrator's job even though receiving a warning from one of the supervisors that the job "might be short-lived."

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

COSTLY MISTAKE BY GENIUS

Sir Raymund Hart, air marshal and British radar pioneer, died when he tried, while barefooted, to plug into a 240-volt electrical connection.

The son of the 61-year-old man said that his father had been cutting the lawn with an electric mower and was electrocuted as he tried to re-connect the cord which had become unplugged.

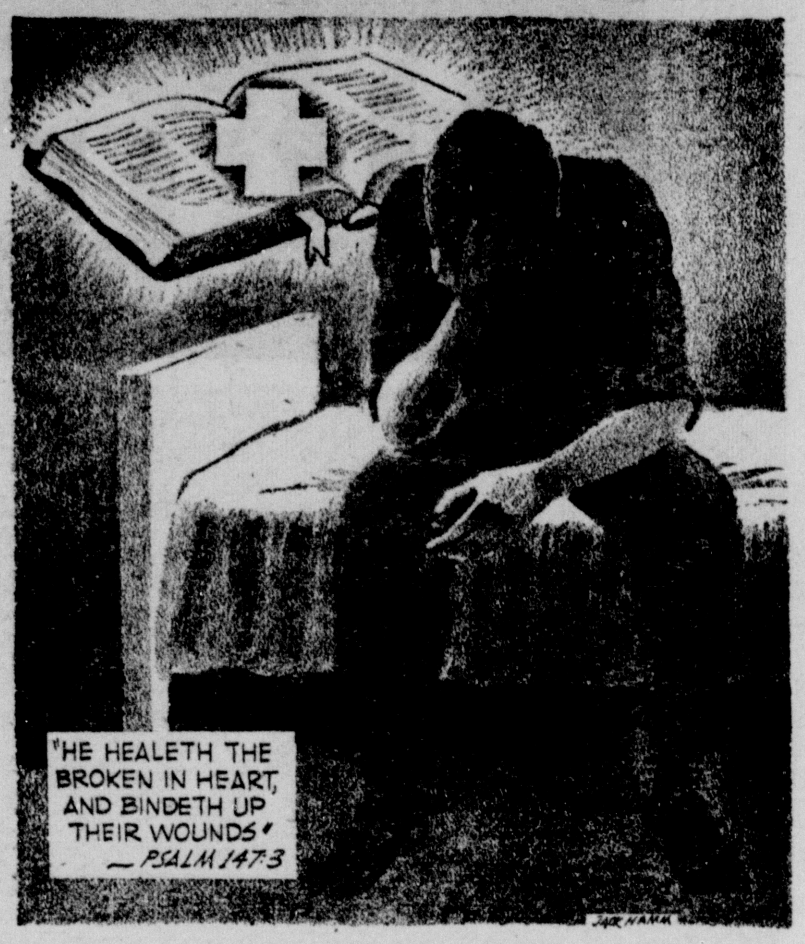

"It was the sort of mistake even a chap who could not change a fuse would be unlikely to make," his son said, "and yet my father, a genius in electronics, made just such a mistake. In his work he received dozens of electrical shocks and took no notice of them. Maybe he became careless, overconfident about electricity."

Any one of us can become complacent about matters that affect our very survival. Take care lest your slightest negligence in these fast changing times threatens your own peace and that of countless others for time and eternity.

"I desire thee to insist that they who believe in God may be careful to excel in good works." (Titus 3:8)

GOOD POLITICAL BET

Nixon Will Seek, Win 1964 GOP Nomination

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A good political bet for the winter books would be this:

Medical science and political history combine to support the conviction that Nixon will seek the 1964 nomination. An axiom of medical science and political history is this:

WHEREAS THE BITE of the presidential bug need not be and rarely is fatal, that bite is absolutely, unqualifiedly incurable.

Now, as to Nixon winning a second nomination in 1964. There is less certainty here, but not much. Some gaudy political blunder, of course, could disqualify Nixon between now and July, 1964. Cautious bettors will consider that factor and, probably, ignore it.

The Vice President emerged from the 1960 campaign a bigger man than when he entered. Nixon ran ahead of his party. He was licked by an attractive new political personality who, somehow, reminded a great many persons of the late, great FDR. Defeated though Nixon was, it seems reasonable to believe that the I-Hate-Nixon Legion has lost some membership and that the vice president has gained some political stature by the events of 1960.

TO CAP IT ALL, more than 33.5 million Americans wanted badly enough to put Nixon in the White House to go out and vote for him.

Sen. John F. Kennedy won the popular vote, but by the merest whisker. It must be accepted as a fact that Nixon has considerable attraction for those independents and Democrats who prefer to hold closer to the middle of the road than do the elements which control the Democratic Party.

Those are the Nixon plusses toward re-nomination in 1964.

The minus is double barrelled:

1. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would become a formidable contestant for the 1964 nomination if he were re-elected in 1962 by a decisive majority.

2. The anti-Nixon elements of the Republican Party might come up with a bright, new star in 1964 to stop him as the anti-Taft elements came up in 1952 with Dwight D. Eisenhower to stop Sen. Robert A. Taft.

OF THESE TWO possibilities, the emergence of Rockefeller as the 1964 Stop-Nixon leader is the more likely, however unlikely it may be. There is not in the works now, nor is anything in sight which might be expected to create for the Republicans soon another miracle man in the Eisenhower image.

There is no Republican governor other than Rockefeller in a position to establish himself nationally soon. There is no Republican member of Congress with the mark of greatness upon him plus an environment which would aggressively further his political ambitions.

Nixon and Rockefeller must share party leadership to some extent with Arizona's able and appealing Sen. Barry Goldwater. Arizona, however, is relatively small and remote, as are handsome Barry Goldwater's chances of taking over the Republican Party.

Can We Have Nixon, Kennedy Both Elected?

By CHAPIN A. DAY

DAY

Because of the closeness of the vote for President, could the Electoral College when it meets on the "first Monday after the second Wednesday in December" select John F. Kennedy as President and Richard M. Nixon as Vice President? we've been asked.

The answer appears to be Yes, they could. Lyndon Johnson could still be Texas Senator. We doubt, however, that they will.

Originally, our Constitution provided that the man who had the most electoral votes would be President and the man with the second highest vote Vice President. That was changed in 1804 when the 12th Amendment to the Constitution was ratified.

The amendment provides that separate ballots will be cast for President and Vice President. It does not require that the two successful men even be of the same party.

Actually, of course, you voted for electors, not candidates on Nov. 8. The 32 electors you elected here in California were pledged to Nixon for President and Lodge for Vice President. But that "pledge" isn't binding. They could, if they wished, vote for Nixon for Vice President.

The whole idea of an electoral college was devised by Alexander Hamilton. It was intended to be a council of the ablest men of the nation, chosen by the people to represent them in selecting a President who would carry out the wishes of the people.

It was felt at that time that direct election of a President would not be as effective for the populace would have difficulty learning about the candidates and might make a selection on the basis of emotion rather than merit.

Our wise Forefathers did not anticipate the emergence of political parties or the pledging of electors to one man or another before the election. Even in the early days, therefore, when parties quickly developed, the electoral college lost its original purpose. But we've held on to it ever since, although this year's close battle may well call for a major change in the system.

ANSWERS TO two other questions I've been asked often:

1.Each state has the number of electors in the electoral college that it has congressmen plus U.S. senators. California, for example, with 30 congressmen and two senators, has 32 electors and 32 votes. (The new census has given us eight more congressmen so next presidential election we'll have 40 electoral votes—if we still have an electoral college.)

2. The electors meet in each state on Dec. 19 this year to vote for President and Vice President. The sealed results of that vote are sent to the President of the Senate. On Jan. 6, the Senate President, "in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives," opens the sealed certificates and counts them. If one man has a majority of the presidential ballots, 269 electoral votes this year, he is elected President. If another man has a majority of the vice presidential ballots, he is Vice President. If there is no presidential candidate with a majority, the House of Representatives picks the President from the top three candidates. If there is no vice presidential candidate with a majority, the Senate chooses between the top two candidates. Voting in both the House and Senate on these selections is with only one vote to each state.

WITH PRESIDENT-Elect Kennedy and Vice President-Elect Johnson out deer hunting together, a horrible accident might happen. If it did and Kennedy was killed, the Electoral College still could name someone else to be President.

If Kennedy was killed after the Electoral College had met, Johnson would become President. If Johnson was killed, the post would remain vacant as it does if a President or Vice President dies in office.

We can picture the secret service men out in the woods with the two hunters, protecting against such an accident but trying not to scare the deer. Oh for the good old days on the golf course!

IF YOU THINK politics is now over, think again. The Republican County Central Committee is going to host a dinner Dec. 1 in Bob's of Marin, Corte Madera. Its theme: Task Force '62.

AND DON'T FORGET the State Legislature opens on Monday, Jan. 2, a holiday for everyone else. This is the year that the state's Assembly and Congressional Districts are to be reapportioned and the battle's already begun on who's going to do what to whom.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

County planners voted against rezoning to allow construction of a snack bar in Santa Venetia though Supervisor William D. Fusselman warned that the temper of the supervisors was to rezone in view of hungry anticipations of local residents.

"This farce must end!" was the ringing summary of the San Rafael Independent concerning recent ruckuses in city government involving police and city council. The Independent termed this "a deplorable situation that has been going on for two years."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Hats Off To Harry Pieper

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Now that the football season is over, I would like to pay special tribute to Harry Pieper, football coach at College of Marin. I'm sure that all mothers of football players and football players-to-be will join with me in this tribute.

The decision that Harry Pieper had to make was probably one of the hardest and most heart-breaking decisions he ever had to make.

I'm not going into details, as the article printed in this paper about two weeks ago explained what this letter is referring to (the cancelling of the last games of the season).

As to the statement of one of the members on the board of trustees, all I can say is thank goodness he is not a football coach. If he were, no doubt regardless of the odds against the players, just so the school or college had the glory, go in there and play; don't worry about whether you are going to be permanently injured or not, after all, we have 10 players against 46. So what?

That probably would be his attitude, but not Harry Pieper. His boys' welfare came first, last and always, with a heart-breaking decision.

I, for one, will always remember him and I'm sure his players will too, and wish him all the luck for next year's football team.

Say Something Good Or Nothing

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I would like to call your attention to an article that appeared in your paper a few days ago. The article referred to was written by Carleton Williams. (I-J Reporter's Notebook, Nov. 11).

I refer you to this article as a subscriber to the paper plus a substantial advertiser in your paper.

I personally feel that if you allow such trash to appear in your paper you are either hard up for news and you needed to fill up a space or your paper is one page too large.

Anyone who would tear down our nation's number one peacetime industry needs analyzing. Either that person should take up residency in the foreign country he speaks of, or his writing should be censored by you.

I realize we have a freedom of speech, press, and etc., but we also have a responsibility to this nation and its economy. It is people such as your Mr. Williams who start the recessionary thoughts in people's minds.

In closing, a good philosophy for you to instill in such a weak character as your Mr. Williams is: if you cannot say something good about a product, please keep your pen in your pocket.

Space would not allow an intelligent person to critically compare his favorite love to the better product we produce in this country, to say nothing of how this product bolsters the American economy.

It Was Literally Raining Ducks, Two Deputy Sheriffs Swear It

It may have been raining cats and dogs last weekend, but whoever heard of ducks come raining out of the sky?

Sheriff's Deputies Ed Levine and Art Wiggins swear that it's true. And they're not the type to indulge in flights of fancy.

Last Sunday they bagged their limit of ducks, catching them on the first bounce as they dropped out of the sky in front of their car on Highway 40 near Knight's Landing.

The weather was foul (not fowl), with sleet and hail, as they drove home with one scrawny duck they had shot at Gray Lodge near Gridley. All of a sudden Wiggins yells: "Look, ducks!"

They were dropping on all sides. Levine and Wiggins jumped out of the car and picked up seven drakes and four hens, all still warm. Not a pellet wound was on them.

"I'd never believe it if someone told me such a story," admitted Sgt. Levine. "But so help me, we got the ducks."

His only explanation: Big hails may have knocked them out of commission, or a sudden draft could have tossed them onto the highway. There were no burn marks to indicate a lightning strike.

ASSISTANT D. A. Bruce Bales is getting famous around here. When he visited San Quentin Monday on a criminal investigation, some 1,500 convicts lined up alongside him and booed him soundly. The personable young D. A. was no doubt embarrassed.

But probably not half as much as a friend of mine, who was on a group tour of the prison. From the back of the big crowd of inmates came a friendly shout: "Hey, Dave. How are ya!" Turned out to be an old school buddy of his.

THE BATTLE FOR bail bond business at county jail is no longer in the headlines, but the in-fighting still goes on.

Inside the jail is a bulletin board where names and phone numbers of Marin's four bail bondsmen are posted. Two of the nameplates are defaced beyond recognition, and their phone numbers altered in pencil. The other two are getting all the business.

Seems the latter two have friends inside the cell, helping steer business to them.

CHIMES ON a building at Fifth Avenue and B haven't been dismantled. They're just toned down, because of some complaints about the noise.

Seems people like to hear the chimes and music, but not when they blare directly into their eardrums.

AN ALL-MARIN cast is scheduled to star on TV channel 9 next Friday at 8:30 p.m. If you watch closely, you'll find that two dance hall gals in the show, Crystal and Topaz, are clerical workers at the courthouse.

A group of inmates at county jail are known as "The Range Riders." Their job is to keep the county pistol range in order.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Two Alabama stalwarts cleaned up a fortune in a big real estate deal and were able for the first time to indulge in a lifelong ambition: they went on a lion-hunting expedition in the jungles of Africa. By the time they discovered that the field manager in charge of native beaters, guides, and all their supplies, had been born in New England, it was too late to do anything about it. They had to suffer his presence in sulky silence.

One evening, however, the New Englander burst into their tent, shouting frantically, "Run for your lives! A herd of wild, murderous elephants is bearing down on us! They'll be here in five minutes! Run! Run!"

"Now what did yo'-all go and do that fo'?" asked his friend.

Some Fond Recollections Of Thanksgiving Day On The Farm

Generally speaking, we have little patience with people who knock our holidays of today, and complain that "they just aren't like they used to be when I was young."

Thanksgiving, or Christmas, or the Fourth of July will return pleasure and inspiration in direct ratio to the amount of spirit and heart that we put into our observances.

That was true when we were children. And it is just as true today.

But we must admit to one belief concerning Thanksgiving Day which we hope doesn't put us too far into the camp of the piners for the past. We do feel that Thanksgiving Day is best observed when it is spent in the country. It just seems to be the kind of a holiday that demands a rural setting.

This no doubt all stems from the fact that we spent a great many of our own boyhood Thanksgivings in Kansas at the wheat farm home of an uncle and aunt.

Those were, if our memory serves us correctly, the best Thanksgivings of all.

The drive of some 30 miles, most of them on country roads, were in themselves an ideal way to start a holiday. And usually we arrived in time to attend Thanksgiving morning services at the country church—the typical steepled white frame house of worship of the rural Midwest.

We looked forward to attending this particular church because the young preacher held a special fascination for us. When the congregation sang, he led them, not by singing, but by blaring away on a trumpet.

And he made the pastor of our own town church, an older gentleman who stuck to sermonizing and left the music to his choir director, seem pretty prosaic by comparison.

After church, it was back to the farmhouse. And there had gathered one mammoth collection of uncles and aunts, cousins, nieces and nephews. The farmyard was invariably overflowing.

And while on ordinary occasions we bore a distinct distaste for no small number of these relatives, on Thanksgiving Day each and every one of them seemed a veritable prince or princess. Everyone was in his mellowest mood.

While the women inside put the finishing touches on the dinner, there was time for the men to talk crops and politics and sports. And for the kids to play with the dogs —a friendly collie and a not-so-friendly airedale—to wander down to the corral to see the horses, or even to walk out into the well-manured pastures to see the cattle and sheep.

Then the dinner bell would sound. Of all the old farm sounds, it must have been the friendliest, the most beloved.

Everyone washed up at the pump, and marched into the dining room. The huge table would seat an astounding number. But even then the women—and sometimes some of the children, usually the girls, to the relief of the boys, would have to wait for the second setting.

There was invariably roast turkey, guinea hen and chicken. Gravy, dumplings, noodles, mashed potatoes, dressing, corn, stringed beans. Pumpkin pie, mincemeat pie, chocolate cake, coffee, rich milk.

But best of all—homemade bread.

Thick slices with freshly churned butter and homemade jam or preserves. That was the real treat for us kids.

After the huge dinner, lethargy reigned. Not even the kids had the energy for play or adventure. And so it was a time for conversation—reminiscences of Thanksgivings of the past, talk about beloved ones deceased or too distant to be present for the holiday festivities, etc.

Later just before the ar-

He's Mr. Boxing In Northern California

A Profile Of Marin's Bennie Ford

By JIM GILMARTIN

The man who has given northern California boxing buffs some of their greatest thrills has never fought a lick.

Yet, you might refer to him as "Mr. Boxing" of the area because he has participated in more than 10,000 professional bouts over the years in various capacities other than boxer, and for the past 25 years has served as matchmaker and promoter.

In the latter ranks he has presented a dozen world championship fights, including two which exceeded the $100,000 gate mark.

HIS NAME is Batiste Forte, but you know him better as Bennie Ford, matchmaker for San Francisco Boxing Club, Inc., and a resident of San Anselmo.

Out of his offices at 472 Ellis Street in San Francisco Ford has directed what at times has been one of the busiest fight centers in the world. In August of 1959 he hit his promotional peak by landing the Gene Fullmer-Carmen Basilio bout for the world middleweight championship. Ford had a slice of the $140,535 gate.

Prior to that his best attraction was Carl (Bobo) Olson's successful defense of his middleweight title against Rocky Castellani in the summer of 1954. This perhaps was Bantam Bennie's most colorful presentation for, unlike the "natural" between Fullmer and Basilio which sold itself to the public, this one had to be sold. Olson was enough of a draw, but Castellani was a powder puff puncher who was unwilling to mix. And fans had seen him on television.

Yet, the bout drew a packed Cow Palace house and a gate of $123,000, thanks to a great job of salesmanship.

TO ADD COLOR to this one Ford took the principals out of the city gyms more than a month in advance of the fight and set them up in country training camps—a la heavyweight promotional strategy. He sent Olson to Clear Lake and established Castellani in San Rafael at the plush Bermuda Palms Motel.

Ford figured correctly that North Beach paisanos and the crowd from Cauliflower Canyon would gladly trek the 20 miles to the fresh air of Marvelous Marin to look over the challenger. And what Castellani lacked in aggressiveness, he more than made up for in personality. He won flocks of fans, especially in Marin, and actually convinced some he could beat Olson.

Then, with the inimitable Jack (Doc) Kearns, one of the slickest "snow-job" artists in the business, and the International Boxing Club's Ben Bentley directing the press campaigns, the training camps drew packed crowds.

His other title promotions started back in 1936 with Small Montana and Little Dado for the lightweight title. Following that came Manuel Ortiz-Harold Dade, Ortiz-Luis Castilio, Ortiz-Buddy Jacklich, all for the bantam bauble; Olson-Castellani and Olson-Pierre Langlois for the middleweight crown; Jimmy Carter-Paddy DeMarco, lightweights; Sandy Sadler-Elorde, feathers, and two Raul Macias defenses against Chamrern Songkitrat and Dommy Ursua for the bantam throne.

Ford also has succeeded in bringing many other attractive wars to northern California fans. Some of the fights he lists as the most thrilling were the Rory Calhoun-Spider Webb middleweight humdingers in recent years, Paolo Rosi against Leo Alonzo, and Sgt. Sammy Baker against Pete Myers.

Of all the fighters he has promoted, Ford lists Olson as probably the best. "Olson was great, too bad he couldn't behave himself," said Bennie of the former middleweight ruler of men — and women. Olson fought for Ford several times.

Forty-four years ago when he broke into the boxing game Ford was a spindly teen-ager wearing a sweat-stained cap and a towel flung over his shoulder. Today he is considered a Beau Brummell of the Bay Area's sports circles.

Perhaps the best description of the matchmaker is provided by boxing scribe Jack Fiske, to wit: "From caps and vests, Bennie has grown fond of silks, white linen and serge suits. His closet is stached with 300 ties. He usually wears a dark blue suit whose breast pocket is impaled with a starched blade of white linen. Swarthy, with greying hair that is often retouched to make him look younger, Ford has shining raven eyes, large white teeth and large black eyebrows that give him a fierce belligerent look."

TO MATCH THIS facial ferocity is a staccatto voice that rises to a shout if his easily-aroused temper is awakened. Operating in a sport where double-talk is the international language, Bennie is a man of conviction who states his mind clearly and will tell off heavyweights and lightweights alike if he sees fit.

His favorite subject is defending his business from the editorial black eyes it has received over the years, especially when the subject of physical violence is brought up. "Look," he boils, "they (the papers) kick us around like a football. Why, if any other sport suffered as much abuse they'd be out of business fast.

"If a fighter gets killed in the ring it's a headline story. But if a football player dies of injuries, they give it a line or two. I don't know the exact figures, but last year only a few fighters died while something like 36 football deaths happened.

"And, another thing," he shouted, warming up to his subject. "They (football) will send a player into a game even if he has stitches in his head or a bad knee injury. You don't see that in boxing. Only physically perfect men are permitted into the ring."

Television "experts" also disturb the intense, diminutive matchmaker. "People who watch fights on TV and then criticize the decision are wrong," he says. "They miss 30 to 35 per cent of the real action. There's not a camera in the world that can give you a complete picture and people just miss a good part of the action. Yet, they disagree with the men who are at ringside watching the fights from all angles."

The voluble Ford says he was born Jan. 14, 1900, in New York City, but friends say he's giving himself the benefit of a few years. Anyway, he was one of 11 children of Vicenzo and Catherine Forte. Pop Forte, a laborer, picked up his tribe when Benny was six weeks old and came to San Francisco. Only two other Fortes are still living—brother Frank, of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Rose Torrano of Terra Linda.

Ford attended old Washington Grammar School and then Lowell High, and broke into boxing as a towel swinger for promoter "Hard Hat" Lou Parente in 1916 at the Old Coliseum.

His early days in smokey gyms were spent in various odd jobs, picking up a buck here and there, hauling water into the squared circle, rubbing down fighters, etc.

Later he became a trainer and manager before promoting. As a manager he handled California Joe Lynch, Tommy Cello, K.O. Eddie Roberts, George Manley, Willie Robinson, Charley Belanger, Chick Roch and Young Papke.

Benny turned matchmaker in 1932 at National Hall and later moved to Winterland. He started promoting in 1935 but all he remembers of his first show is that it was a sellout. "I don't remember who fought," he said.

Over the years he has promoted cards with Jack Beynon and then Sid Flaherty at Civic Auditorium, the Cow Palace and San Francisco Gardens. At times he branched out to Salinas and Eureka.

Veteran sports writer John J. Connolly, the old "Bullpenner," remembers Ford in the good old days. Says Jawn Jay: "There's one thing about that little guy you have to admire: When times were tough and everybody ran out on him, he stuck to his business. Why, if it weren't for him boxing would have died in San Francisco.

"And another thing," Connolly remembers, "he's devoted to his friends. He never lets them down. And that's more than you can say for a lot of people in that business."

FORD'S OFFICE, especially for the big fights, is teeming with activity, as you can imagine, what with the thousands of details that go with such a promotion — contract wrangling, dates, training details, tickets, location, seating arrangements, to TV or not to TV, concessions, officials, etc., and many more et ceteras.

In his early days Ford also drove a hack and in later years has dabbled in the restaurant business. He says he's looking for a spot in Marin, preferably San Rafael, to open a pizzeria.

Ford and his wife of about three years, Barbara, reside at 6 Kilgore Lane, San Anselmo. "I love it here," he says, "I'll never move back to the city."

With 44 years of the boxing business under his belt, Ford is still negotiating for big fights and big paydays. He has one great ambition that has eluded him—to promote a heavyweight championship fight. "It's more work, but more pay. I'd sure like to get one. Some day, some day, maybe," he said, his dark eyes looking off into the future.

Drake's Drill Girls— They Do Their Part

Hours Of Practice Pay Off With Added Spirit For Their School

"Creative!" scoffed the pert, pony-tailed blonde. "That's the last thing I am."

Her creation, which she modestly insists belongs solely to the girls, has been selected to participate in the annual Shrine pageant Dec. 31 during the East-West All-Star football game in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

Babara, a Drake High graduate, began her labor of love three autumns ago as a routine extra assignment and with experience behind her.

Now in football season, she virtually lives drill team during out-of-school time. Fortunately she's married to another such dedicated person, Dick Read, head football coach at San Rafael.

"Oh, come on, now," she kept saying. "Don't talk about me. All the credit belongs to the girls."

And she can talk long and rapidly about her girls.

"It's like having 100 daughters," the 25-year-old teacher said. "Or 100 close friends, anyway. The way those kids work! They take it seriously. They practice hard, and they're proud to be on the team. It's their enthusiasm, cooperation and hard work that's responsible for our success."

The team consists of 100 Drake coeds from grades 9 through 12. Any girl can try out. This year more than 250 did. The 100 regulars and 35

One girl, listening in, said:

"The alternates work just as hard, but we don't always get to perform. But next year we'll get a regular spot."

Girls are selected during the week preceding school on the basis of posture, rhythm, alertness, and character traits such as initiative, willingness to take orders and be corrected, and evidence of responsibility.

"They must learn responsibility, promptness, and how to get along with others. They meet girls from other classes. They have to assume responsibility and have to lead as line captains. They take roll.

"IT OFFERS a lot, especially for girls with special problems—academic, personality, appearance. They can achieve here. They learn correct posture, coordination and rhythm.

"It became 100 the first year," Barbara laughed, "because I didn't know what I was doing. Too many turned out. I just thought 100 was a nice round number. Since then I've never heard of a drill team so large. But when I saw how much it meant to the girls, what opportunities it gave them, I left it at 100 in spite of the added difficulties and hours involved."

One of her difficulties is shouting loud enough to be heard as she issues orders. In this respect she is aided sometimes by instrumental band instructor Perry Smith. But Smith, she says, also helps her in other more important ways.

The school band of 35 provides music for the drill team. Because the team works only during after-school hours, band and team do not practice together. Smith and several music students come to daily practices and give skeletal accompaniment.

"Then Perry jots down the signals given by our head majorette, Jean Lyons. He notes cadences and rolls. Later, he and the band work out separately. It always works out fine."

It's because of good planning, she thinks. She dreams up the routines each week and holds strategy conferences with Smith. Then they go to work separately.

"FROM THEN on out, "Barbara said, "it's constant drill, hard practice, and a lot of yelling to turn 100 people into a precise unit." The team practiced at least six hours each week during the football season just completed.

The girls provide their own uniforms and pom-pons. They wear an inexpensive costume of a box pleat skirt with green and white panels, a white Ivy League men's style shirt with sleeves rolled up, white shoes and white socks. The pom-pons, a green one and a white one, they make themselves. It is a five-hour job, and they usually last the season.

No school credit accrues to participants, but it has been made a part of the Girls' Athletic Assn. program. Absenteeism from practice and performance is no problem. Their leader loves it; they love it.

Even the teachers, including some of the cloistered academic types, are generous with commendations for what it does for some of the students.

"I know it helps them in a hundred different ways," Mrs. Read said. "But the best measure is the real enjoyment they get."

APPROXIMATELY half of this year's team consists of returnees, experienced from one or two previous seasons. They improve. So does Mrs. Read, who seems to be something of a perfectionist in many ways.

Barbara was graduated from Drake in 1953. After five years at the University of California at Berkeley, where she majored in physical education, minored in social studies, and was vice president of the student body, she returned to her hometown to teach. She was the school's first and is still the only graduate to become a staff member.

For the inexperienced teacher who "didn't know what she was doing" when she accepted a routine assignment "because it was part of the job," Barbara Levin Read has created something.

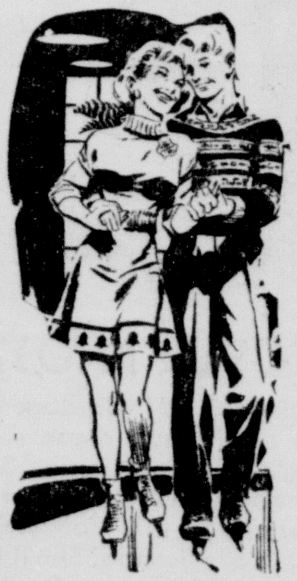

As she admits, the drill team itself may not be a significant thing in the grand order of the universe.

New Owners Convert Their Ships

Sub Chasers Prepared For A Different Kind Of Job

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"As is, where is." That is the slogan of the U.S. government when it sells its surplus goods.

"This means," husky, blond Danish-born Peder Olsen, explained, "that you take it as it is and where it is." Olsen is the owner of one of Uncle Sam's World War II sub chasers which he has been converting into a cargo craft to carry fish and other cargo between islands in the South Seas.

He lives with his wife and two small boys aboard the buff-colored Kanaloa, formerly the Patrol Craft Ship-1384. Next spring, if all goes well, the Kanaloa will head westward.

Olsen, an affable, beer-drinking naturalized American with sharp blue eyes, is one of three skippers who have each taken over a sub chaser that can be seen tied up in Sausalito except when on test cruises, etc.

A FOURTH sister ship was taken over two years ago by a Richmond company and has been used as a whaler for the last two seasons.

All four were previously owned by Western Construction Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, after the Navy relinquished them at Mare Island. The company stripped almost everything off two ships—Olsen's and one now owned by Peruvian fisherman Lorenzo Wenzel. The stripped parts were sold and the strippers left just enough to keep the ships afloat. In the Kanoloa's case, even the engines and plumbing were taken.

"We moved aboard with two buckets, one for water and one for a toilet," Olsen said.

OLSEN, 42, has a wife, Louise, and two boys, Karl, who will be 3 in February, and Kris, two and one-half months. Now they have all conveniences, Olsen said, including a large mess hall which is used as a living room, two baths, and a private stateroom for each crew member.

While the Navy had a crew of 42, Olsen has five. They are Hans Peter Hansen, a long time seahand and a former captain with the Waterman Line out of Mobile, Ala., who will be skipper; Erik Jorgensen, chief mate; Loren Stout and his brother, John, and Ole Petersen, a commercial artist in San Francisco. "I'll be a flunky," Olsen said.

Built between 1943 and 1945, the ships are 136 feet long, 25 feet wide and weigh in excess of 200 tons each. They are usually tied up, as neighbors, at the Sausalito Shipbuilding Co. pier.

Of the four ships, three are in American hands—Olsen's; the whaler Sioux City owned by Golden Gate Fisheries of Richmond; and the ship owned by Stanley Stock which he intends to use as a charter ship in the Caribbean either for pleasure or salvage work.

Stock, an ex-Navy man, looked four years for a ship to buy. His ship, PCS-1380, was a complete ship as was the whaler.

Stock, 31, is a salesman with the Coast Equipment Co., of San Francisco. He has lived aboard his ship about 14 months. He has a wife, Maria, and three sons, Alex, 4, Stanley, 3, and Marc, 3 months. They have named their ship, which has television on board, the White Plume.

WHEN THE White Plume sails sometime next year, it will have a crew of six. "Because so much money is involved," Stock said, "we'll form a company and some of the crew will become partners."

"The White Plume is looked upon as a heavy duty work yacht," Stock said. "It has good lines. And it's not all spit, polish and varnish."

Guns were taken off at Mare Island at purchase of all the ships by their previous owner. Stock has taken off the underwater radar scope which was an experimental thing, he said, to see "blips" under water. He also removed some breech mechanisms.

"We'll take her out on trial in the Bay in a month," Stock said. The Kanaloa has already been out in the Bay testing her engines.

Stock said he expects to add 15 cabins for charter passengers and cut in some portholes. Also, they must hook up all the pipes so the ship won't leak.

Stock said his wife loves living on board, and the youngsters have not been sick a day. The ship has a tall fence around it for the children's safety.

Wenzel, 38, came to North America sailing a whaling ship; then he began looking for a ship of his own. He hopes to sail for Peru next June. His wife, Zoila, daughter Susana, 8, for whom the ship is named, and son, Walter, 5, will fly home.

The Peruvian, who speaks English fluently, has had to do a great real more converting than Olsen has. He has torn off the officers' quarters in order to make space for the cargo hatch and fish hold.

He has also had to create more deck space for his tuna seiner-to-be. We were shown the after-deck, 70 feet in length, where Walter was riding up and down on his bicycle between the spare doors, pipes and other loose parts.

Wenzel also mentioned how much had been stripped off the ship on purchase. "Even the ports were gone," he said.

"It wasn't that I minded the expense of buying them," he added, "but you have to find just the right porthole. It has to be brass because iron ones rust."

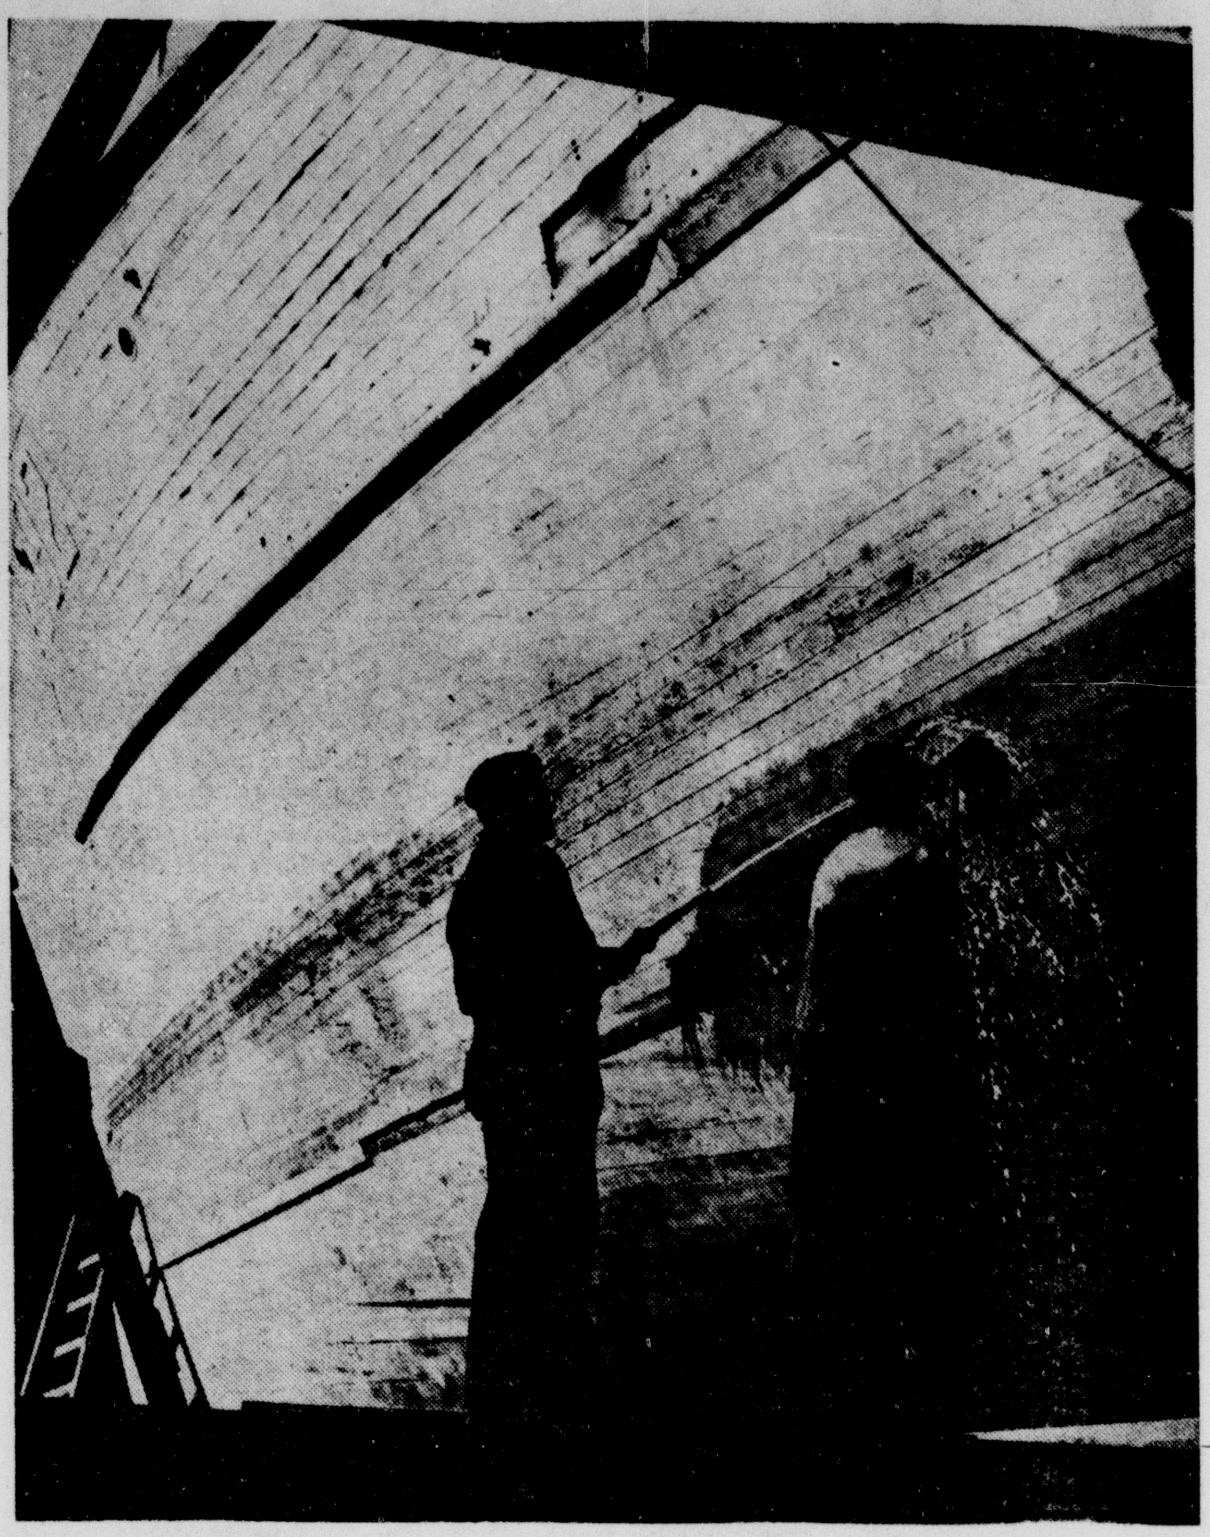

Asked if he would do it over again, Wenzel replied: "I would do it again. I love this boat. I love any boat."

He is a mechanical engineer, three years in the States, and works as chief supervisor at Stouffer Chemical in Richmond. At first Wenzel worked on his ship alone. Then two brothers, Peter and David Wolf, from New Zealand, became partners. They will fish with him off Peru. The Wolfs work as carpenters in Marin.

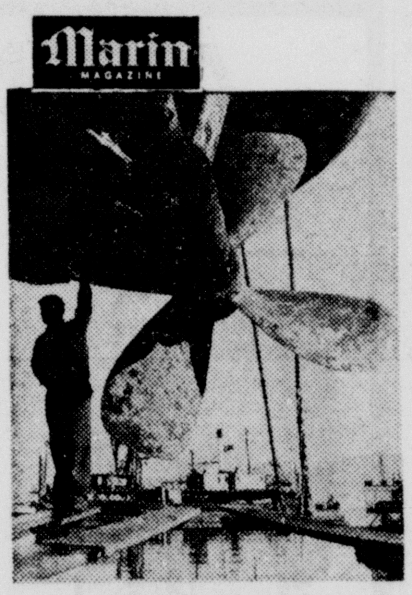

"We work almost around the clock," Wenzel said. He works the 4 a.m. to midnight shift at Richmond, returns home to sleep. At about 7 a.m. he gets up and start to work on the boat. Weekends, too, the men work. The three men do all of the work themselves.

"The most difficult thing about the job," Wenzel said,

THE WHITE PLUME is the poetic name which has been given this one-time sub chaser. Stanley Stock, an ex-Navy man, is converting it for a future career as a pleasure and salvage charter ship in the Caribbean.

Sub Chasers Readied For Their New Jobs

"was to move the mast forward. Another difficult thing was to find suitable engines. The fuel consumpition on the original engines was too much."

The galley is "the living center of a boat," the reddish-faced fisherman said. On the table was a bouquet of flowers. Both Susana and Walter attend Central School.

"We never say how much we pay for things," Wenzel said when asked of the ship's cost, "but, by the time everything is completed, we expect to have about $25,000 invested."

Mrs. Wenzel, who finds living aboard "very exciting," said she would like to sail down to Peru but her husband is not in accord since the ship will be away from ports too long and, in the event the children got sick, this might present serious problems.

"Keeping house on board is very hard," Mrs. Wenzel said. "The dust comes in all the time and the living area must be cleaned every day." At present there is one overstuffed chair, a landlubber's dining table and unsecured stools in the living area.

They will have to be replaced by the ship's furniture, Mrs. Wenzel said.

The Susana has a telephone on board, each youngster has a bike and there are three dogs. The children sleep in a small, snug cabin which was once a gun mount. "I burned out the gun mount," Wenzel said, "to make the cabin for the kids."

Recently the Sioux City, the whaler, was on the Sausalito Shipbuilding Co. ways getting its bottom painted and getting rudder changes for added speed for chasing whales.

CAPT. HAROLD RIDLE of Richmond was supervising the work following his second season as whaling captain—a season which put his ship at the top of the fleet in North America.

Ridle said there are five whaling ships working out of North American — all from Richmond. This year the Sioux City was high boat with 86 whales. Other ships got catches in the 50s and 40s by comparison.

Once fitted with four anti-aircraft guns, the ship now has a whale gun set up in the bow. "The gun shoots a harpoon," Ridle said "that has flukes on it that open up. On the end is a war head.

"Its purpose is to go off inside the whale and kill it. The gun has a three and one-half inch bore and is shot by a shell.

"Whaling is a dangerous occupation," the mild-mannered captain said, "because you haul a ton of explosives on the boat which are used in the shooting."

Whales vary in size, Ridle declared, "and the biggest whale I've ever brought in is 76 feet, about one-half the size of the ship.

He said the season this year ran from April 15 to Oct. 15, and the whaling area is from Point Arena south to Point Sur 200 miles offshore. "We could go to China," Ridle said, "but we have to get the meat in so that it doesn't spoil."

The mammal is hauled into the Bay by fastening it to the side of the ship with a chain.

The Sioux City has two diesel engines and twin screws. Ridle said the boat didn't turn fast enough to chase whales "so we enlarged the rudders to give more steerage."

TODAY YOU RIDE the bridge to spot a whale. "We don't go up in the crow's nest or masthead as they did in Herman Melville's time," he said. The ship is controlled completely from the bridge as against the Navy's telegraphic system with a man in the engine room. The ship has radio, radar, loran, radio direction finder and fathometers.

"There is no whale that this boat can outrun," said the captain. "All whales will outrun this boat. We usually keep them in sight and they get tired and this boat doesn't get tired.

"I've got 3,700 feet of cable on each winch drum and catching a whale is just like catching a fish. You play him, using the winch like a fishing reel. If the whale is fighting pretty hard, we will fool with him and let him pull the boat to tire him. In 1959, a humpback towed me for five hours."

The whales are used mostly for manufactured pet food, and for oil and fertilizer.

Converting a ship is a "handyman's special," Olsen said. "It's a do-it-yourself." He added that he still has much more equipment to install, including pumps and generators.

Olsen was moving heavy crab traps with three other men on the pier one afternoon. The air was salt, the sun sharp and the men were joking with one another, using plain talk.

John Masefield must still be right, we thought, when he wrote "I must go down to the seas again to the lonely sea and the sky . . . " The ships, used in the Atlantic, Pacific and Mediterranean during their subchasing service, will soon be going out again into different parts of the world.

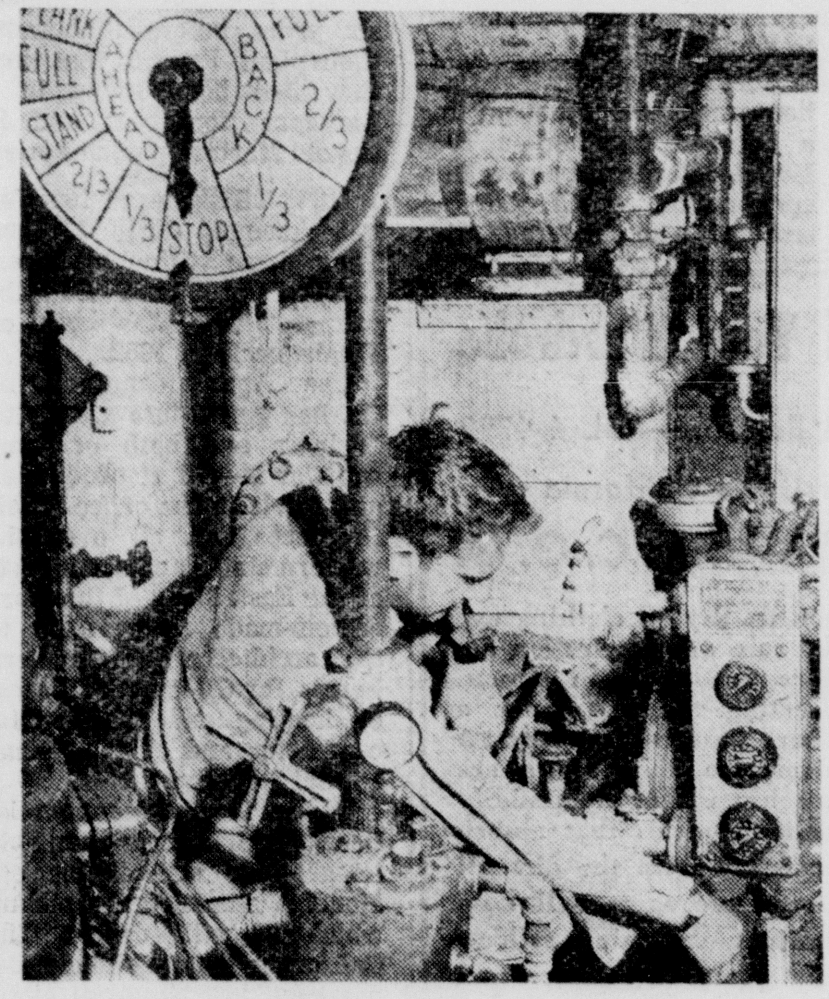

"Anyone has the opportunity to do it himself," the blond man added. "This country has a surplus of boats, but other countries don't."

We looked over from the pier, littered with piles of odds and ends taken off the ship and waiting to be hauled away, and saw a sign on one ship's door: "Secured — Do Not Open." It was a remnant of the Navy—part of the "As is, where is."

Olsen said, "I may come back to the States some day, but I don't think the boat will ever come back."

MRS. LOUISE OLSEN hangs out some washing on the line on the deck of the Kanaloa, the sub chaser which her husband, Danish-born Peder Olsen, is planning to put into service as a cargo craft in the South Seas. The Kanaloa is home to the Olsens, their two young sons, and a crew of five.

CHIEF ENGINEER John Stout checks the engines of the Kanaloa. The engine room is his responsibility as the conversion work proceeds on this and the other sub chasers undergoing similar renovations on the Sausalito waterfront.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

We now have the newest addition to the stereo family; namely, the Reverb Unit. The Reverb Unit is an electronic device which, when properly interconnected in your amplifier, causes the sound passing through it to be delayed and then re-mixes this delayed sound with the original sound. These combined sounds give the listener a reverberation effect such as experienced in large auditoriums. Its purpose is to bring concert hall realism into your living room when playing recordings that do not have enough liveness.

In general, the Reverb Unit does accomplish the big-hall effect. However, it should be remembered that many of our modern LP recordings are no longer recorded in acoustically dead (non-reverberant) studios. Many LP's have some liveness and room acoustics recorded in the record itself so that when played back in your living room they will have a natural sound.

The Sargent Rayment Reverb Unit that we sell has some extra features. The Reverb Unit can be turned off for those recordings that do not require acoustic change. Finally, a selector switch permits use of the unit to add echo on either the right or left channel of a stereo system.

For those of you who have electronic organs and play them through your component Hi-Fi systems, the Sargent Rayment Reverb Unit will give you the cathedral sound you have been looking for.

Visit our sound room and ask for a demonstration of the Reverb Unit with a stereo LP and with one of our Electro-Voice electronic organs. The cost of the Reverb Unit is only $49.50 and will plug directly into any of our new Sargent Rayment Stereo Components.

Marin Manufacturers: From Car Tinkering To Fireplace Building

By HARRY CRAFT

One answer to the question —"What happens to hot rod builders when they grow up?" —can be found in a pair of Marin County dwellers who turned from tinkering with Model A jalopies to manufacturing a Model A of their own.

There are, however, slight differences in the finished products. The one fabricated in the Greenbrae shop of Gil and Adele Davis has no motor, brakes, clutch or transmission. Neither does it spin around corners on oversized wheels to the detriment of pedestrians.

IT WAS INVENTED for the sole purpose of satisfying a demand for a relatively inexpensive fireplace to be used in small homes.

Gil and Adele have operated the Apex Manufacturing Co. since 1955 as a heating and sheet metal plant, but it was not until last year that Gil's brainchild became solid reality and he obtained a Uniform Building Code approval after testing by the Engineering Materials Laboratory of the University of California. They have a patent pending on their invention and, as far as they have been able to determine, they are the sole manufacturers in this state of an approved free-standing metal fireplace.

Actually, the Apex is produced in three models—AS, A and AM. The popular-size Model A stands about 40 inches high on its own hearth and safety pedestal. Models AS and AM are smaller and larger respectively to suit differences in taste or room dimensions.

ALL ARE produced in 11 different colors including black. Most favored shade seems to be a Chinese red. They are trimmed in solid brass.

Screens across the open front are supplied with either a sliding metal curtain from the top of the firebox frame or a rigidly framed unit with closer mesh. The Apex is made with both top and rear flue outlets.

A feature which is particularly desirable from a room-heating standpoint is the multiple-wall construction. The interior firebox is built of three-sixteenths special alloy steel. A 12 gauge top cover and 18 gauge casing with side openings provide both safety insulation and continuous air circulation.

All this might not have taken form if Gil had not had a consuming interest in metal working from the time he remade the body on his first hot rod in high school.

BOTH GIL AND his wife were products of Marin schooling. She was the former Adele Cramer of Larkspur, and Gil's father, George Davis, once taught engineering at the College of Marin.

Gil and Adele had been friends at Tamalpais High School and later, when Gil was in the Merchant Marine, the friendship ripened into romance. She was at the College of Marin and Gil was attending the University of San Francisco when they decided to elope in 1946.

Adele remembers that their honeymoon was spent putting a hot rod together—a 1932 Model B Ford with a new Mercury motor, which they assembled in an old garage. This hybrid served them for three years, she says, when they sold it because a family addition was on the way.

Meanwhile, Gil had gone to work as an assistant in the blacksmith shop of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He took charge of Northwestern's metal working shop in San Rafael two years later. Adele who had studied journalism, wanted to become a sports-writer, but Gil would have none of it.

They bought the Greenbrae property on which their factory is situated a year after they were married, and the building they eventually erected was their home for almost six years before it became their plant. Prior to that time they had been living in a Larkspur houseboat and in the old Marinship dormitories.

NOW THEY live at 103 Walnut Avenue, Corte Madera. They have three children, Chuck, Carol and Ed, the youngest who was born on Armistice Day, 1952.

The Apex Manufacturing Co. has grown into a thriving business and both of them work at it—Gil at production and Adele in the office. Their fireplaces sell all over the western states and some parts of the East. Many of them are custom-made to conform to the architecture of modern homes, for Gil is both a licensed heating and sheet metal contractor and also an ornamental iron contractor.

There is one commercial license he has never been able to get—for one of his old Model A assemblies, a pickup which he still drives. The California Motor Vehicle Department just laughs at him.

He won't give it up, though. The old vehicle has a sentimental value. It reminds him where he got started and how far he has come.

"Why Do I Have So Much Mildew?" — Mrs. C. G. G.

Dear Mrs. C.G.G.:

You can blame it on the humid summer weather and be correct. However, you may be adding to the cause without realizing it. In the hot summer, garments, all fabrics, leather belts, shoes —everything seems to become mildewed. Remember, mildew is a fungus growth. It weakens fabrics without you realizing it when you brush it off so easily.

Here is what you may be doing to add to mildew in your home. You keep the house shut up without ventilation. Then you cook, launder, bathe or shower and add gallons of water to the air in your home. That, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, can cause mildew.

The best way to get rid of dampness and mildew is to ventilate your house often when the air outside is drier than that inside. You might try keeping a small electric light burning in closets that tend to be damp. By all means, dry all clothing wet by rain or perspiration before putting it in closets. Heating the house for a short time will absorb dampness, too. There are machines that dehumidify and chemicals that absorb moisture from the air. All these safeguards will help prevent damaging mildew that comes in summer, and stays in most unexpected places to break your heart when you uncover garments to wear in the Fall.

THIS IS THE DEVICE which watch repairman Frederick A. Brown of James L. Callan and Sons, jewelers, built to test the self-winding mechanisms of watches he had repaired. It both whirls and turns the watches attached to the arms.

A WINDER THAT WINDS SELF-WINDING WATCHES

A winder for self-winding watches might not sound like the most practical device in the world. But Frederick A. Brown, watch repairman at James L. Callan and Sons Jewelers, San Rafael, makes extensive use of the one he put together last month.

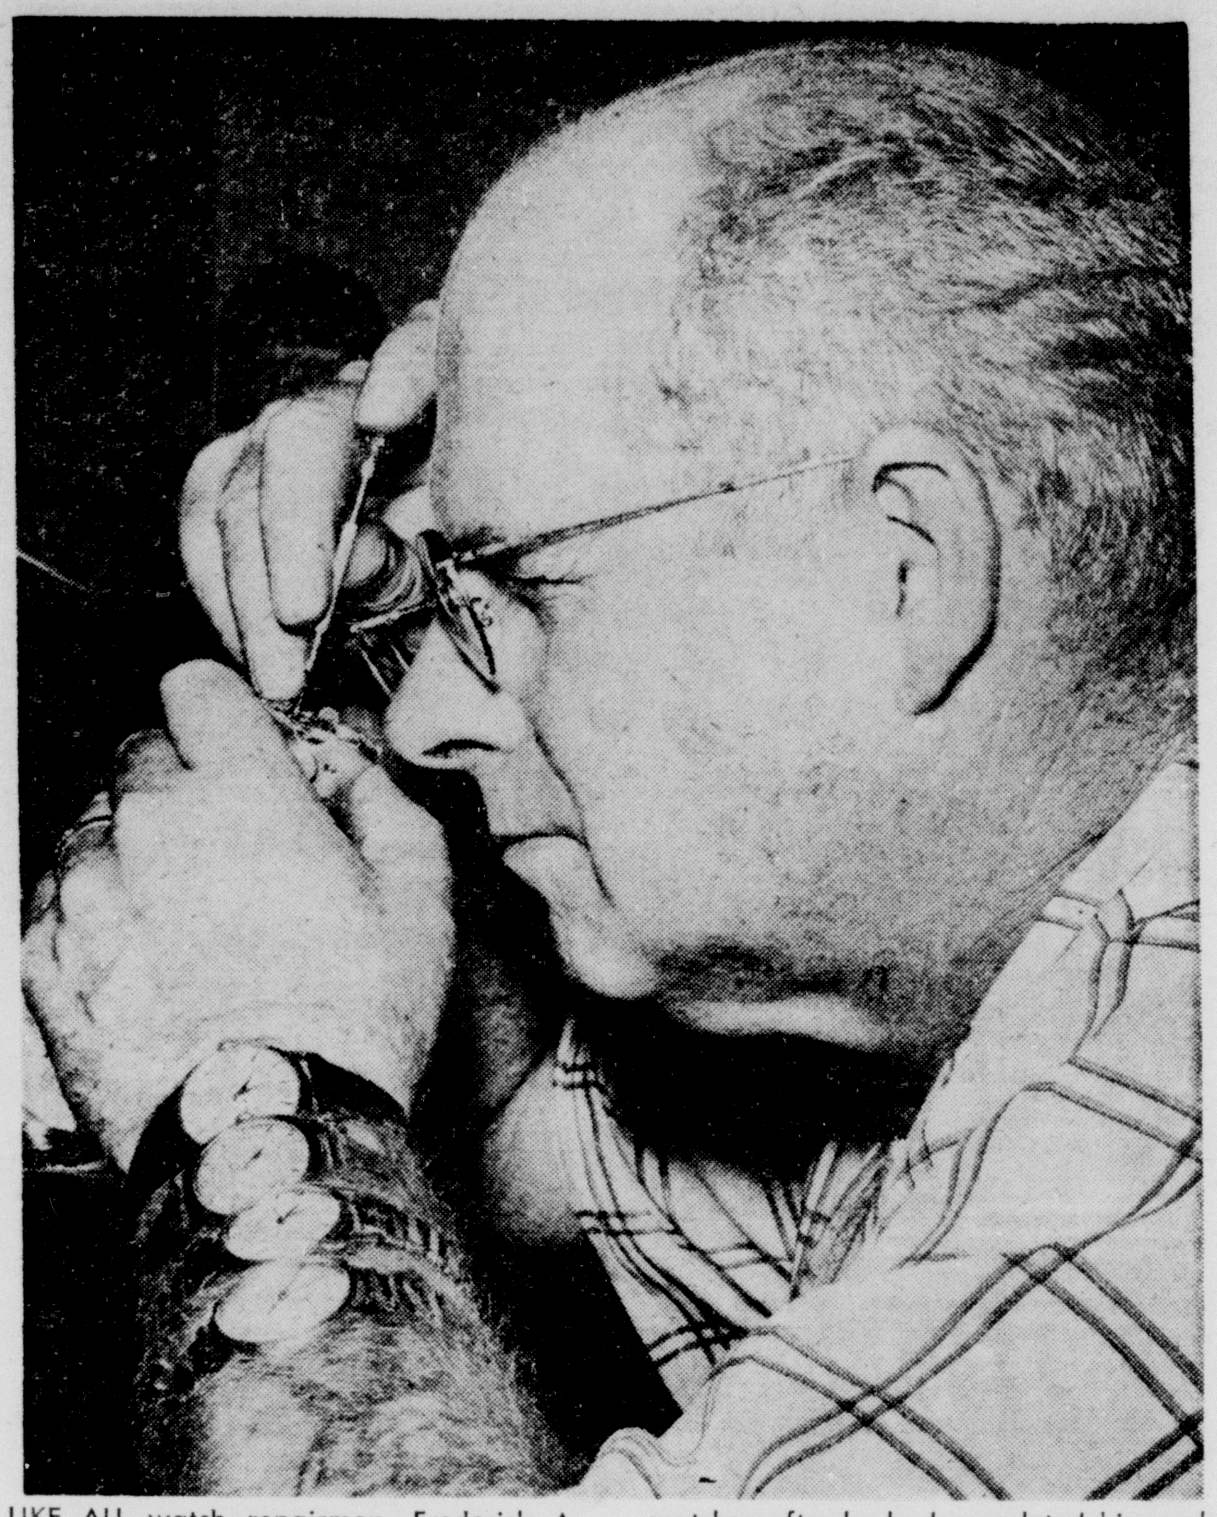

Actually, the machine is designed to check the self-winding mechanisms of watches repaired by Brown to make certain they are in satisfactory working condition before they are returned to th \: owners.

The device spins the watches attached to its arms in a complete circle. At the same time the watches also make a complete turn on the rods to which they are attached. Thus the movement of the arm which would ordinarily wind the watches is completely simulated.

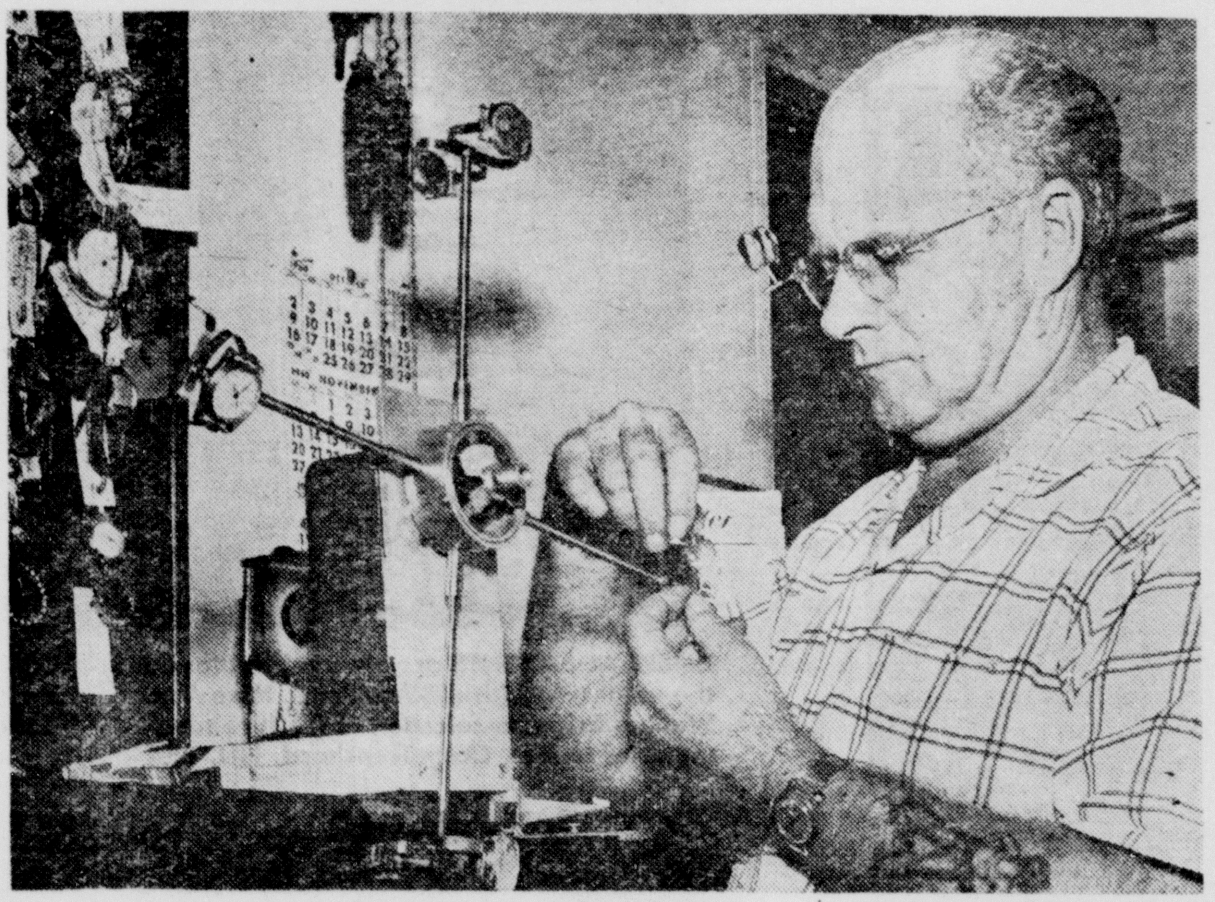

Brown says the parts for the device cost him about 15 dollars. And putting his apparatus together took him about 10 hours.

At present, he adds, there is no such device on the market. But a couple of companies have indicated an interest in manufacturing his machine.

It is, Brown says, a real boon to the watch repairman. And to his customers.

LIKE ALL watch repairmen, Frederick A. Brown of San Rafael had a problem: How to test the self-winding mechanisms of watches after he had completed his work. He solved the problem by putting together a checking device of his own. (Photos by Jim Kean)

WATCH REPAIRER Brown loads up his machine with watches, preparatory to giving them a test whirl. The movement will closely approximate the turnings of the human arm which ordinarily wind the self-winding watch. Brown says that his device, as far as he knows, is the first such machine to be assembled for its purpose. And he puts it to extensive use in his work with James L. Callan and Sons, San Rafael jewelers. "It's going most of the time," he says.

A Busy Day With A Hospital Volunteer

MRS. DONALD L. Walling, one of Marin County's many hospital volunteers, sees her husband off to work and her children off to school before leaving for a morning's work at the hospital. Here she waves goodbye to daughter Linda, 12, seventh grader at Vallecita Junior High; son Dan, 10, fourth grader at Santa Margarita School; and Susan, "going on 9," third grader at Santa Margarita.

CLAD IN HER red and white candy-stripe uniform, Mrs. Walling leaves her home in Terra Linda Oaks for her one day a week volunteer job at San Rafael General Hospital. She is a member of the Women's Auxiliary, organized in 1958 when the hospital became a voluntary non-profit institution and an important cog in the hospital's "machinery."

SHORTLY BEFORE 9 a.m., Mrs. Walling arrives at San Rafael General Hospital. Ahead of her lies four hours of work assisting the regular hospital personnel in a wide variety of duties. She will receive no monetary reward for her toil. But she will be more than amply rewarded by the knowledge that she has aided the ailing.

HERE MRS. WALLING signs in below the names of other volunteers performing similar valuable services. She is ready to begin her duties. (Photos are by Bob Hax, Independent-Journal staff photographer.)

AS A VOLUNTEER at San Rafael General, Mrs. Walling is part of the busy hospital scene. Here she checks the day's menus before delivering them to patients so that they can make their selections for the day.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS are always glad to see the volunteer with the book cart. Here Mrs. Walling brings a selection of fresh reading material to Mrs. Gary Trenchard, left, and Miss Helen Raphael. The cart contains also new magazines and note paper furnished by the Independent-Journal as a community service.

Mrs. Donald L. Walling of Terra Linda Oaks is one of the hundreds of Marin County women for whom hospital work is a satisfying volunteer job. She is a member of the Women's Auxiliary at San Rafael General Hospital, where she works one morning each week. She plans her day carefully in order to be free for her work at the hospital.

Before leaving for the hospital, Mrs. Walling sees her children off to school and her husband off to work. A former star athlete at San Rafael High School, where they met, he is now assistant manager of the San Rafael office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Mrs. Walling is the daughter of Harley O. Teets, former warden at San Quentin Prison.

Mrs. Walling works at the hospital from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. She helps in many ways, all designed to assist the regular staff to administer "TLC" (tender, loving care) to the patients. The San Rafael General Auxiliary recently observed its second anniversary.

As a member of the "Ladies in Candy Stripes," as the volunteers are called because of their red and white candy-stripe uniforms, Mrs. Walling delivers mail and sometimes reads letters to patients. She arranges flowers, runs errands, takes around the book cart, delivers menus for the patients to make their selections for the day. She also helps in the central supply department.

At home in the afternoon, Mrs. Walling has dinner to prepare, sewing and gardening to do, and perhaps phoning in connection with her job as third grade room mother at Santa Margarita School.

Or she may have to start packing for a trip to the family cabin which they built themselves at Lake Almanor. She likes to hunt with her husband, and a new bear rug is the result of a recent hunting trip.

Mrs. Walling's life is a busy one. Like her sister volunteers all over the county, she likes it that way.

BACK HOME after her hospital duties are over, busy Mrs. Walling does some sewing — and the results obviously have the approval of son Don and daughter Susan.

"TIME OUT FOR refreshments," Mrs. Walling calls to her husband and Little Leaguer son, having a game of catch in the backyard at the end of the day.

MRS. WALLING, who shares her husband's favorite hobby, hunting, watches as he sights down the barrel of his gun. They prefer western garb for their hunting trips.

BOOK REVIEWS

Transcript Of U-2 Pilot Trial Provides Fascinating Reading

THE TRIAL OF THE U-2, Translation World Publishers, 158 pages, $1.95 paperbound, $3.75 clothbound. Reviewed by R. D. Layman.

This is the complete transcript of the trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers in Moscow. Translation World Publishers of Chicago, whomever they may be, say this is the most complete version ever issued in English. The official stenogram report was cabled "direct to Chicago from Moscow and published in record time."

How the publishers arranged this coup is not detailed, but arrange it they apparently did. The results are fascinating. The bare transcript grips one as only the greatest courtroom dramas can.

This reviewer was left with two powerful impressions: That the trial was NOT prearranged in detail, although its general course and verdict of guilt obviously were, and that if aerial spying on Russia is necessary, men like Francis Gary Powers are not the kind who should be doing it.

As fascinating as the transcript of the trial is the foreword, written by Prof. Harold J. Berman of Harvard University, whom the publishers describe as "a noted expert on Soviet law." His analysis of the trial is given in a 16-point summary contained in the press blurb mailed by the publishers with the review copy received by the Independent-Journal. It is worth quoting in full, since it is a succinct outline of the points made in Berman's challenging analysis:

FRANCIS G. POWERS
Gripping courtroom drama

"1. There are important elements in the case which give it lasting importance.

"2. Powers did not tell his captors too much about U.S. intelligence activities.

"3. The U.S. behaved unconventionally according to a 'black-letter' international rule when it admitted it commissioned a spy but the U. S. S. R. on the other hand observed this rule.

"4. Aerial incursion is a far more serious threat to international stability because it can be mistaken for an air raid.

"5. An apology for the flight by the U.S. was necessary for Khrushchev because of what he stands for in Soviet politics — increased rationality in Soviet internal politics, and legality in social and political order.

"6. While charges against the U.S. in the trial were unfair to the U.S., in a sense they were relevant to the trial.

"7. Berman ventures a 'guess' that Mr. K issued orders that the case was to be handled strictly in accordance with Soviet law.

"9. Efforts of the Powers relatives DID have some effect on the Soviet judges; their mission did not entirely fail.

"10. The defense could have only been properly conducted by a Soviet lawyer, but a U.S. lawyer's presence would have been some help.

"11. Strictly and technically speaking, Powers had no right to a U.S. lawyer, but that did not prevent his being granted the privilege of one.

"12. The U.S. complaint of not being able to see Powers was weak in view of the possibility of granting hostile advice to Powers.

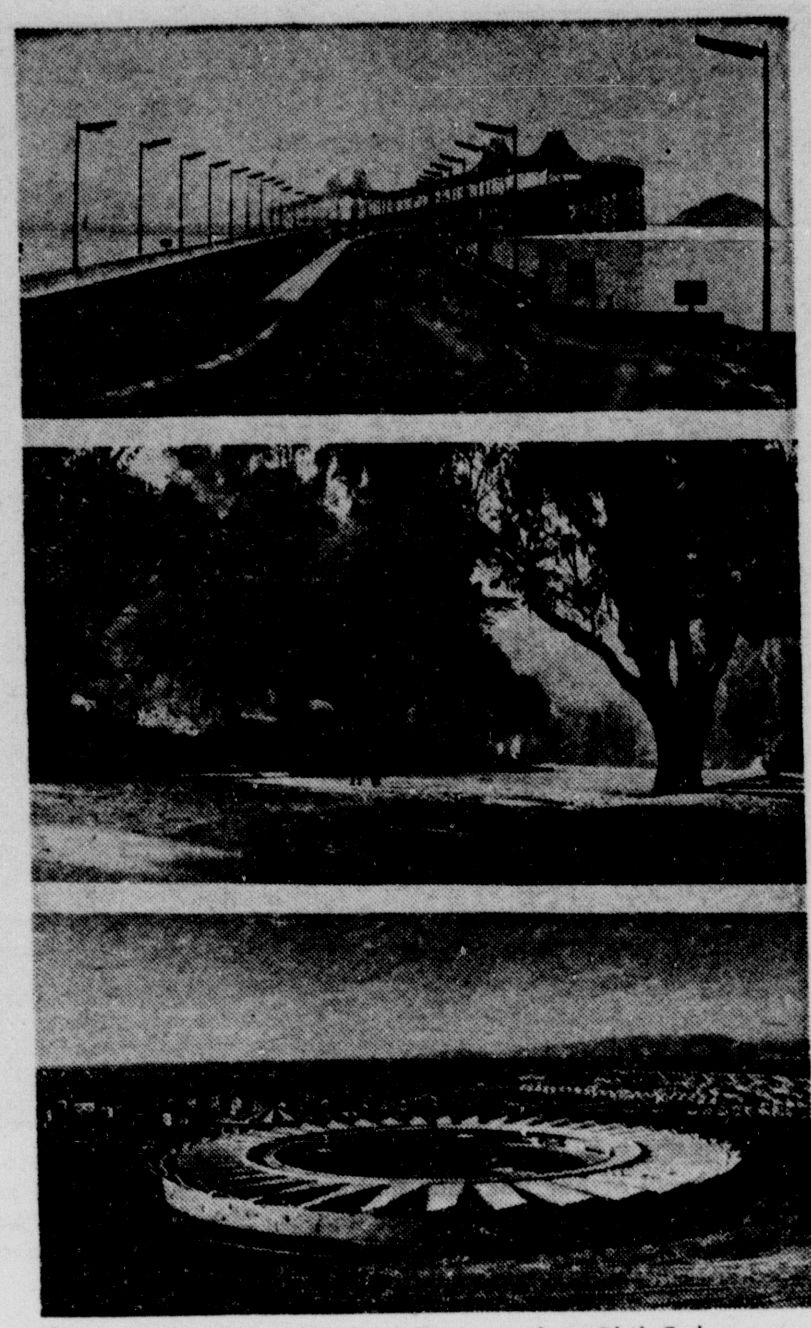

"13. While the trial reflects a tremendous amount of reforms in procedure, there are still weaknesses.

"14. It is to the best interests of both the U.S. and U.S.S.R. that the principle which excludes military aircraft from the skies of a country be observed, and a single standard of international law be adhered to.

"15. We need to define the lower limits of outer space over which satellites can fly without committing an international delinquency.

"16. If agreement is reached on this or if the U.S. recants on the flight, Powers will be sent home sooner."

The book contains a 24-page section of photos which are far superior to those received from Associated Press or United Press International radio transmissions during the U-2 incident or the trial.

THE FACE OF SAN FRANCISCO by Harold Gilliam, Doubleday and Co., 255 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This book is certain to provide endless enjoyment to anyone who knows and loves, or aspires to know and love, the colorful San Francisco scene.

STEREO NOTES

New Soviet Piano Phenom Has Music World Agog

By JOHN SUNIER

SCHUBERT: SONATA IN D MAJOR, OP. 35 — While stereo recordings are the main interest in this column, there are some important works being released which either for various reasons are not available in stereo or wouldn't gain very much from stereo reproduction. This disc is one of both.

The former because it was recorded in the Soviet Union, where although advanced stereophonic techniques are being used, the exported tapes have thus far been only mono. The latter because although stereo definitely does made a difference in the reproduction of a single instrument, it isn't as much as with multiple performers.

Monitor Records is a small New York company specializing in excellently-engineered mono recordings of folk music of Eastern Europe and Russia, recorded in the countries of origin. They also have a fine list of classical works, mainly performed by such world renowned Russian artists as the Oistakhs, Rostropovich, and Sviatoslav Richter.

Richter wowed San Francisco audiences at a recent piano recital, on his first U.S. tour. Critics the world over are agog over this new new musical personality, claiming that he has to be heard to be believed.

Heard he can be, on this disc in a sensitive, lyrical performance of the Schubert Sonata in D Major. Richter hates recording and thus not much of his work is available on records. Monitor has nine waxings by him, more than any other company. While some reviewers have decried the poor sound quality on many of Richter's releases made in Russia and hoped he would record many discs in this country with better sound, I find the quality of this recording perfectly acceptable.

rival of dusk, some of us youngsters would summon the energy to accompany my country cousin and the dogs into the fields to bring the cattle and sheep in. Then my uncle and some of the men would climb reluctantly from their chairs and make their way to the barn to perform the evening chores.

Afterwards there would be homemade ice cream with the kids vying for the privilege of turning the freezer handle under the light of a kerosene lamp that seemed to us children of the city far more wonderful than the electric lights of our own homes.

By then the smaller children would be nodding off to sleep, or fretting and fussing a bit as they fought off the sandman.

Reluctantly, one by one the families would start to make their departure. One final thrill remained: Our aunt invariably presented us with a loaf or two of her crusty, fragrant, home-made bread to take home with us.

Sausalito Scenes For Her Sister City

PHOTOGRAPHERS CATCH SPIRIT OF THEIR CITY

Sausalito is no exception. You begin to know its people as you watch them repair their boats, stroll the sidewalks and argue and discuss at small restaurants and bookshops along the main thoroughfare.

Sausalito has been captured by three Marin photographers in a black and white exhibit which is on display this weekend in the City Hall at 727 Bridgeway.

The exhibit closes tomorrow, and will then be sent to Vina del Mar, Chile, Sausalito's sister city, as part of Sausalito's People-to-People exchange program.

The late Dulce Duncan Ray, well known Sausalito photographer, began the project. Work was completed by Ted Castle with assistance of Michael Bry and Georgia Longini. Photographers Castle and Bry are of Sausalito; Miss Longini lived there until recently but now resides in Mill Valley.

There are 71 photographs. Before being sent to Vina, each one will be captioned in Spanish and a brief legend, "Sausalito Story," is being prepared to accompany the display.

Introducing Children To World Of Music

For six years the Symphony Guild of Marin has sponsored the Music for Minor series, an adventure in sound, rhythm and melody for the young people of Marin.

The fortunate young people the thus enabled to experience the joy of discovering how delightful sounds are made. Big sounds, little sounds, exciting, tinkling, romantic sounds become their friends. They have met and said "pleased to know you" to "papa bear" sounds like those from the tuba, bass, and horns; "mama bear" sounds from the cellos and violins, and "baby bear" sounds from the percussion instruments.

FROM THE entertaining Music for Minor programs the children have come to recognize these instruments of the orchestra by shape, color, and sound.

By dramatic demonstration and by participation that children love they have discovered the varied rhythmic beats of the world of music. They hear and feel the rhythm of the soldiers marching, the wolf chasing Peter, the wind howling, the dancers waltzing, the sea rising.

Under the sponsorship of the Symphony Guild thousands of young people over the past six years have been fascinated with their introduction into the world of music. Three different programs have been offered each spring at San Rafael High School and each program has had to be given twice to accommodate the enthusiastic crowds.

How did this program initiate? After the establishment of the Symphony Guild Orchestra in 1952 the Marin Unit of the San Francisco Junior League in cooperation with the Marin County superintendent of schools and the consultant in music education in Marin County schools presented the first Music for Minors Series in the spring of 1953. The object was to increase a child's enjoyment of concert music by giving him a little familiarity with the way it is produced. Members of the Symphony Guild orchestra played for this program, demonstrating the woodwind section and string section. All programs were presented at The Lark theater on Saturday mornings and played to packed houses of children absorbed in what they heard and saw.

IN ITS second year Irene Pritzker wrote a script about Symphony Guilda and led the children through the land of Orchestra. Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Youth Orchestra, and Barry Mineah, choral director, acted as commentators. In 1955 the Symphony Guild undertook the sponsorship and direction of the programs and presented Music for Minors in cooperation with the Marin County superintendent of schools. Each show has been carefully and dramatically designed to arouse and stimulate young people's enjoyment of music. Directing and participating in many of the programs have been top artists in Marin including Barry Mineah, choral director; Art Eisler, pianist; Anne Halprin and Dick Ford, dancers; Lucienne Dimitroff, artist, and Hugo Rinaldi, conductor of the Youth Orchestra.

One of the highlights was artist Lucienne Bloch and pianist Art Eisler at easel and piano challenging each other to respond visually to musical ideas. Art Eisler also played "colored" music as different colors flashed across the dark stage which drew "oohs" and "ahs" from the children. Barry Mineah's performance of all parts in "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," a one-man opera, is also well remembered as a comic joy. Warmly received were the San Francisco Boys Choir under director Mady Bacon of Berkeley. The "Western Opera" was a delightful child's parody of "Gunsmoke" featuring cowboys and guitars and performed by the Episcopal Boys Choir of Mill Valley.

The Symphony Guild is planning an even livelier Music for Minors series for this winter—the ninth consecutitve such season. But, first, to assure the continuation of its work in introducing young people to the wonderful world of music, the guild must realize its goals in its current membership drive.

The guild begins its new season of symphony concerts for adults next Friday at 8:30 p.m. at Marin Catholic High School, Greenbrae.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

An entire community, Homestead Valley, has decided to become impressario for a "Bach to Mozart" series of three musical evenings planned for the whole family.

According to Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, president of the Homestead Valley Improvements Club, which will sponsor the series in association with many Marin music lovers, the parties will be held Friday evenings, Dec. 30, Jan. 27, and Feb. 24, at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Programs will start at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt has been named general chairman for the venture, and a subscription drive is under way with tickets being sold at the Redwood Book Shop, the Greyhound bus depot, and the Marin Music Center, all in Mill Valley.

Tickets are also being sold by residents of the community.

Mrs. Goldschmidt explained that the audience will be seated cabaret style at candlelit tables, and refreshments will be available during intermissions and after the program.

Started as a "grass roots" movement among music lovers who wanted to hear really fine music more often, the enterprise also has the advantages of giving gifted artists more opportunity to be heard.

Just such evenings were enjoyed by audiences who had the privilege of listening to court-employed musicians like Mozart, and it is hoped that this relaxed, informal atmosphere can be recreated in Marin as it has been at Nepenthe, Big Sur, and elsewhere by the same musicians who will play for this series.

The "Bach to Mozart" players, as they call themselves, were formed after the final season of the San Francisco Little Symphony when several members decided to organize such a group.

The group chose Big Sur to try the experiment of a "back to the people" kind of music which permits performers and listeners to share musical experiences.

Gone were the barriers of footlights, formal wear, regimented seats and formal programs.

Some of the players are presently members of the San Francisco Symphony. Their total number on any given evening depends upon the music to be played, but all in all there are about 15 who take part in the program.

Appearing in the first all-Mozart program will be Everett O'Bannon, violinist; Helen Stross, cellist; Margaret and Ray Fabrizio, harpsichord and flute players respectively; and Raymond Duste, oboist, who is also spokesman for the group.

Included in their first program will be Mozart's duo for violin and viola, quartet for flute, quartet for oboe and "The Glass Harmonica."

ONE OF THE performing artists in the Homestead Valley Improvement Club sponsored music series will be Everett O'Bannon, violinist. Like most of the other performers, he plays with the San Francisco Symphony. He also performs with the Capella di Musica Chamber Group of San Francisco, the Marin Arts Quartet, and the Berkeley Quartet. The opening program of the series is set for Dec. 30 in Brown's Hall at Mill Valley.

THREE HOMESTEAD Valley Improvement Club women begin their planning for the decor that will transform Mill Valley's Brown's Hall into a suitable place for relaxed listening when the organization's "Bach to Mozart" fine music series begins Dec. 30. Left to right are Mrs. Edwin Mamura, decorations chairman and skilled in arranging Japanese settings; Mrs. Hughes Call and Mrs. Joseph Moore. (Independent-Journal photo)

Peninsula's Popular Theater Troupe Is Going To School

By DEE DEE ABRAMSON

The "Little Red Shack" on Tiburon's Main Street has been a beehive of activity lately . . . giving rise to neighboring residents' oft-repeated question: "What's going on in there with all those people going in and out during the week and on Sunday?"

The "Little Red Shack" is the rehearsal hall of the Cove Players, the Tiburon Peninsula's little theatre group that annually produces three plays in the Tiburon Playhouse for public viewing.

But the continuous activity in recent weeks has resulted in a play that the public will never see . . . It was presented for the critical viewing of the Cove Players membership only as presented at a general meeting this week.

The story behind the inception of the Cove Players dramatic workshop on stage and acting techniques, called the "Cove Workshop," began with the Cove's stage manager, William J. (Bill) Carter, and his idea to train novitiates in the art of set design to fill the ranks of helpers needed to produce the sets for the three major productions.

From this idea evolved the conception of an over-all workshop of seminars and practical demonstrations in all forms of the theater arts to enlarge the ranks of experienced Cove Players to participate in the plays.

Cove Workshop students attend lectures and seminars in the rehearsal hall at 112 Main Street in Tiburon on the average of twice a week. The practical demonstrations of the subject under discussion centered around the first one-act play, so as to combine theory with practice neatly.

The first workshop presented Thursday a full scale one-act play, "The Valiant," complete with properties, make-up and lighting, with Randall Grieg as director and Margaret Grieg as producer. In addition to twice-a-week rehearsal coaching, the workshop members meet once a week for instructiton in voice, pantomime, make-up, lighting and related stage techniques.

Joan McKinney of Tiburon, an award winner from the English Royal Dramatic Academy in elocution, conducts the group through a course in voice control and projection. Joan has played with the Arena Stage in Washington, D.C. and locally in "The Crucible" for Sausalito Little Theater. She is a veteran actress in the Cove Players productions, appearing most recently as the lead in "Chalk Garden."

The elements of costume design is discussed and taught by John Shockley of Mill Valley. He has worked with both Sausalito and the Tiburon groups, having designed and executed the costumes for "The Crucible" in the Sausalito Little Theater, and the Cove Players "An Inspector Calls."

LaVerne Cash of Tiburon, Cove Players veteran of 21 plays, is in charge of the beginners' instructiton in make-up opportunities in all types of character and straight roles.

Pantomime expression and stage movement are demonstrated by Bernard Bragg of Kentfield, who studied with Marcel Marceau and is a professional television headliner on NBC. He currently teaches at the Mara Alexander Gilbert's Actor's Lab in San Francisco.

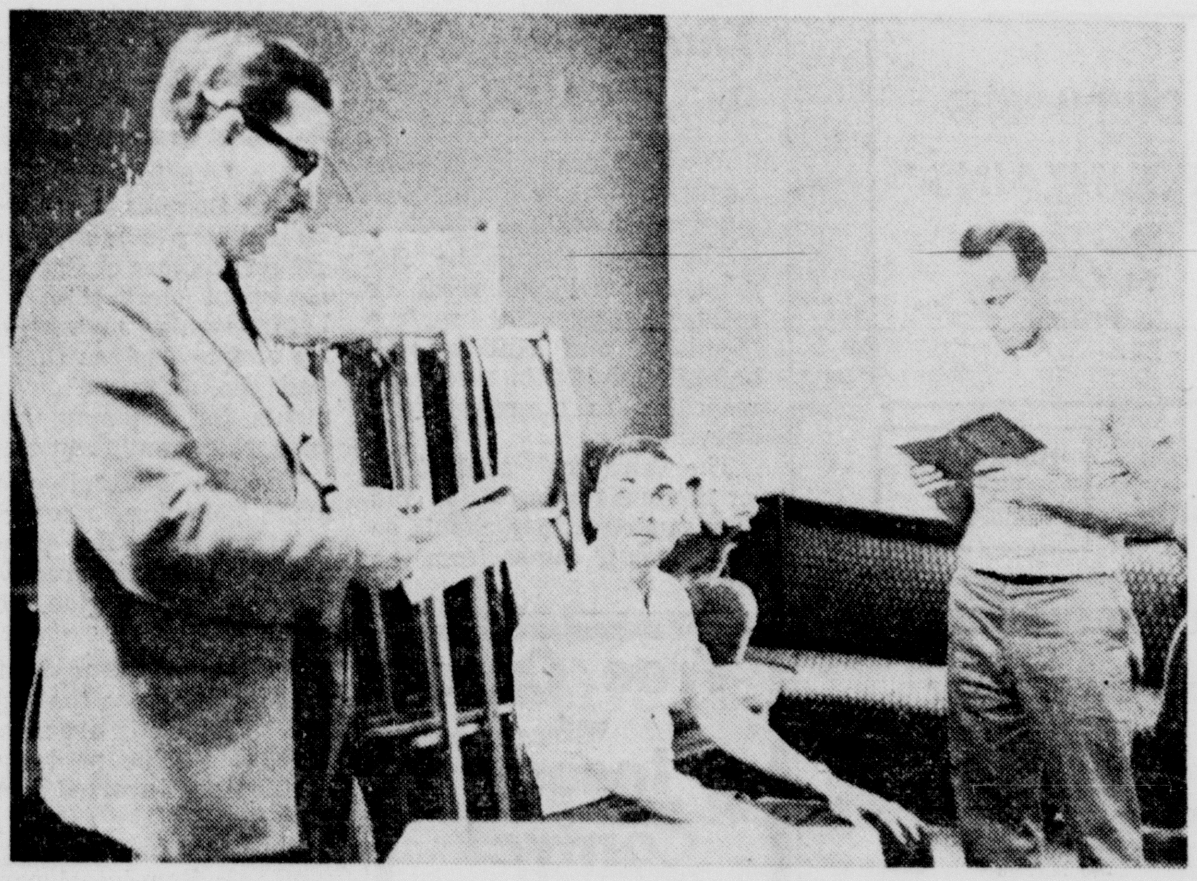

Cove Players president Arny Schultz points out that the workshop is open to all comers, providing they pay the five dollar membership fee in the Cove Players parent organization.

Present plans call for adding other prominent names in Bay Area little theater circles to the staff as the work progresses.

The results of the intensive practicing and instruction will be evident when the Cove Players present their winter production of "My Three Angels," which opens at the Tiburon Playhouse Dec. 2. It will run on Friday and Saturday nights for three successive weekends.

That's the accomplishment of John Shockley of Mill Valley, who is in charge of the wardrobe department for the Cove Players' production of "My Three Angels" which opens Dec. 2 at the Tiburon Playhouse.

Shockley has succeeded in designing and assembling the costumes for the coming Tiburon attraction at a total cost of—just $22.50.

SHOCKLEY HAS had no specific training in the costume area. But he has demonstrated a creative talent in the field. His work on the costuming of the Cove Players' earlier "An Inspector Calls" won him applause—particularly from those with knowledge in the field of costuming.

Handed an equally challenging job in the preparations for "My Three Angels" was set designer Vince Porcaro, experienced in the theater field with such groups as San Francisco's Actors Workshop, Encore Theater, and Sausalito Little Theater.

The play, by Sam and Bella Spewack, enjoyed a lengthy run on Broadway, and will play for three weekends in Tiburon. Dan Totheroh is the director and Lucille Shreve the producer.

THE CAST includes Nelson Shreve, Norma Christian, Catherine Mersereau, Ted Daum, Larry Allen, Tobey Casey, Edith Schneider, Bob Salvas, Jim Menlove and Charles Auerbach.

William Carter is the technical director.

Paint Plays 2 Roles In Kitchen

One is protection. Every time food is prepared and dishes are washed, moisture escapes into the air. Unless the kitchen walls have an adequate protective coating, this moisture seeps through the walls and causes serious damage. A coat of quality paint provides this necessary protection against moisture.

The second role paint plays in the kitchen is, of course, beauty. Paint is the easiest and most economical way to provide a cheerful, colorful kitchen decor.

Before painting, the surfaces must be clean. All dust and grease should be removed with soap and water. Any very smooth, glossy areas should be roughened up a bit with sandpaper to provide better adhesion for the new coat of paint.

Because all kitchen surfaces must be easily washable, the wisest paint choice is quality enamel. Semi-gloss enamel for the walls, and gloss enamel for woodwork and frequently handled areas such as cabinets, will provide durable surfaces that will withstand frequent scrubbings.

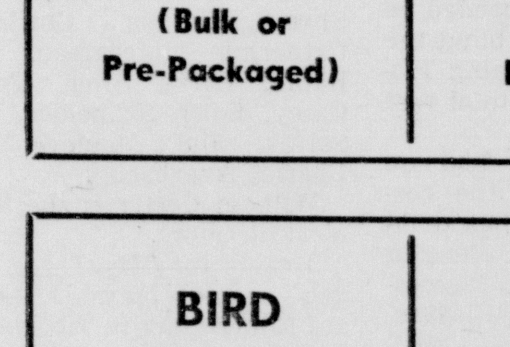

The ceiling, however, is one area that is best painted with a flat paint. Flat paint reduces the glare from reflected light. When painting the ceiling, keep in mind that a colorful ceiling is as eye-catching in the kitchen as in any other room. If the ceiling is quite high, consider using a deeper shade of your wall coloring. For a novel effect, use a completely different hue that harmoinzes with the rest of the color scheme.

Enameling the inside of cabinets and drawers is a good sanitary measure because it makes these surfaces much easier to clean. Use your bright accent color for the most attractive effect.

When choosing your kitchen color scheme, it's advisable to emphasize the cool blues, blue greens and blue grays. The warm corals, yellows and reds have the effect their name implies: they make the room seem warmer. Use these warm, bright colors for your accesories and trim.

Before you put your paints away, bring out your brooms, dustpan, garbage pails and other miscellaneous equipment. A quick coat of enamel will make these items as colorful as they are useful. Breadbox and cannisters can be enameled too, so they will match your new color scheme.

Your kitchen linoleum can also be included in the paint job. If it is worn in spots, or if it is not the color you desire, give it a coat of one of the quick drying latex floor enamels or the floor and deck enamels. If the linoleum is brand new, preserve it with a protective coating of clear floor varnish. Before applying a coating to new or old linoleum, make sure it is clean and free of wax.

THIS SET OF "plywood playmates" offers great fun for little tykes, whether they are in the mood for splashing in water or digging in sand. Plans for this "Sea 'n' Sandbox" set are available free from the Douglas Fir Plywood Associates at 1119 A Street, Tacoma 2, Wash.

WHEN THE SWIMMING pool half of the "Sea 'n' Sandbox" set is empty, it can be inverted over the sandbox to form a patio table.

Something For Little Ones Who Like To Splash, Dig

There's a period in the lives of all of us when there's nothing quite so satisfying or engrossing as rooting around in a sandbox or splashing intently in shallow water.

Cats are a sandbox problem and plastic pools have a high mortality rate when they're exposed to shovels, tricycles and lawn mowers, not to mention their young occupants.

With all this in mind, the editors of Family Circle magazine have come up with a couple of "plywood playmates" they call a Sea 'n' Sandbox. One is a pool, the other a sandbox. And they're both just great for small fry.

San Francisco landscape architect Douglas Baylis designed this easy-to-build, economical set. Editors of Family Circle spent more than a year before coming up with a series of five designs that satisfied the magazine's requirements for economy, appearance, safety and fun potential.

The Sea 'n' Sandbox set is made from three-quarter inch exterior type fir plywood, which is manufactured with a fully waterproof glue. Cost is under 50 dollars.

An added bonus in these units is that once the digging and splashing is over for the time being, the pool can be drained and inverted over the sandbox to make a fine patio or terrace table and keep the sand safe from interlopers.

A free construction plan is available from the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., 1119 A Street, Tacoma 2, Wash. Ask for the Sea 'n' Sandbox.

Three Coats Of Paint Advised

For best results in finishing fir plywood, as with any wood, apply three coats of paint.

The first should be flat paint, enamel undercoat or resin thinner. Fill surface blemishes and sand smooth before applying the next coat, according to manufacturer's directions.

The third coat, applied after the surface has dried and been sanded lightly, should go on just as it comes from the can.

THIS DESIGN OF 'mums and fall foliage is November's most popular floral gift, according to the Florists' Telegraph Delivery which created it. The service says the arrangement can be ordered by telegram and will be prepared almost identically and delivered by the local florists almost anywhere in the United States. It marks the first time in history such a service has been available. Florists also note that the arrangement is particularly keyed to Thanksgiving decor.

Plants For Holiday Decor

Don't look now, but the holiday season is hard upon us. And speaking of such things, how are you fixed for seasonal decor?

A note from the California Assn. of Nurserymen this week reminds us that there is no surer means of instilling the holiday spirit than with a living plant. And this holds true whether it's a centerpiece centerpiece of chrysanthemums for the Thanksgiving table or a tubful of Holly at the front door for Christmas.

Taking first things first, namely Thanksgiving, your number one choice for decor might well be the afore-mentioned chrysanthemum. 'Mums come in the colors that speak of fall, and their gaudy blooms stand out like beacons marking the season. The potfuls of color which any nurseryman can show you are long lasting even in the stuffy atmosphere of a heated house.

The bright berry clusters of pyracantha are ideal in every respect. For Thanksgiving, we'd rely on orange-berried varieties, since the color is more seasonal. As Christmas approaches, call on the brilliant, red-berried pyraancta to show the way. You can use them inside with the nursery cans suitably hidden in a large bowl or encased in colored paper. Outside in the garden and on the deck, the container is less of a problem. You won't even see it for the color.

Also for Christmas, your nurseryman offers Holly in full berry; and Aucuba (either the Green Leaf aucuba or the Gold Dust plant) which sports big, shiny and showy red berries. Last, but far from least, are the many fine conifers, some of which make ideal "living Christmas trees."

We'd like to remind you, too, that none of these is to be used for the holidays only and then discarded. Set them out in the garden and they will give you holiday decor for years to come.

Window Gardening Can Be Satisfying

They may be old-fashioned, but window boxes are far from forgotten by today's gardener.

Color at the window is just as nice to look out on now as it ever was—and maybe more so when you consider that our views in general are less sweeping than they were in a less crowded age. Marin has been more fortunate in this respect than many other areas.

If you've ever though of planting a window box, put your thoughts into action this month and enjoy the results when winter's worst weather sends you indoors. Not that winter's worst is very bad in Marin. But you'd have to be pretty far gone on gardening not to seek shelter at least once in a while.

Your neighborhood nurserymen can recommend plant material with which to start a window garden. He no doubt can show you some redwood containers that might be used at the window, too. If not, haul out the hammer and saw and knock something together yourself.

One thing you'll find at nurseries now to brighten your winter are Pansies. You can count on their bright and shining faces almost from the time you set them out. And having them close by a window enables you to pick bouquets whenever you get the whim. Violas are the logical companion in such a planting.

Window boxes on the sunny side can be ablaze with color this winter if you plant them with Calendulas. Waste no time in setting them out if you want to get color this year. Plant them in pots now if the window box isn't ready. You can plant them pot and all when the time comes.

Pelargoniums are also ideal for sunny sites while Fuchsias are partial to shade, as are lush Tuberous Begonias. Cascading varieties are most effective in window boxes.

Just plant a boxful of Fairy Primrose and you will share their cheer through many weeks of cool weather. Or try a handful of Cyclamen plants. You can buy them in blooms and keep them that way for months on end. They don't know the meaning of gloom, no matter what the weather man says.

Bulbs are ideal in window boxes. The earliest Narcissus bloom around Christmas and these set off a steady string of bulbs in bloom. Why not plant them all in pots and move them out to your window garden as they come into bloom?

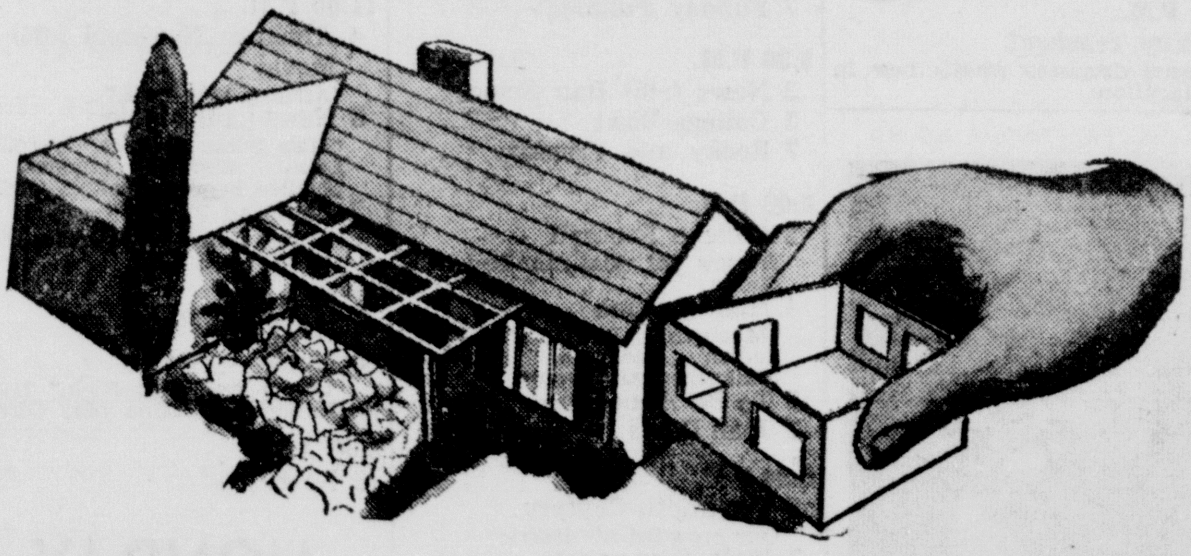

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

- Separate Begonia tubers from their stems as the latter dry off. Wash soil off the tubers and store them until next year in a dry place.
- Cut back Chrysanthemums as they go out of bloom. No need to wait.
- Fallen leaves and most faded annuals can be composted. The exception is diseased material such as mildewed Dahlia.
- Fuchsias may be bloomed out, but they are not to be pruned until after the first of the year. February is the usual month.
- November is the ideal month for planting evergreen shrubs and trees. Many bareroot trees will be available soon.

FOOTBALL, parades and music will mark television's contribution to the Thanksgiving Day observance next Thursday.

Thanksgiving Day football games are fewer than they once were, but Bay Area stations will be carrying no less than three pigskin contests on Thursday. KPIX-TV (Channel 5) will carry the Green Bay Packers vs. Detroit Lions National Football League grudge battle starting at 9 a.m. KGO-TV (Channel 7) will air not one but two holiday games—the Texas A and M vs. Texas collegiate game starting at 11:45 a.m., and the Dallas vs. New York pro American Football League tilt beginning at 2:30 p.m.

As for the parades, early-risers can see a "Thanksgiving Parade Jubilee" from 7 to 8:30 a.m. on KPIX. Live pick-ups from three big holiday spectacles—the Macy parade in New York, the Gimbel parade in Philadelphia and the Hudson parade in Detroit — will be included. And on KRON-TV (Channel 4) starting at 10 a.m. the Macy parade in New York will be given a complete coverage.

And the music: Starting at 4 p.m. there will be a showing of an hour-long tape of a concert given by Leonard Bernstein and his New York Philharmonic in West Berlin in September. Bernstein will conduct from the piano while acting as soloist for the performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C Major. And at 5:30 p.m. KRON will carry a musical variety show entitled "No Place Like Home." Starring Jose Ferrer, Rosemary Clooney, Dick Van Dyke and Carol Burnett, it is planned as a light-hearted look at man's attempts through the ages to make a better home for himself.

ALSO WORTHY of your special attention during the coming week:

Tonight's debate on "The Nation's Future" on KRON at 9:30 p.m. Two authorities on population problems, Sir Julian Huxley, British scientists and former director general of UNESCO, and Jacques Mertens De Wilmars of Belgium, chairman of the United Nations Population Commission, will argue whether international birth control is needed.

Sunday's best looms as the premiere show in the new "Genius" series to be devoted to outstanding world personalities with Ghandi as the initial subject at 12:30 p.m. on KRON; a two-hour presentation of "Macbeth," starring Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson at 6 p.m. on KRON; and the first of two musical specials scheduled for this season by Emmy winner Harry Belafonte on KPIX at 10 p.m.

Tuesday the NBC Project 20 crew will be back with another look into the colorful past, "The Ragtime Years," featuring Hoagie Carmichael. Starting time is 10 p.m. on KRON.

Wednesday there will be Sean O'Casey's "June and the Paycheck" as "Play of the Week" on KTVU-TV (Channel 2) at 8 p.m.

And on Friday the "Bell Telephone Hour," KRON-TV at 9 p.m. will offer Helen Hayes and Farley Granger plus an abundance of musical talent in the life and music of Peter Ilyitch Tchaikovsky. And at 9:30 p.m. on KPIX the "CBS Reports" team headed by Edward R. Murrow will take a hard look at the plight of our migratory farm workers.

YALE ROE of Sausalito, sales executive with KGO-TV (Channel 7), has been back East where along with the likes of Federal Communications Commissioner Robert Lee, writer Rod Serling and critic Robert Lewis Shayou, he appeared before the Milwaukee County Radio and TV Conference as a speaker and panelist.

In his talk Thursday Roe stressed that active commercial support of cultural programs is the key to better TV, and paid tribute to firms which have shown the courage to sponsor shows of the caliber of "Close-Up," "Eyewitness to History" and "Expedition."

Roe noted that it is financially impossible for the television industry itself to underwrite the total economic burden of providing adequate public service programming, and urged more businesses to divert a portion of their TV expenditures into shows that provide an intellectual stimulus and satisfaction.

Finally, Roe observed that many of the very people who are clamoring for more public service programs do not even watch the ones now available.

He put it this way: "Don't write your local program manager for presentations of the Chicago Symphony if you're not going to watch it after he spends tens of thousands of dollars buying that videotaped series. . . . Don't go around telling everyone we ought to have more shows like 'Meet the Press' when weeks go by without you watching the outstanding national and international figures that appear on that program. . . . The point is you cannot have it both ways. You cannot say you want one thing, when you really want something else."

IT IS THIS coming Friday night that KQED-TV (Channel 9) turns a portion of its Drama Festival time period over to the Sausalito Little Theater for its melodrama, "East of the Rockies," Wurlitzer organ and all. The fun will start at 8:30 p.m.

And we goofed last week and were a week early when we announced that Marinite Dick Ford would have Tiburon tots as his guests on his "Hop, Skip and Dance" KQED show. It will be next Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

AS A TRIBUTE to the late Clark Gable, KGO-TV (Channel 7) has shifted its 11 p.m. movie schedule and will run Gable films all next week instead of Esther Williams pictures as originally planned.
